HERSHEY IN RACE; HORNER OUT

LAWYER PICKED AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Slate Makers Agree on Downstate Man.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Gov. Henry Horner decided tonight not to seek election for a third term and Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, 54 years old, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, was chosen by his party leadership to make the race for governor in his place.

Harry B. Hershey.

Hershey's name was placed before the committee after the governor, Mayor Kelly, National Committeeman P. A. Nash, and other principal party figures had debated the choice of a successor to the governor in intermittent conferences since noon yesterday.

Mayor Kelly was present when Hershey was approved by the committee. His name was presented by a Chicago committeeman, Arthur W. Sullivan of the 10th district, who acts as attorney for the Cook county organization. Emphasis was thus placed on the harmony aspect of a choice of a downstater to succeed a Chicagoan.

Slate Makers Return to Work.

Having brought about the selection of the head of the ticket, the slate makers returned to work at the executive mansion, and the state committee recessed until 2 p. m. tomorrow. At that hour Mayor Kelly said he hoped the remainder of the slate would be approved. He refused to speculate on choices for the other offices.

Charles K. Schwartz, chairman of the tax commission, read to the committee an 800 word statement from the governor, who wrote feelingly that his physicians had told him that a third term campaign might be fatal for him. He thanked all who had helped him during his administration which still has ten and one-half months to run, and, in closing, delivered a short Democratic pep talk.

Mayor Kelly revealed to newspaper men that Chairman Hershey was the slate makers' second choice. They tried first to induce Judge Otto Kerner of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to leave his lifetime job on the federal bench and make the race for governor.

Kerner Declines to Run.

Judge Kerner, twice elected attorney general of Illinois, was strongly importuned to permit his candidacy, but finally declined. The judge came to Springfield, listened to the arguments and talked with the governor, but did not change his mind.

Hershey was not present when the committee which he heads approved his candidacy, but he appeared a few minutes later to thank the members in a heartfelt manner.

"I don't know," he said, "whether I will measure up to what you gentlemen seem to think of me, but I hope I will be able to justify your faith. If God wills I should ever become the governor of Illinois, I promise you a decent, honest administration.

Hershey praised the "fine ideals for which Governor Horner and President Roosevelt stand," and pledged a campaign which would take him into "every highway and by-way of the state."

Stelle May Be on Ticket.

Asked about the selection of a candidate for lieutenant governor, Mayor Kelly said, "The choice will not be revolutionary." He seemed to feel that if Lieut. Gov. John Stelle was picked, Stelle would accept.

Stelle, who has said repeatedly he would run for governor if Horner retired, would not comment upon his possible future action, until the rest of the slate had been announced.

Reports from the executive mansion conferences were that Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes would be picked to run for a third term.

Barrett Not Yet Slated.

Less certainty appeared to attend the third candidacy of Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Rumors that he would not be reslated filled the air, and several candidates were mentioned as his successors, among them

THE FIRST STEP TO RECOVERY

RUSSIAN DRIVE CHECKED AFTER 8 DAY BATTLE

Fight Hand to Hand on Isthmus Front.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIIPURI, Finland, Feb. 9.—The thunder of Russian guns, which for days has been making the windows in Viipuri [Viborg] rattle, died away tonight, and the latest attempt of the Red army to break thru the Mannerheim line in the Summa sector began to ebb.

Against this point the Russians have hurled battalion after battalion, regiment after regiment, and division after division for the last eight days. At different times the Russians succeeded in fighting their way into Finnish trenches.

Hand to Hand Combats.

But on each occasion hand to hand combats were fought as Finnish reenforcements arrived on skis, scrawny cavalry horses, or on sleds, auto trucks, and buses. The Russians eventually were repulsed.

[Other dispatches last night said that the Finns, because of a temporary exhaustion of ammunition, had resorted to bayonets and hand grenades in fighting the Reds at some points along the Mannerheim line. Finnish officials denied an assertion made in a Moscow communique Thursday night that Russian forces had captured 13 forts of the line.]

The Mannerheim line, according to reports in Viipuri late tonight, was held after a ceaseless attack, during which the Russian losses were unusually heavy. The official report spoke of many thousands killed.

Finnish Losses Heavy.

Finnish losses also were heavy during the battle, and tonight railroad communications between Viipuri and points to the west were interrupted to permit hospital trains to rush the wounded to the main hospitals in the interior.

Russian forces launched attacks against other sectors of the Mannerheim line today. At Punnusjoki, a small creek which connects Kirkkojarvi with Punnusjarvi, Red troops advanced after heavy artillery fire.

They were supported by 60 fighter planes which machine gunned Finnish reserve troops who rushed forward to support the fighters in the line. But, like previous attacks, the mass formation of the Russians melted under withering machine gun fire. Finnish riflemen meanwhile picked off soviet officers and political commissars who advanced with the Red troops. The Russians lost 700 men and 12 tanks in the engagement.

Another Strong Attack.

On the eastern side of the isthmus, at the Taipale river, the Russians began another strong attack. Finnish artillery at this point has been greatly strengthened.

The Russians were obliged to cross almost two miles of open fields before they could reach the frozen river, on the other side of which are the Finnish front line trenches.

Of the first regiment which advanced to attack yesterday morning, not a single man reached the river. The survivors retreated under the artillery fire of the Finns. The attacks continued today.

[In another action, as reported by other sources, the Finns strengthened their positions at Kuhmo, on the central northern front. Far northern advices said the Russians had been repulsed in an attempt to capture the arctic town of Hoyhenjarvi, about 60 miles south of Petsamo. Finnish patrols, it was said, then penetrated the Russian lines and reached Salmijarvi, rich nickel mining area midway between Petsamo and Hoyhenjarvi.]

The Moscow Version.

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 [Saturday] (AP).—The soviet Russian military communique reported early today that Finland had suffered heavy losses in unsuccessful attempts to recover lost positions on the Karelian isthmus. The communique follows:

"Feb. 9—Nothing of importance at the front. The enemy's repeated attempts to recover lost positions in the Karelian isthmus were repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy. Soviet airplanes successfully bombed military objectives."

2 U-Boats Sunk by a Destroyer, Britain Boasts

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Great Britain's admiralty in a terse but prideful communique tonight announced that a single destroyer had sunk two German submarines while they were attacking convoyed merchantmen. The admiralty did not say where the attack occurred nor did it identify the destroyer.

The communique said: "The admiralty announces that two U-boats have been destroyed by one of his majesty's destroyers. It is not the normal practice of the admiralty to announce sinkings of U-boats as they occur, but an exception has been made on this occasion in view of the fact that two U-boats were sunk by one destroyer whilst attacking a convoy."

40 U-Boats Believed Sunk.

The destruction of the U-boats brought to at least 40 the unofficial estimate of Germany's total submarine losses, or probably one-half of the undersea craft she was believed to have had at the start of the war.

Disclosure of this double blow to German U-boat strength came at the end of a day in which British and neutral coastal shipping felt the fury of German aerial bombs in the fourth series of attacks in 12 days. One German plane was shot down by British fighting planes, two others damaged, and still more scattered out to sea.

Germany broadcast the official German news agency's claim that eight British or British convoyed ships had been sunk or made total losses, along with the admission that one German plane was lost.

This raised to 40 the total of ships which Germany claims have been sunk in the four raids, with four German planes acknowledged to have been shot down. The ship total has been vigorously disputed in London.

Scottish Freighter Sunk.

"Enemy action," whether by planes, mine, or torpedo, sent a Scottish freighter to the bottom of the sea off the northwest coast, however. The ship, the 5,406 ton Chagres of Glasgow sank after an explosion, with two of her crew of 64 missing.

Two other ships off the British east coast sent S O S messages during the afternoon, but whether they were damaged was not made known. They were the Clintonia, 3,106 tons, and the Lord Darling, 256 tons.

The German plane which the royal air force defenders caught and downed was a big black Heinkel which swung daringly over the Firth of Forth, British naval base, and dropped a bomb thru the 102 ton dredger Foremost. Two of the dredger's crew of nine were feared lost when their lifeboat, pulling away from the crippled ship, swamped.

See German Raider Crash.

As the Heinkel turned loose its guns on the Foremost, a British patrol of three swooped on its tail, guns spitting streams of bullets.

A few minutes later residents of North Berwick, near Edinburgh, saw the big raider crash in a field. The crew's fate was not made known.

Two other German "bomb blockaders" registered a direct hit on a coastal steamer off the Scottish coast, shattering her hatches, damaging her bridge and machine gunning the crew. The ship, not named in official reports, managed to limp into port.

British Hurricane fighters, racing to the scene, fired bursts into the two raiders before they disappeared in a cloudbank. Official reports said it was believed both were damaged.

Torpedoed 10 days ago, the 8,096 ton Netherlands tanker Ceronia limped 400 miles to a British port despite a hole amidships "big enough for a train to pass thru." A crewman, describing the voyage, said the two ends of the ship were held together only by twisted wreckage.

PRESIDENT TRIES NEW MOVES TO END HOSTILITIES

Welles Selected for Overseas Survey.

Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Washington bureau of The Chicago Tribune, will deliver his weekly capital comment over W-G-N Sunday evening from 7 to 7:15.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—President Roosevelt today launched a peace offensive on a wide front, designed to bring the European war to a close and reestablish world peace founded on a new international economic system and reduction of armaments. To implement this program the President made the following moves:

1. He instructed Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to proceed to Great Britain, France, Italy, and Germany and gather information on "present conditions in Europe," presumably with special reference to the progress of the war, the attitude of the several belligerents toward an armistice and the terms on which the belligerents would be willing to make peace.

2. Thru Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Mr. Roosevelt announced that informal conversations between the United States and neutral governments have been initiated with reference to the eventual peace organization, presumably for the purpose of developing the basis of neutral intervention in the war settlement, under the leadership of the United States.

3. The President instructed Myron Taylor to leave for Rome Feb. 17 to assume his duties of special envoy to the Vatican to collaborate with Pope Pius on peace undertakings, in accord with Mr. Roosevelt's Christmas eve letter to the Pope.

Bullitt in Capital.

Bringing the latest behind the scenes news and gossip of the war, American Ambassador William C. Bullitt arrived by the Atlantic Clipper from Paris late today and was rushed immediately to the White House. Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to Great Britain, already is in this country at the call of the President for advice on his peace offensive.

The President's dispatch of Mr. Welles to the belligerent governments as a "peace envoy" parallels President Woodrow Wilson's commission of the late Col. Edward House to execute a similar mission during the world war. House failed to find a basis for peace between the allies and the central powers, but he negotiated the secret agreement of 1916 between Mr. Wilson and Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, providing that the United States would enter the war if necessary to save the allies from defeat. Critics on Capitol hill immediately dubbed Welles Roosevelt's "Col. House."

Roosevelt Issues Statement.

Mr. Roosevelt announced the Welles mission at his press conference in the following formal statement:

"At the request of the President, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles will proceed shortly to Europe to visit Italy, France, Germany, and Great Britain. This visit is solely for the purpose of advising the President and the secretary of state as to present conditions in Europe.

"Mr. Welles will, of course, be authorized to make no proposals or commitments in the name of the government of the United States.

"Furthermore, statements made to him by officials of governments will be kept in the strictest confidence and will be communicated by him solely to the President and the secretary of state."

In response to questions the President said that this move is not prompted by any intimations from the belligerents that peace soundings might be productive of results.

Favors Single Expert.

He said he has no reason to be dissatisfied with the existing sources of his information in the American embassies at the belligerent capitals, but he felt it would be helpful to have the observations of a single expert surveying the entire field.

So 'The Count' Counts on Lady Jurors Again

To his friends—and Sergt. John Hanrahan—Arthur Potocki is known as "the Count." The title was conferred not by virtue of noble heritage but for the suave and skillful manner in which Potocki has eased himself out of trouble.

Last August Sergt. Hanrahan arrested Potocki in a stolen car which contained four cases of oil "The Count" had stolen. In two private garages Potocki had rented on the south side police found 33 automobile tires, 8 batteries, 15 cases of oil, 20 grease guns, and 2 "jacks," all taken in burglaries.

"Sure I stole the stuff," Potocki told Sergt. Hanrahan. "I'll admit it to you and tell you where the loot is, but I'll never put my confession on paper. If I don't put anything in writing I can make a monkey out of you in court."

Great Hand with Women.

And "The Count" did. Sergt. Hanrahan recalled yesterday how Potocki insisted that his lawyer—the public defender—get as many women on the jury as possible.

At his first trial, on Nov. 9, on a charge of car theft, there were nine women jurors. Potocki, testifying in his own behalf, pictured himself as a poor orphan who never had a chance. A glib talker, his manner was humble, his approach contrite. "The Count" blamed his misfortunes on an unidentified friend. It took the jurors just 50 minutes to return a not guilty verdict.

Then came the trial of the burglary charges on Jan. 14. There were eight women on the jury. Again Potocki, who is 25 years old, with a slight, round-shouldered figure, made his sympathy appeal. This time it took the jury 15 minutes longer, but the verdict was acquittal.

"He was just a poor kid," one of the women jurors told Sergt. Hanrahan after the trial. "He was misunderstood."

Faces Bigger Rap Fearlessly.

Sergt. Hanrahan's misunderstood boy, "The Count," was held to the grand jury yesterday on two charges of burglary and one of automobile larceny. South Chicago police arrested him early Wednesday after he had looted a notions store at 8411 Stony Island avenue and a fruit store at No. 8656. Near by was the inevitable stolen car.

"Well, Count," remarked Sergt. Hanrahan, as he talked with Potocki in the detective bureau lockup, "this is a tougher rap than the others. Are you going to beat it?"

Potocki laughed confidently.

SERUM FOR SICK BOY TAKEN 78 MILES IN 78 MINUTES BY RAILROAD

The Zipper train of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad made an unscheduled stop yesterday in Watseka, Iroquois county, to deliver serum being rushed from Chicago in an effort to save the life of a 12 year old boy.

He is Melvin Odle of Milford, who was in the Iroquois hospital at Watseka in critical condition from an infection of the thigh following an injury. Dr. Earl Roberts, the attending physician, telegraphed the Lederle laboratories in Chicago.

The laboratory placed the serum on a train. Seventy-eight minutes later it was in the hands of the hospital attendants at the Watseka station, 78 miles from Chicago.

HIS 42 YEAR OLD MUSTACHE LOST BY A SLIP OF LIP

Independence, Mo., Feb. 9 (AP).—L. F. Blackburn's upper lip was exposed today for the first time since the Spanish-American war.

"Want your mustache clipped?" asked a barber.

"Yes," replied Blackburn.

"Z-z-z-z-z," went the electric clipper. Off went half of the 42 year old mustache. Too late Blackburn realized what had happened. The other half had to go.

The red faced barber was all apologies—but Webster was with him. Blackburn, county superintendent of schools, realized too late that "clip" means cut off, not trim.

Pleads to Join the Army; Reason? His Nagging Wife

LONDON, Feb. 9—Saying he would rather spend the rest of his life in the army than another week with his nagging wife, a conscientious objector today pleaded with the conscientious objectors tribunal to speed his calling to the colors. His wish was granted.

Red Assailants Thrown Out of Youth Meeting

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Two youths who attempted to introduce a resolution "condemning rape of Finland by soviet Russia" were forcibly ejected tonight from the American Youth congress.

Stephen McArthur, who said he was a Young Democrat from Kearney, N. J., and a member of a bloc attempting to get the congress to expel alleged "communist front" organizations, was the first ejected.

McArthur interrupted an address by Jack McMichael, ministerial student of Quitman, Ga., and chairman of the congress. He was ruled out of order and was hustled down the aisle as delegates booed and hissed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Present.

The second person removed by congress attendants and labor department guards was Peter M. Tropea, another Young Democrat of Jersey City, N. J.

The meeting was held in the labor department auditorium and was attended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has defended the organization against charges that it was Red dominated.

As the two youths were ejected, Archibald B. Roosevelt, described as a grandson of Theodore Roosevelt and a member of the anticommunist bloc, arose from a seat near Mrs. Roosevelt and stalked out.

Jackson Defends Congress.

The congress, under a heavy fire of charges that it is communist-controled, heard an address by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson in which he derided those who view the youth congress as a symbol of plottings against government.

Jackson suggested, however, that "before you look so wistfully at any other form of government, let's see what we can do with this American government."

President Roosevelt, who is scheduled to address the congress tomorrow, hinted today he would express his views on the question whether the congress should expel "Red front" groups from membership. The anticommunist bloc has drafted an expulsion resolution and hopes to obtain consideration of it.

HITLER USES 'I' ONCE IN EVERY 53 WORDS; ROOSEVELT ONE IN 100

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP).—Adolf Hitler refers to himself on an average of once in every 53 words in a public address, while Benito Mussolini uses the pronoun "I" once in 83 words.

President Roosevelt ranks third, she disclosed, with one "I" in every 100 words. Winston Churchill's average was one in 169, Premier Daladier's one in 234, and Prime Minister Chamberlain's one in 249.

once, taking a secretary but no staff, and will be gone as long as he deems it necessary to accomplish his mission. When asked if his emissary would interview Hitler the President said he does not know.

Welles has had a checkered career in the Roosevelt administration. In 1933 he was sent as ambassador to Cuba and was credited with compassing the fall of President Machado from power. Subsequently he intrigued in the creation of Cuban governments to such an extent that he became obnoxious to the Cubans and was recalled and given a job in the state department, eventually becoming undersecretary and relieving Mr. Hull of the burden of official entertainment.

Worked on Neutrality Zone.

His most recent accomplishment was the establishment of the Pan-American neutrality zone extending several hundred miles from American shores which the belligerents have declined to recognize and observance of which the Americans have failed to enforce.

Democratic leaders generally praised the President's move, tho Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] of the senate and Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex], both members of the foreign relations committee, declined to comment. Many Democrats as well as Republicans were suspicious or critical. Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] said he has no objection to peace talks but dislikes "roving ambassadors," every one of whom "has got us into trouble." He wanted no "Col. House in this administration."

"The United States will not be minding its own business if it sends Undersecretary of State Welles to Europe as a roving listening post," said Senator Hiram W. Johnson [R., Cal.]. Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] said the Welles mission is similar to that of Col. House in 1915.

"President Wilson tried that, too," he said, "and without much success. Mr. Roosevelt is taking at least one page from the Wilson foreign policy every day."

Hull Issues Statement.

The conversations with neutrals were announced in the following statement by Mr. Hull:

"It is announced by the secretary of state that in view of existing hostilities in many parts of the world, in view of the effect of such hostilities on the neutral nations of the world, and in view of the evident desire of all neutral nations for the eventual restoration of world peace on a sound and lasting basis for all nations, diplomatic conversations of an informal character have been commenced with neutral governments and will probably be continued with all neutral governments.

"It should be emphasized that these conversations involve no plan or plans, but are in the nature of preliminary inquiries relating to a sound international economic system and, at the same time, world-wide reduction of armaments. Matters involving present war conditions are not a part of these preliminary conversations. These conversations can, of course, be extended to belligerent nations in so far as they involve these two common problems of future peace."

Interesting, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP).—A government spokesman said tonight that President Roosevelt's announcement of the forthcoming European mission of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles was "very interesting," but added it was too soon to make additional comment because the "purpose of the trip still is not clear."

Britain Promises Help.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—A semi-official British statement said tonight United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles would be given all available information on his visit to Britain.

"Mr. Sumner Welles can be certain of receiving a cordial welcome as the President's representative and he may be sure of receiving all the information which the British government can provide him in order to enable the President to form a clearer view of the European situation," said the statement.

Italians Are Skeptical.

ROME, Feb. 9.—Reports from Washington linking the trip to Europe of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles with President Roosevelt's attempt to explore the possibility of joint action by neutral powers to find a basis for negotiation among the belligerents were received with undisguised skepticism in some Italian quarters. Unofficial Italian circles stated they knew nothing about Welles' trip except what foreign news agencies had reported. With memory of President Roosevelt's peace appeal last April, which was addressed only to Italy and Germany, still fresh in their minds, some Italians were inclined to regard this latest development in American policy with coolness.

France Also to Assist.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—News that President Roosevelt is sending Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on a visit to glean information in France and other European countries was received with interest in official quarters here tonight. The French government will place at Welles' disposal all information available, it was said, and will assist him in fulfilling his mission.

TURKS OUST 100 NAZIS; SABOTAGE PLOT IS CHARGED

Declare Germans Planned Reign of Terror.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 9 (AP).—Turkey today struck her second blow in as many days against Germans, her allies of the world war, in swift action which authoritative sources laid to exposure of a widespread German plot for sabotage and terrorism in the near east.

One hundred German technicians were ousted from their jobs in the war and naval ministries. They were given 48 hours to quit the country a day after Turkish occupation of the German owned Krupp shipyards on the Golden Horn.

Thirty Germans in the Krupp works were supervising completion of two submarines for the Turkish navy.

Charge Terroristic Plot.

Authoritative sources said the Turkish government has uncovered evidence of a network of Nazi agents thruout the near east ready on a signal from Berlin to sabotage communications and precipitate a reign of terror.

Under the circumstances, the sources asserted, it was impossible to permit the Germans to remain in strategic positions, especially since the technicians were completing work on submarines which Turkey would expect to use if, as many fear, she should be drawn into war in the spring.

Prompt action by the government was particularly necessary, the informants said, because of Turkey's recent disavowal of neutrality for a policy of mere nonbelligerency and her increasingly close relations with Britain and France, with whom she has mutual assistance pacts.

Turks Defend Action.

Reports circulated that Germany would lodge a strong protest to Turkey. However, Turks said their nation was within her legal rights. They declared that the actions of yesterday and today perhaps were only the forerunners of further discharges of Germans and confiscations of German owned property in the interests of the state.

[A Berlin dispatch said the German press ignored the Turkish moves. Informed quarters said that official relations between the German and Turkish governments need not be affected, since the discharged technicians were under private contracts.]

Military sources in Istanbul reported that evidence has reached the Turkish government that soviet Russia is pushing construction of fortifications on her Caucasian frontier with Turkey to defend her oil fields from any British-French-Turkish attack. Several hundred thousand workers have been drafted by the Red army for the building of defense lines and military roads, these reports said.

German Expert Advises Reds.

Particulars of the Russian fortification work included the information that Dr. Fritz Todt, who has been credited with a part in the construction of Germany's Siegfried line, had visited the Russian side of the Caucasus frontier in an advisory capacity.

Moreover, soviet consular authorities repeated a warning to mariners in mine fields off soviet Black sea ports that it now is obligatory to take on Russian pilots within Russian waters. Turkish military authorities have stated that any attack on the soviet oil fields, second only to America's in world production, would be supported by fleet action, probably against the big oil port of Batum.

Reverberations of Germany's war with Britain and France at the same time concerned leaders in southeastern Europe and elsewhere in the near east, where Britain and France have concentrated powerful armies, reported to total 500,000 men.

Rumania Creates New Ministry.

Rumania attempted to keep a balance in her delicate position between the two sides in the European conflict by creating a new ministry under Ion Cristu.

Cristu, a Bucharest foreign office official formerly in charge of economic negotiations with other countries, will attempt the difficult task of satisfying conflicting economic demands of Germany and the empires.

Germans have complained that Rumania's mobilization measures were keeping 800,000 men from producing goods Germany needs. Instead of reducing her armed forces, however, Rumania has ordered technically trained officers and noncommissioned officers to join the colors April 1 and youths qualified to become officers to join the army for training by next Thursday.

Greece's premier, Gen. John Metaxas, sent one of his closest collaborators, Undersecretary of State Nicoloudis, on an airplane dash to Egypt for a conference with leaders at a time when the commanders of the British and French forces in the near east are in Egypt inspecting troop concentrations.

Gen. Maxime Weygand of France returned to Cairo tonight after a day spent in the Suez canal zone with Lieut. Gen. Archibald P. Wavell of Britain and Egyptian staff officers.

Whether there was any connection between the simultaneous visits of the French general and Greek undersecretary to Egypt was not clear.

Granted Divorce

Mrs. John Lincoln Porter.

Mrs. Doris Kimball Porter was granted a divorce from John Lincoln Porter Jr. yesterday after a hearing before Judge Oscar F. Nelson in which she charged desertion.

Their wedding, a candlelight ceremony in Christ church, Winnetka, was a social event of Nov. 2, 1935. Mrs. Porter testified her husband left her on Feb. 6, 1939. Her father, T. Weller Kimball, 333 Leicester road, Kenilworth, corroborated her testimony. Mrs. Porter is living at home.

Porter did not contest the suit. Mrs. Porter's attorney, Junius C. Scofield, said she had waived alimony and an out of court property settlement had been made.

DENY 3 FOREIGN DIVISIONS WILL FIGHT IN FINLAND

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Reports that one Polish, one French, and one Canadian division are going to Finland were denied today. At the same time it was said that only the Finnish legation could answer whether British volunteers are going to Finland.

Such volunteers, which Finnish circles say are negligible in numbers, go as individuals, and arrangements are made by Finnish authorities, with the British assisting only to the extent of granting exit permits, it was explained.

A spokesman for the Poles said Polish officials in Paris have discussed with the British and French the question of sending volunteers to Finland. Any suggestion that a large organized body of troops had gone or was going was said to be inaccurate. The spokesman said negotiations are progressing toward the release of certain Polish refugees in Lithuania to aid the Finns.

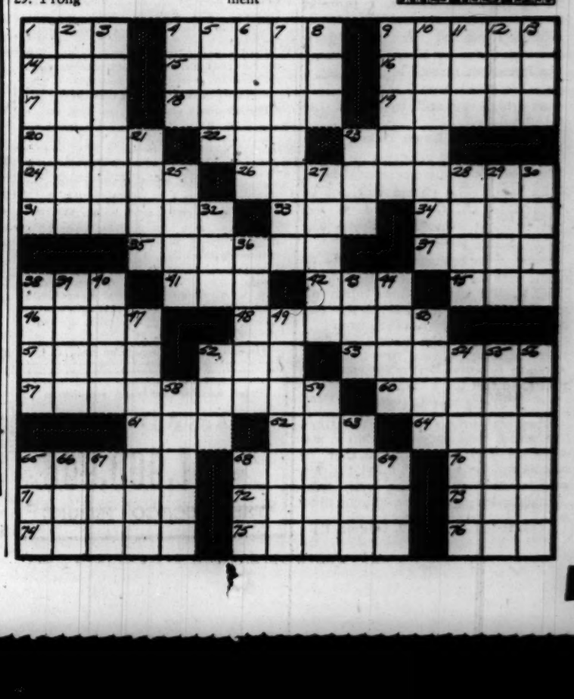
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, FEB. 9, SOLVED



FEAR FINN LOAN MAY OPEN CASH BOX TO EMPIRES

Action Is Postponed on Credit Bill.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Charges that the Roosevelt administration's bill to provide additional loans to Finland, China, and other countries will be used as a precedent to extend credits to Great Britain and and France, delayed senate action on the lending measure today. By unanimous consent, however, it was agreed to vote upon the bill at 5 p. m. next Tuesday. The bill is expected to be passed.

Senator J. A. Danaher.

The bill increases the revolving credit limit of the Export-Import bank from 100 million dollars to 200 million dollars for the purpose of financing exports of agricultural and manufactured products. Credits limited to not more than 20 million dollars may be extended hereafter to any one country.

Danaher Warns of Trend.

Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.] told the senate that a movement already is under way to convince American farmers that their products are not being purchased by Great Britain and France because of the cash and carry restrictions of the 1939 neutrality act. The next step, he said, will be the undertaking to repeal the neutrality law in order to provide credits for the empires.

Senator Danaher charged that the United States navy is assisting and coöperating with the British navy in patroling the so-called neutrality zone and cited testimony by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, to support his contention. He quoted Admiral Stark as testifying before a senate subcommittee:

"Had the Germans in mind sending any submarines to our coast with the possibility of perhaps getting supplies from our coasts, I think we have completely eliminated that possibility."

Quotes Stark on Columbus.

Senator Danaher intimated that the United States navy virtually delivered the German liner Columbus into the hands of a British destroyer, which was standing by ready to sink her when the German ship was scuttled. He quoted Admiral Stark's testimony with respect to the Columbus as follows:

"We did not know what she was going to do. We picked her up almost as soon as she left her port in Mexico. She passed on from one set of destroyers to another and when she went off shore our cruiser in that area followed her out." [Further testimony by Admiral Stark explained that the Columbus was about 500 miles off the Atlantic coast when she was scuttled.]

Senator Danaher recalled that the scuttling of the Columbus and the rescue of her crew by the American cruiser Tuscaloosa was announced not by the navy but by Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt. Recalling Early's statement that the Tuscaloosa happened to come upon the Columbus while engaged in routine neutrality patrol duty, Senator Danaher declared:

"Mr. President, that simply isn't true."

Senator Danaher was supported by Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] when he recalled that one of the principal arguments for repealing the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act last fall was that Great Britain would buy American cotton and tobacco if the arms embargo were repealed.

"The tobacco and cotton farmers were told that by British buyers," Senator Danaher said.

"But after the arms embargo was repealed," Senator Reynolds said, "our British brothers said to my neighbors in North Carolina, 'We are exceedingly regretful, but we find that we must be friends of our allies; we are going to let our nationals enjoy the Turkish blend rather than that provided by North Carolina'."

Reds Batter at Forts

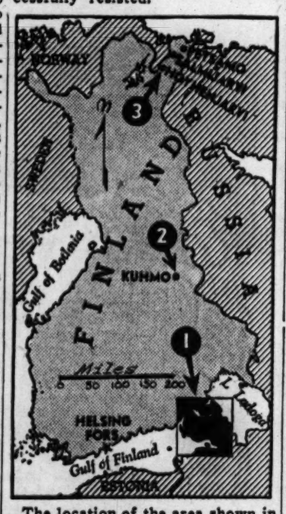
Soviet Russian troops pressed a massed assault against Finland's Mannerheim line of fortifications yesterday. The section near Punnusjoki bore the brunt of the attack, which the Finns said, was successfully resisted.



The location of the area shown in detail in the upper map is indicated in black here (1). The Finns reported they captured a Red stronghold and strengthened their own positions near Kuhmo (2). The Russians were repulsed in an attempt to capture Hoyhenjarvi (3), according to Finnish officials.

FOREIGN NATIONS BID EAGERLY FOR AMERICAN ARMS

Five Missions in U. S. to Get What They Can.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—France and Great Britain, and also neutral nations anxiously arming in fear of being engulfed in Europe's wars, are eying the arms of the United States army and the navy, it was learned here today.

Three belligerent and two neutral nations now have military missions in the United States which are seeking to get whatever this country has, preferably its best weapons, or whatever it can make, asking that the American defense expansion program be sidetracked in favor of their needs.

The empires—Britain and France—have extensive military missions making purchases largely of planes of the latest types the army and navy will release for joint sale.

It was reported the empires have asked that the government sell to them 1,000 of the most modern planes in the army. The empires would take these planes, paint out the insignia of the United States and substitute their own.

Also Seek Prized Secrets.

They also are asking that the army release its most prized secrets, such as the Sperry bombing sight, which has enabled American bombers to drop demolition charges with astounding accuracy.

Another belligerent, Finland, in December asked for 300 pursuit planes and 150 aircraft guns for delivery this month. Its mission was told that factories were swamped with plane orders and that the antiaircraft gun order was an impossibility because the United States army itself has only 155 antiaircraft guns.

However, the Finnish mission did not go away with empty hands. The navy stepped aside on a reorder of 44 Brewster pursuit planes and permitted the manufacturer to give them to Finland. The Finns are asking that the administration induce the army and navy to further acts of courtesy.

Sweden and Norway Active.

The two neutral nations which recently sent missions here are Sweden and Norway. The Swedish mission has elaborate offices in the Mayflower hotel and is prepared to spend about 250 million dollars on war supplies, preferably planes and guns. The Norwegian mission, tho not so extensive, is equally insistent that its needs be served.

A White House conference yesterday, purportedly devoted to consideration of the sale of surplus arms to Norway and Sweden, was called by President Roosevelt, it was authoritatively learned today, for the purpose of establishing policy as to how far the United States can go in helping these nations, which are fearful they will be forced to fight for their lives with Finland against Russia.

It was recalled that royalty of all three Scandinavian nations, Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, have been guests of the President in his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Swedish Prince a Visitor.

Prince Bertil of Sweden was a White House caller yesterday. Altho he has no nominal connection with the Swedish mission here, the timing of his visit with that of the mission is regarded here as an effort to build up sympathy for the objects of the mission.

At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt said he is willing to aid such neutrals as Sweden and Norway with what surplus arms the army and navy have on hand. Asked whether similar aid could be extended to Finland, Mr. Roosevelt said that while no war has been declared between Finland and Russia, he doubted whether surplus materials could go to a nation engaged in conflict.

At the time the planes destined for the navy were sent to the Finns it was said that the delivery could be made because Finland was not a war under strict interpretation of the neutrality act.

The only desirable surplus arms the army has are approximately 1,850,000 wartime Lee-Enfield rifles and 950,000 Springfield rifles. The latter are being replaced in the American army by the new Garand semiautomatic rifle.

It was learned that the Swedish and Norwegian missions would purchase the surplus Springfields, because that weapon is still regarded as superior to any rifle in any foreign army. Both missions would prefer to have Garands, but the present rate of production is so slow and costly that they are not pressing for these rifles.

The army has approximately 3,500 wartime 75 mm. guns on hand. These weapons were dumped on this country by the French and British after the world war because in the late days of that conflict they regarded the weapon as obsolete and began developing the 105 mm. weapon, regarded as infinitely superior. The American army has never had ammunition for the British made 75's.

Want Modern 105's.

The neutral missions would take some of these weapons, but are not interested in many, as both are far more desirous of obtaining the more modern 105s.

The French and British are not interested in either the old rifles or their castoff 75's. The French and British go a step further and have no interest in the modernized 75's the American army is building nor in the handful of more modern pieces the army has developed. The American field pieces even of most modern design are regarded abroad as far inferior to those the French and Germans are using.

The army has virtually no other surplus material. There are some 200,000 pairs of wartime shoes—22 years old—on hand, some wartime gas masks of no value, some old ammunition, and a few odds and ends.

Navy Position Altered.

At the navy it was first said that branch of the service had no surplus material available for foreign sale. Later officers became concerned over encountering White House disapproval and said that they could say nothing on this subject because a canvass of possible surplus material was being made at the orders of the President.

It was reported today the administration is considering selling old naval vessels as well as unused army artillery to neutrals. Upward of a score of old destroyers, submarines, mine layers, and other craft already bear a "For Sale" sign. Altho outmoded for most modern naval warfare, they are regarded as comparable in military value to old navy craft which Great Britain has put back into service to combat submarines.

Sweden Buying Machinery.

The Swedish mission, it was learned, is interested primarily in arms, but is making purchases of machinery and any war materials it can get. It is hopeful that it can obtain such materials as good shoes, gas masks, range finders, tools and dies, grenades, and the like.

Already the mission has scored a notable triumph in obtaining 150 Vultee Vanguard planes. It was understood that this order was facilitated by the administration's desire to aid neutrals.

The extent of activity in the Swedish mission's hotel headquarters indicates that Sweden is preparing to go to war.

All five missions are interested primarily in American planes. Each day new army planes are being released for foreign sale. The fact that the missions have been successful in obtaining release of some of the army's best fighting ships has inspired the demand for the release of army and navy planes actually in service.

Political Dangers Cited.

At the army and navy and in other informed circles doubts were expressed that the administration will go so far as to turn over service craft, even tho it should desire to do so. Political observers said that such a move might prove disastrous to the party.

The administration has been explaining the release of its best designs by stating that the foreign orders are enabling American factories to keep busier than they have ever been and that the high tempo of production will eventually bring better and bigger planes to the American services, so that America will always keep on top in plane development.

FRENCH CHAMBER DEBATES WAR IN SECRET SESSION

Overrides Objections of Premier Daladier.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The chamber of deputies today came to grips with Premier Edouard Daladier over the government's conduct of the war and foreign policy in a secret session which was decided on in a surprise move. The session will go on tomorrow and perhaps next week.

Premier Daladier, who had personally asked for the debate, strongly opposed holding it behind closed doors on the ground that the secrecy might have a bad effect on the army and public morale.

Blum Insists on Vote.

Daladier did not risk a vote of confidence on the point, however, and was overruled when Leon Blum, his former Popular Front partner and predecessor as premier, insisted on a vote. The deputies voted 262 to 227 in favor of secrecy.

Journalists, visitors, and every one else except official stenographers sworn to secrecy, were forthwith ushered out of the chamber. Guards were posted at every door and the debate began.

There was no inkling in usually well informed circles as to precisely what transpired in the session today. Admittedly, however, the debate dealt with the fundamentals of the government's policy.

Communists Stay Away.

Eleven former communist deputies did not participate in the debate on whether the session should be secret. Still allowed to sit in the chamber because they disavowed their connections with Moscow, all of them announced that they would stay away from the secret session so that they will not be blamed if valuable information leaks across the Rhine to Germany.

Bare Espionage Activity.

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier, it was learned today, overcame some of his original hesitation concerning a secret session of the chamber of deputies after semi-official disclosures were made of espionage activities under the leadership of Dr. Karl Roos, Alsatian autonomy leader who was executed two days ago.

At the same time Daladier himself brought into the open assertions that the French authorities had raided French offices of the Gestapo [German secret police] and uncovered plans for widespread espionage activities aimed at determining the exact power of the Daladier régime.

Find Questionnaire.

In the Gestapo raids, Daladier said, an elaborate questionnaire was found by which the agents were supposed to report back to Germany on such questions as these:

"Is Daladier liked by the masses: What is his prestige? What would be the result of a vote of confidence? Who are Daladier's friends? Who are his adversaries?"

Daladier said the questionnaire also asked about the attitude of the French people toward England and their confidence in the French colonial troops and the French republic.

The semiofficial disclosure of the Roos activities said that French agents had followed step by step the reports which the Alsatian made to Germany. Even the German agents were known to the French operatives who closed in on the spies when the time was opportune.

The French said that Dr. Roos confessed to having led a spy ring in the border province and to having used the telephone number and post office box number of a Gestapo branch in Germany.

U. of C. Co-Eds Engaged

Campus gossip at the University of Chicago turned yesterday toward more romantic channels when it became known that three more co-eds have become engaged. The latest to reveal their marriage plans were Miss Joan Kammerer, 21 years old, 7109 South Shore drive, a senior; Miss Rose Estherschmidt, 20, 7953 Rhodes avenue, a junior, and Miss Cynthia Mead, 18, 5730 Kimbark avenue, a sophomore.

Miss Kammerer will marry Joffre Heineck, 4801 Drexel boulevard, a premedical student, late next summer. Miss Estherschmidt and Wallace Searer, 5042 Drexel boulevard, plan to be married in two years. Miss Mead's wedding to William E. Bertholf Jr. of the St. George hotel, a graduate student, has been set for early May.

Another co-ed with similar plans is Miss Ada Steele, 22, of 4132 Ellis avenue, a senior, whose engagement to Robert S. Brumbaugh, son of Dean and Mrs. Aaron J. Brumbaugh of the university college, was recently announced. The engagement of three others, Miss Helen J. Tomlinson, a senior; Miss June E. Cover, a senior, and Miss Margaret C. Argall, a junior, had been announced previously.

Britain Censors U. S. Mail at Hongkong, Letter Shows

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 9.—Evidence of British censorship in Hongkong of mail from Shanghai addressed to Americans here was provided today when an American adviser to the Chunking finance ministry received a letter marked "opened by Hongkong censors." He said he would show it to officials of the United States embassy and request an investigation. Shanghai mail for Chungking, it is said, is bagged separately and should not be inspected at Hongkong.

India Bans Imports of 23 Neutrals; Excepts America

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 9 (AP).—Under a decree effective March 10 India today banned imports from 23 neutral countries—including Turkey, Italy, and Spain, but excepting the United States, Japan, and Russia—unless accompanied by certificates of origin. The certificates must show that not more than 25 per cent of the goods was derived from materials from enemy territory.

BOASTS GERMAN RULE IN POLAND BENEFITS PEOPLE

Hitler's Aid Denies Nazis Shoot Priests.

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP).—Hans Frank, governor general of German occupied Poland, told 150 correspondents here tonight that Poland never before has been ruled with as much consideration for the social and material welfare of the Polish people.

Germany took over the state at the brink of bankruptcy, he said, and created a region of "economic sovereignty" which faces a promising future.

Frank submitted to a cross-fire of questions and reviewed charges from abroad against his administration in Poland. He denied that he was "shooting priests, sterilizing Polish children, torturing Jews, or executing students by the thousands."

Calls Charges Fantastic.

"Such fantastic accusations merely can make a philosopher smile," he remarked.

[Two pamphlets issued by the Polish embassy at Vatican City late in January charged Germans in Poland had carried out mass shootings and religious persecution in a campaign to "exterminate" Catholic Poles in German occupied sections of Poland. The Polish government in exile at Paris issued Jan. 31 a white paper declaring Germans had executed 18,000 Poles. Arthur Syess-Inquart, deputy governor of German Poland, declared the white paper a "gross exaggeration."]

Frank, who has authority from Adolf Hitler to be almost the absolute ruler of Poland, admitted he was rigorously stern in smashing any movement or tendency in Poland which would weaken the German administration or give German enemies in the east a chance to strike at the reich.

"Germany is at war, fighting for its existence," he said. "So it is not to be supposed that the Reich could extend liberties to the Poles greater than those enjoyed by the populations of England, France, or Germany.

Reports More People in Warsaw.

"But those who assail me from abroad should know that since German obliteration of the old Polish government the population of Warsaw has increased from 1,400,000 to 1,800,000.

"They should know there is no hunger, there isn't even any rationing of bread as in Germany itself. They should know there is not a single concentration camp in all Poland.

"And the charge that the health of the Poles is neglected is best answered by the report that German medical services in a few months gave free inoculations to 720,000 Jews, Ukrainians, and Poles—a prodigious feat in medical administration.

"Never in modern times has there been less typhus than now in disease ridden Poland."

FRENCH REPULSE GERMAN RAIDERS IN SEVERE CLASH

Scouts Surprise Each Other Between Lines.

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP).—The French general staff today reported increased activity of artillery and patrols, including a "severe" engagement yesterday in which both sides suffered losses.

The communique said:

"Between the Moselle and the Saar [rivers] the artillery has been markedly more active on both sides. An enemy raid was repulsed. During the reconnaissance carried out yesterday a severe encounter took place, during which one of our detachments suffered some losses; inferior, however, to those inflicted on the enemy."

Six Frenchmen Reported Slain.

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP).—Six members of a French patrol and one German were killed, the German news agency DNB reported today, in a clash of scouts on the western front near Forbach.

The agency said the clash came unexpectedly as each patrol apparently decided to scout the same area between the lines. After several minutes of brisk rifle and machine gun fire, artillery joined the fight, it said.

DNB stated that, despite increased German patrol activity, "it still is impossible to come in contact with English soldiers who are supposed to be in the front lines."

Foes Converse Thru Placards.

At one part of the line, said the report, the French and Germans conversed by means of placards, the Germans asking, "Where is Tommy?" and getting the reply, "In England."

The German high command's communique today said: "At Forbach a German patrol detachment clashed with a stronger enemy scouting group. The opponent lost several prisoners. The air force remained without contact with the enemy during border patrol flights."

FIRES AT FLEEING THIEF.

Policeman Henry Bobene of the Rogers Park station fired two shots at a colored man yesterday when he fled after trying to steal an automobile near Columbia avenue and Sheridan road.

HERBERT HOOVER TO TALK TONIGHT AT POLISH RALLY

Gen. Joseph Haller, minister without portfolio in the new Polish government constituted at Paris, and Herbert Hoover will speak in the Chicago Stadium tonight at a mass-meeting which is part of the nation-wide drive for Polish relief funds. Jan Kiepura, Polish tenor, also will appear on the program.

Gen. Haller, who led the Polish forces which repulsed the bolshevik invasion in 1920, is touring the United States in behalf of the newly formed Polish government. He was one of the last military leaders to leave his country after the German conquest last fall.

Frank F. Swieglik, president of the Polish National Alliance, and chairman of the Polish American council, will be in charge of the meeting. More than 18,000 persons are expected.

JAPANESE DENY TERRITORIAL AIM IN SOUTH SEAS

Say They Want Economic Links Tightened.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 10 [Saturday].—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita told the diet [parliament] last night that he believed Japan must undertake economic expansion in the south seas, but said it had no territorial designs on the southern countries.

Japan would not object to nonaggression pacts with these countries, he declared in reply to questions regarding the advisability of developing resources in India, the Dutch East Indies, and the Philippines, and the general promotion of trade.

Would Exploit Areas.

"It is obviously necessary to tighten our economic relations with various countries in the South seas," he said. "We have no territorial ambitions in these areas and only desire to utilize and exploit the natural resources there."

As to the possibility of adjusting relations with Russia thru Germany, he said he doubted the advisability of such a move.

Arita indicated that the government was considering abrogation of the nine power treaty guaranteeing the open door policy in China, but had not decided whether such action would aid or hamper establishment of its announced goal of a new order in east Asia. He reiterated that Japan's policy would not bar the open door to third parties.

Voice Dissatisfaction.

Considerable dissatisfaction was voiced in various quarters over the government's continued calm and passive attitude toward the United States in the face of a possible new loan to the Chinese government.

Such a loan was regarded as another example of American pressure against Japan. Some elements denounced the government's attitude as too lukewarm.

[Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, has disclosed in Washington, D. C., that China may receive $20,000,000 more for purchases in the United States. It has already received $25,000,000 and is seeking credits of $75,000,000.]

1,400,000 Jap Casualties, China Says.

HONGKONG, Feb. 9 (AP).—Japanese casualties since the start of the undeclared war with China July 7, 1937, were placed today at almost 1,400,000 by the Central News agency, Chinese government organ, which said 20 per cent of the total were killed. The agency said the figures were based on Japanese documents seized on various fronts. First line casualties were given as 1,100,000; guerrilla warfare, 200,000, and Japanese naval losses, 90,000.

FLAMES SWEEP PLUMBING PLANT ON N. PAULINA ST.

Fire which shot flames so high in the sky they were visible miles away swept thru the one story brick building of the Pincus & Schulhof Plumbing Supplies company at 2820 North Paulina street early today.

The flames spread rapidly and for a time threatened a row of 18 frame houses on the north side of Diversey parkway, west of Paulina street. The occupants were driven out. Extra alarms were turned in successively, culminating a 5-11 alarm and three special calls. Apparatus from all north and northwest sections responded.

The building attacked was also occupied by the Art Craft company, makers of steel cabinets. Like the Pincus & Schulhof company, it was virtually burned out. For a time a medical building of the Illinois Malleable Iron company at 2832 North Pulina street was threatened. Firemen were hampered by a crowd of some 5,000 sightseers and 1,000 automobiles. First Deputy Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney was unable immediately to estimate the property damage.

Russians Put Former Poles to Work in Western Siberia

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 (AP).—Pravda, organ of the communist party, reported today that large groups of unemployed from the former Polish areas of western Ukraine and White Russia are working in mines and forests of western Siberia. The newspaper failed to give the exact number but said that it totaled "hundreds." Several thousand unemployed were reported also to have arrived at Donbass last month from Lemberg [Lwow] to work in coal mines.

TWO OPERATIONS ARE PERFORMED ON TWEEDSMUIR

On Table in Ottawa and Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9 (AP).—A "slight but definite" improvement was reported tonight in the condition of Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, following the second operation of the day for relief of a grave brain concussion.

[Acme Photo.]

The governor general, who was injured in a fall at Ottawa Tuesday, still was in a critical condition. The second operation was performed after his arrival here aboard a special train on a 120 mile trip from Ottawa, where he was operated upon this morning.

"His excellency had a subtemporal decompressive operation this evening at the Montreal Neurological institute," said an official bulletin at 11:05 p. m. "The operation was performed by Drs. Wilder Penfield and William Cone. There has resulted a slight but definite improvement, but his condition must be considered critical."

Attended by five doctors, Lord Tweedsmuir, who is 69 years old, was brought to the Neurological institute of the Royal Victoria hospital for the second operation.

An ambulance and police escort awaited the train when it arrived at 5:35 p. m. on a siding outside Bonaventure station.

The governor general was carried out the rear door of the train on a stretcher, wrapped in a blanket, and onto a specially built platform. Then he was placed in the ambulance which traveled at slow speed to the hospital.

PITCAIRN ISLAND, ISOLATED BY WAR, HUNTS FOE—RATS

Ship Skipper Tells How Mutineers' Kin Feel.

BY CAPT. IRVING JOHNSON.

PITCAIRN ISLAND, Radioed by Schooner Yankee, Feb. 9 (AP).—The residents of this lonely South Pacific island, descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty, have been even further isolated from civilization than usual as a result of the European war, and they have been handicapped in their rat hunting.

A protectorate of Great Britain, the two mile square island technically is at war, but none of its 210 inhabitants has been drawn directly into the conflict.

There are many rats here, and they eat up the islanders' food, but the people are not starving and the arrival of the schooner Yankee has replenished supplies.

"Stories that the Pitcairn people are living under starving conditions are entirely false," declared Edgar Christian, chief magistrate. "We never eat rats, altho the island is overrun with them and they damage much of our food.

Get Bullets for Rat Hunting.

"The scarcity of ships visiting here since the war had stopped our supply of .22 ammunition for hunting them, but the Yankee has left us several thousand rounds of ammunition now and we will be able to resume our rat hunting."

These islanders, whose forefathers came here in 1790 from Tahiti with a dozen Polynesian women after deserting in the mutiny on the Bounty, have seen the first motion pictures ever shown on the island as a result of the Yankee's present trip.

For this dispatch Christian related some of the new difficulties here as a result of the war.

Cut Use of Staples.

"Our radio, brought by the Yankee three years ago, is in working order," he said, "but because of war conditions we cannot contact amateurs or transmit to them except for emergency purposes.

"A constant lookout is kept from the highest part of the island, about 2,000 feet above sea level, but as yet no raiders have been sighted.

"We are gradually eliminating the use of flour, sugar, kerosene and other staples which we ordinarily traded for fruit with passing sailing ships and steamers."

13 RELATIVES KILLED IN WAR IN POLAND, CHICAGOAN TOLD

Sergt. Joseph Sponder.

Sergt. Joseph Sponder, attached to the state's attorney's office, received word yesterday that his aged father, a former Chicagoan, and 12 other relatives, had been killed during the German invasion of Poland. The news was contained in a letter from Sponder's brother, John, a Polish aviator, now a wounded refugee in Rurziceni, Rumania.

John Sponder wrote that he had learned from other relatives that their father had been killed when the Germans bombed the village of Tarnow, 10 miles from Cracow, Poland. "My wife and my boy are killed, and our father, our brother, Jacob, and his wife and his eight children are all dead," John Sponder wrote. "There is nothing left for me and the rest of our relatives in the army but to go to France to join the Polish legion."

Joseph Sponder said his father, Adelbert, lived here for 35 years before he returned to Poland in 1918.

LONDON MEDICAL AREA FEELS PINCH OF WAR ECONOMY

Empty Buildings Reveal Landlords' Plight.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Landlords of Harley street, where many of London's doctors have offices, and neighboring districts have suffered as severely as those in other sections of the city since the outbreak of the war.

When the war came many specialists practicing in or near Harley street joined the army. The emergency medical service took an even larger number into the country. For weeks many of them suffered enforced idleness and their practices were neglected.

Many Houses Empty.

The absence of air raids gave the ministry of health an opportunity to arrange for much of the specialists' work under the emergency medical service to be done by part time officers. As a result, many consultants have returned to Harley street.

To the casual observer, judging from the lines of waiting automobiles in the district, life there might appear to be going on much as before. This is far from being the case, however. Scores of consultation rooms which were hurriedly vacated at the beginning of September still remain empty.

Many houses have been closed and some are for sale. Any one now seeking a house in Harley street, Wimpole street, Upper Wimpole street, or Queen Anne street and Devonshire place could have his choice of 100.

Sale Prices Kept Up.

It would seem, however, that the sellers generally want reasonable market values and are not prepared to accept "give away" prices.

Harley street leaseholders still are facing their most difficult times in spite of the return of many medical men. Some of the doctors who have come back need their consulting rooms only a few hours once or twice a week and consequently there is a demand for reduced rents and short tenancies.

A. F. L. TO EXPEL LEADERS FOUND GUILTY OF CRIME

Green Explains Policy on Scalise and Bioff.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—While the American Federation of Labor lacks the power to start punitive action against officials of any of its international unions who may be charged with racketeering or other crimes, the federation will move to expel such persons if accusations against them are proved and they are convicted in court.

George Scalise [upper] and Willie Bioff.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., made this declaration here today in response to questions as to what procedure could be adopted against George Scalise and Willie Bioff.

Records of Two Recalled.

Scalise, president of the Building Service Employés International union, was convicted in 1913 of transporting a girl across a state line for immoral purposes and served four years for that crime in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Recently there have been allegations that he used racketeering tactics in trying to control his local unions, particularly in Chicago and San Francisco.

Bioff is the personal representative of George browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés and Motion Picture Operators, and is the virtual boss of these crafts in California. Bioff recently was indicted by the federal government for evasion of income taxes, and Illinois is trying to extradite him to serve an old conviction on a pandering charge in Chicago.

Explains Union Attitude.

"The A. F. of L. disavows racketeers and any other law violators among its members," Green said. "We call upon city, state, and federal authorities to prosecute any of our members charged with a crime. All we ask is a fair trial.

"The A. F. of L. is a human institution and cannot select its members like fraternal organizations do. We cannot treat them as employés. We don't claim perfection among our more than four million members, but those denouncing myself and other federation leaders because we do not exercise autocratic and dictatorial powers fail to understand the structure of the A. F. of L.

"Ours is a loose federation of organizations. Our 105 national and international unions, which constitute the large bulk of our membership, are each autonomous. They have full authority to conduct their own affairs, to elect and remove their officials, to determine the salaries and qualifications of these officers.

Green Denies Authority.

"I have no more authority to remove a man such as Scalise, if anything was proved against him, than has the President of the United States to interfere in the affairs of one of the sovereign states and remove a governor.

"But if there should be any convictions in court, I and other federation leaders would certainly exert pressure at our convention to have these persons expelled by their unions and thus from the A. F. of L."

Green added that he does have full power over federal labor union locals. These are groups organized by the A. F. of L., usually in miscellaneous industries. There are 1,560 of them with a total membership of 187,000.

The federation can supervise their elections, remove their officers for misconduct, and audit their books, and the locals cannot call a strike without the federation's permission.

Green said that he first met Scalise in 1937. When the racketeering charges were made recently against Scalise, Green talked to him.

"He challenged any one to attack his record since he went to prison in 1913," Green said. "He told me that he has gone straight. I investigated him thoroly, and, as far as I know, his service to labor has been honest and satisfactory.

"He is seeking a restoration of the civil rights he lost when he went to prison. I and Joseph Padway [general counsel for the A. F. of L.] were among a hundred or more persons who signed a petition for his cause."

The A. F. of L. executive council concluded its session late tonight. Its next session will be May 18 in Washington, D. C.

VIRGINIA MAYER ANDERSON.

New York, Feb. 9 [Special].—Supreme Court Referee Richard P. Lydon today recommended that Alvin V. Anderson, former Georgia Tech student and heir to $3,000,000, be given an annulment from Virginia Stevenson Barton Mayer Anderson, blonde, Atlanta born model, whom he met at a Georgia party. When he eloped with her on May 2, 1936, he complained, she forgot to tell him she previously had been wed to Bruce Barton Jr., and to Alexander J. Mayer, a Manhattan realty man, both unions ending in divorce.

FARM PROBLEMS IN INDIANA TOLD TO G. O. P. INQUIRY

Imports Chief Complaint of Hoosiers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9 [Special].—Indiana dirt farmers voiced opposition to increased importation of farm products from foreign countries at a hearing today before the opening two day sessions of a Republican agricultural study committee presided over by Congressman Clifford R. Hope of Kansas. Five of Indiana's seven G. O. P. congressmen attended today's meeting.

Clifford R. Hope. [Copyright: Harris & Ewing.]

The conference one of a series held thruout the country, is expected to provide material for the 1940 farm plank in the G. O. P. platform.

The conference is being held at the Claypool hotel here. The committee was named by Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican leader in the house of representatives. Congressmen George W. Gillie of Fort Wayne and Congressman Landis of Linton aided Hope in arranging the conference here.

George Shepard of Shelburn, a member of the Farmers' guild, said that the cause of lower farm prices today is higher taxes.

Robert Spencer of Monticello, state chairman of the Farmers' guild, said: "The AAA has failed and should be scrapped in favor of the cost of production program. Reciprocal trade treaties are preventing our farmers from supplying their own natural markets. Importation of live cattle from abroad increased 100 per cent last year."

LEWIS WRECKER OF LABOR PEACE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The breach between John L. Lewis and President Roosevelt widened today when the President laid the blame for the collapse of labor peace negotiations squarely on the C. I. O. dictator's shoulders.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that Lewis had told him that no useful purpose would be served at this time by renewal of the negotiations. He added that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, had advised him earlier that he stood ready to consider negotiations to end labor's strife at any time.

The Presidential blame for labor's strife was not laid at Lewis' door until the burly labor czar had repudiated the Roosevelt administration and declared himself against a third term for the President.

A. F. L. EMPLOYES ASK PROTECTION FROM C.I.O. UNION

Toledo, O., Feb. 9 (AP).—A group of American Federation of Labor unionists at the Electric Auto-Lite company today beseeched a court to enjoin Congress of Industrial Organizations adherents there from abusing and threatening them. A hearing was set for next Thursday.

The A. F. of L. United Auto Workers contended the C. I. O. U. A. W. unlawfully agreed to bar them from work unless they joined the C. I. O., and subsequently shot pieces of metal at them by means of rubber band slingshots, despoiled the plaintiffs' food, and called them "rats" and "stool pigeons." Gangs of the defendants gathered about machines, shut off power and ejected their rival unionists from the plant, the petition declared.

A C. I. O. union was certified Dec. 15, 1938 as exclusive bargaining agent for the workers. The suit was filed by nine men in behalf of all A. F. of L. employés at the Auto-Lite company, but did not designate the number. The defendants are 28 individuals and local No. 12 of the C. I. O. U. A. W.

GARNER OPPOSES ROOSEVELT IN ILLINOIS PRIMARY

Rep. Hamilton Fish Files Against Dewey.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9 (AP).—Petitions to enter Vice President John N. Garner in the Illinois advisory Democratic primary against President Roosevelt were filed late today.

The petitions were filed by Julius F. Smietanka, Chicago attorney; Emil Hurja of Washington, D. C., magazine editor, and formerly election analyst for the Democratic national committee, and Col. William M. Bannon, Chicago business man.

Showdown Likely.

Coming after the filing last week of petitions to put President Roosevelt's name on the Democratic presidential preference ballot, the action of Garner's aids advanced the chances for a showdown vote in Illinois between Roosevelt and Garner.

President Roosevelt's petitions did not carry the usual signed certificate of candidacy, and Chicago Democratic leaders said they were filed without specific authorization of the President.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes said, however, that he expected that Roosevelt's name would appear on the ballot unless the petitions were formally withdrawn before Feb. 24. The primary is April 9.

Petitions also were filed entering Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York in the advisory Republican presidential primary against Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor.

Presented by Chicagoan.

Leslie Wheeler-Reid of Chicago, Fish's Illinois manager, presented the petitions, containing 4,000 signatures, to Secretary Hughes. The petitions did not include a certificate of candidacy signed by Fish but Wheeler-Reid indicated they were filed with the New York congressman's consent.

Petitions entering Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York in the Republican primary also were filed. Like the petitions in behalf of President Roosevelt, they did not contain a signed certificate of candidacy.

Tests of Strength.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Two great tests of political strength between President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner are expected in Illinois and Wisconsin, where the names of each are entered in preferential Presidential primaries.

The elections are scheduled for April 2 in Wisconsin and April 9 in Illinois. The Illinois primary is merely advisory, but that in Wisconsin is binding on delegates to the Democratic convention.

Apparently, only a conclusive statement from President Roosevelt withdrawing himself from consideration could avert the contests, and some were of the opinion that even that could not stop them, so determined are the leaders of the draft-Roosevelt movement.

Argument with Dewey.

The President at a press conference today declined again to answer a question on his 1940 plans, and also renewed a controversy with Thomas E. Dewey, a leading Republican aspirant, on the extent of the public and private debt in the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt insisted that the total debt figure had declined as much as $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 since 1932, altho the population had gone up 6 or 7 per cent in the same period. After the President made a similar statement early in the week, Dewey challenged his figures, saying a report by the Agricultural Adjustment administration showed, instead of a decrease, an increase of some $9,000,000,000. Mr. Roosevelt said today the AAA report contained many duplications.

Action in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 9 [Special].—President Roosevelt's name will go on the Nebraska primary ballot April 9.

McNary Drive in Oregon.

Salem, Ore., Feb. 9 (AP).—The name of Senator Charles L. McNary, senate minority leader, was assured today of a place on Oregon's Republican presidential primary ballot May 17. Petitions filed with the state department bore more than twice the number of signatures necessary.

FIND GUTKNECHT WILLING TO RUN FOR PROSECUTOR

Sponsors Appear Outside Regular Ranks.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht, widely known because of his conduct of the Traffic court, indicated yesterday his willingness to run for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney of Cook county.

Judge John Gutknecht

This development attracted interest because it was the first sign of any definite opposition to the Democratic organization plan of harmony in the local battle. All of the officials whose terms expire are Democrats, and they all have filed their petitions. Among them is State's Attorney Courtney, apparently acceptable to the organization chiefs, since his petition was filed from the regular headquarters.

Suspect Lesser Leaders.

Because of Courtney's aggressiveness in prosecuting election frauds, protected gambling, and other matters involving ward committeemen, there has been suspicion that perhaps some of the lesser leaders of the regulars were back of what its promoters call the movement to draft Judge Gutknecht. But inquiry failed to produce any signs that anybody connected with the regulars is secretly knifing Courtney.

Instead, the inquiry disclosed, the Gutknecht boom is being sponsored by individuals not identified in any way with the party organization. Some of them share affiliations in two nonparty organizations. Six of the 18 whose names were made public are officers and members of the advisory board of the Chicago civil liberties committee. Five of them are listed as members of the Lawyers' guild, of which Judge Gutknecht is the national president. This is considered a somewhat radical organization.

Takes Space at Morrison.

Part of the suspicion that the regular Democratic organization might be involved in the Gutknecht plan was based on the renting of headquarters by the Gutknecht committee on the third floor of the Morrison hotel. This floor customarily is used by the Democratic county committee for campaign headquarters supplementing its year-round headquarters on another floor of the hotel.

Questions at the committee headquarters brought replies that the committee representatives there were surprised by the new development and that there may be an attempt to see if something can't be done to move the Gutknecht headquarters to some other location.

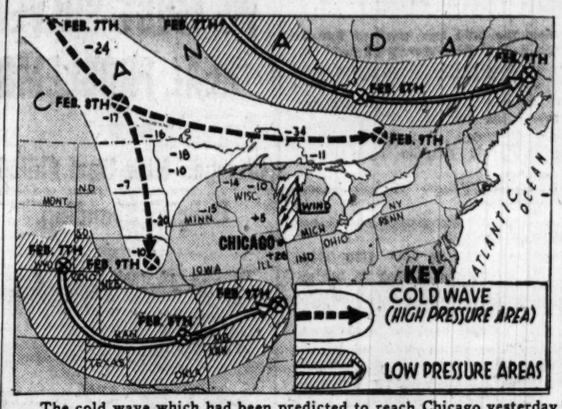
The second day of activity on behalf of Judge Gutnecht brought the publication of a telegram he was said to have sent to the committee. It was understood as the next thing to a flat declaration that the judge will run.

Text of Message.

"Will run if popular support demands it," read the message. "A state's attorney with coöperation can drastically decrease automobile deaths, by proper enforcement can save youths from criminal careers by jailing their leaders and fences, can reduce crime of all kinds.

"He should be a lawyer by training and experience. He must be able to try cases. He must be nonpolitical in carrying on his office. He must observe the law himself in enforcing the law. He must know and respect the civil liberties guaranteed by the constitution and must not use his office for personal quarrels or political advancement."

Cold Wave Splits, Missing Chicago



The cold wave which had been predicted to reach Chicago yesterday went, instead, to sections farther west in the United States and to eastern Canada. The map shows how, according to weather bureau officials, the mass of cold air (high pressure area) was split by the attraction of two low pressure areas.

Generally fair weather and moderate temperatures are expected today and tomorrow in Chicago, which was digging its traffic arteries out of a three inch snowfall yesterday. Alternate thawing and freezing in the last few days have made streets and highways slippery and motorists have been urged to exercise extreme caution.

Forecaster Gordon E. Dunn explained last night why an expected cold wave missed Chicago after it had been indicated. He said that a cold air mass, moving southeast from western Canada on Thursday, had split in flowing toward two low pressure storm areas, one in southern Canada and the other in the south central United States.

The city remained in an area untouched by the cold air masses and northeast winds from the lake aided in keeping the mercury readings above 24 degrees. Farther to the west extreme low readings were noted, 27 below being registered in northern Minnesota.

THERE'S Sentiment IN OUR BUSINESS

OUR sentiments are with the people—the hundreds who make up our personnel—the thousands whom we serve. True, we are in business to sell men's shirts and ties, women's hose and gloves and smart apparel for the entire family. But—we get a lot of fun out of it—and we enjoy doing whatever extra little things we can to make you happy. We think a little sentiment goes a long way in keeping hearts warm in a cold world. If you are not acquainted here we think you will enjoy a visit. Here are a few suggestions to give the object of your affections palpitation of the heart in the modern way (Valentine's Day, February 14th). The styles of the 90's have changed, but the sentiment of that romantic era still characterizes our business. Come in and see us today.

WORDS WE CAN'T DO WITHOUT

By CALEB

TWO simple words—either of which you can spell on the fingers of one hand. Both originated in the Greek, where the first of the two meant "watcher, mark, or aim." Out of Greek it went into Latin; from Latin into Italian; and from there it finally gravitated to English. It is in good standing as a noun, and also as a widely used suffix to other words, where it means "an instrument for seeing and observing."

If you've ever been a crossword-puzzle addict, you've probably guessed the word, and appreciate its indispensability. After all, one can scarcely dream a dream, define a business, outline a plan, prepare a program of action, summarize a stretch of events, or execute a project, without using the word scope.

As for its use in suffix form, the word is equally impossible to do without. In that role, think what it has saved the world in aggregate acres of print and tons of talk! Instead of specifying, for example, "The representation of the aspect of the heavens at the moment of one's birth," we simply say horoscope. Instead of "An instrument to show a view of the ocean when a submarine is submerged," we use periscope. Thus daily its admirable brevity eliminates circumlocution. Telescope, microscope, ophthalmoscope, fluoroscope, cystoscope, spectroscope, gyroscope, hydroscope, baroscope, hygroscope, iconoscope, kinetoscope . . . all have indebted science and commerce to their efficacy as time and confusion savers.

Likewise from the Greek comes our second indispensable. By itself a fundamental to poetry and music, it equally serves the scientist and businessman through numerous suffix uses: in words like chron*ometer*, volt*meter*, dia*meter*, peri*meter*, thermo*meter*, and their countless technological cousins.

Scope and meter, then, are among the bedrock words of all verbal intercourse and expression. In business, they represent two factors entwined with its very existence. The scope of executive thinking, for example, required to conduct great merchandising operations is practically unlimited—calling for specialists in every phase of legal, financial, accounting organization, administrative, promotive and distributive activity.

By the same token, the meter, or measure, of those store operations is importantly expressed in its quantity and quality of service. Scope is set by planning—measure established by execution. Because these two elementary necessities are considered and consummated daily—Field's continues to broaden in its functions and deepen its hold on popular favor.

FEW COMMITTEE JOB CONTESTS IN FIRST DAY FILING

Other Entrants Expected Next Week.

Petitions filed yesterday with County Clerk Michael J. Flynn by candidates for ward committeemen failed to show the expected battles for these party positions. Yesterday was the first day for filing such petitions. Nearly all incumbents of both parties were among those filing.

The deadline for filings is Feb. 29. Committeemen will be elected in the April 9 primary election.

In the Democratic column the names of all regular organization candidates were filed and those of opposition candidates in the 16th, 18th, and 36th wards. A few scattering opposition petitions are expected to be filed later.

Contest in 16th Ward.

One of the most bitterly fought of the Democratic contests is expected in the 16th ward. The petitions of the incumbent committeeman, former Ald. Terrence F. Moran, and Ald. John S. Boyle were both filed. Moran, a member of the Kelly-Nash faction, was defeated in the last aldermanic contest by Boyle, of the Courtney faction.

Edward T. Burke, 4351 Greenview avenue, distributed petitions last night among Democratic precinct captains in the 47th ward for signatures to enable him to file as a candidate for Democratic ward committeeman. The meeting was held at 4731 North Western avenue. Charges were made that three men for a time tried to prevent the captains from attending the meeting. Burke is a precinct captain and a city plumbing inspector.

Six contests appeared in the Republican lists—in the 7th, 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th, and 22d wards. More contests are expected, with most of the incumbent committeemen lined up with the faction supporting Richard J. Lyons for governor. Another group plans to run under the banner of Dwight H. Green.

REVIEW BUILDING CODE PROVISIONS ON GARAGE RAMPS

Provisions of the new building code applying to ramps in certain types of public garages are to be reconsidered by the city council's joint subcommittee on codes and traffic.

This was decided upon yesterday after it was charged that the provisions are so strict that they limit ramp construction to a type patented by a New York firm.

The charges were made by Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie [29th] and L. E. Russell, engineer for the council traffic committee. Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the subcommittee, adjourned the meeting until Tuesday, when an advisory committee of architects will be asked to explain the code provisions relating to ramps.

HADLEY LAUDS FOREIGN POLICY OF WASHINGTON

Danville, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—"There is only one foreign policy which will enable this country to survive—that of Washington's 'No foreign entanglements,'" Charles W. Hadley, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, told the Danville Business Builders' organization here today.

"For more than a hundred years the United States of America strictly followed the policy laid down by Washington," he said. "In 1917 we forgot this advice and interfered in Europe at tremendous expense in blood and money.

"However, now in 1940, because we have, with the one exception, been guided by the wisdom of the first President, the United States is the center of civilization."

DIRKSEN WARNS WE MUST SOLVE REAL PROBLEMS

Charges New Deal Failed Despite Spending.

Dangers of taking the United States' democratic form of government for granted were brought out yesterday by Congressman Everett M. Dirksen, Republican of Pekin. In a speech before the Executives' club he emphasized that a complacent attitude toward their government by other peoples had brought on dictatorships.

Everett M. Dirksen.

Dirksen declared the dangers to American democracy were twofold. That from without, he said, threatened us in case of war, when emergency measures might put the country under virtual dictatorship. The danger from within, he explained, lies in the unsolved domestic problems, such as those of agriculture and unemployment.

Problems Far from Solution.

"How long can we go on," asked Dirksen, "before the people will say we have reached the time when our government lacks the capacity for meeting its problems, and perhaps we need a change of government? When enough of the people say this——"

He let his auditors draw their own conclusions. He said all of the internal problems were as far from solution now as they were in March, 1933, when the New Deal administration moved into Washington.

"Today," Dirksen said, "we take our government for granted. Before the world war, the German government took their monarchy for granted. Then they took the ensuing Republican form of government for granted. Now they have Hitler, the dictator.

Russia and Italy, Too.

"Russia took the czars for granted. Who is in power now? A dictator, Stalin. Italy took its king for granted. Dictator Mussolini rules the Italians now. I wonder if it is wise for us to take our government for granted?"

Dirksen reviewed, year by year, New Deal legislation advertised as designed to solve economic problems, and concluded:

"We have directed our attention to the branches rather than to the root of our troubles," he said. "After all this legislation, which touches all human enterprise, here we are in 1940 with our main problems unsolved.

"There is nothing political about the problems. It is a question of finding the right approach to them. If we adopt the middle road of moderation and avoid extremes, the nation probably will be able to cut its 300th birthday cake."

HORNER IS OUT; HERSHEY IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Slate Makers Agree on Downstate Lawyer.

State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis and Ludwig D. Schrieber, city clerk of Chicago and treasurer of the state committee.

Mayor Kelly said the leaders were considering a banker for the treasurership. John C. Martin, present congressman-at-large, fills that specification and has also served two terms in the treasurer's office. If he is not asked to take a third term as treasurer he probably will be picked for a second term in Washington.

No candidate had appeared against Senator James M. Slattery late tonight.

Cassidy Gets Out of Race.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy sent a letter to the state committee earlier tonight in which he asked that his name not be given consideration as a candidate to succeed himself.

Cassidy wished to return to his private law practice in Peoria.

"I will appreciate it," he wrote Chairman Hershey, "if you will advise the committee that circumstances, entirely related to my personal affairs will not reasonably permit me to offer my candidacy."

The retiring attorney general is understood to have promised Gov. Horner some time ago that he would run with him if the governor was a candidate for a third term. With Mr. Horner out of the picture Cassidy chose to leave the Springfield picture.

HERSHEY A HORNER MAN

Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, who has been chosen as the Democratic organization candidate for governor, has been closely allied with the Horner faction of the party since 1932.

In that year he was elected a member of the Democratic state central committee. In 1936, when the Kelly and Horner forces were at odds, he was designated as committee chairman by the governor and held onto the position when peace was made in 1938, altho the Kelly forces were in a majority.

Hershey is 54 years old, tall, with curly gray hair and a deeply tanned complexion. He is far from the flamboyant oratorical type and is usually considered reserved. He is active and in good health.

State's Attorney for 8 Years.

In 1912 Hershey was elected state's attorney of Christian county and held the position for eight years. For the last eight years he has been an attorney for the liquidation division of the state department of insurance. He has been receiver for a number of insurance companies.

Some of Hershey's acquaintances recalled that he had declined to make a race for Circuit judge in his district, preferring to retain the more lucrative legal post in Springfield. His comment, when he learned that he was to be the organization choice, was brief.

Delighted at Selection.

"I am, of course, delighted," he said, "particularly because my selection has met with the approval of both the governor and Mayor Kelly."

Hershey is married and the father of two sons. The elder son, August, is 25 years old. He is a chemist who was graduated from the University of Michigan and took postgraduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is following his profession at Baton Rouge, La. The younger son, Richard, 23, is slated to graduate from the Harvard law school next summer.

SPEAK OUT ON 3D TERM, PRESIDENT TOLD BY LANDON

Alfred M. Landon, Republican standard bearer in 1936, assailed President Roosevelt yesterday for failing to declare his third term aspirations. Landon also reiterated his former statement that he is not a candidate for the 1940 Republican nomination.

"In my opinion President Roosevelt is acting and talking like a candidate. He is showing an irresponsible, adolescent attitude toward the most important question before the country today—whether or not he will run for a third term. He is either a candidate or he is involved in a conspiracy to allow the use of his name by local machines—like the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago and the Hague machine of Jersey City—to deprive Democratic voters of an open primary."

Landon said the people are entitled to know whether the President proposes to run again, adding that the President's stated objections to questions about his candidacy were an insult to American intelligence. Landon was in Chicago to speak before the Laymen's Council of the Chicago Church Federation.

A Candidate for Congress Uses His Head, to Stand On

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Political opponents of Henry N. Frees of Belleville, Democratic candidate for a congressional nomination in the 22d district, will have a difficult time upsetting his ambitions because he does as well upset as right side up. Frees, a former juggler and circus comedian, says he can speak just as forcefully standing on his head as on his feet.

STEWARDESS DIVORCES A PILOT IN CRACKUP OF AN AIR LINES ROMANCE

An air lines romance crashed yesterday in the courtroom of Judge Rudolph F. Desort, where Mrs. Lorine Griggs, 25 years old, a stewardess, was granted a divorce from Marvin J. Griggs, 29, a pilot.

Mrs. Lorine Griggs.

Mrs. Griggs testified they were married in a secret ceremony June 2, 1938, and Griggs deserted her the next Nov. 1. Griggs did not contest the suit. He has announced his intention of enlisting in the Canadian air force.

Thru her attorney, Elmore Boeger, Mrs. Griggs accepted an out of court property settlement in lieu of alimony. She has been living at the Sheridan Plaza hotel, 4607 Sheridan road, but will return to her duties as stewardess for the Northwest Airlines, flying between Seattle, Wash., and Billings, Mont.

O'CONNELL TOPS BAR CANVASS ON 12 CITY JUDGES

McGarry Gets Low Score in Poll.

The Chicago Bar association yesterday completed its poll of members as to their opinions on the qualifications of 12 Municipal court judges who are candidates for reëlection this year.

Judge Harold P. O'Connell led the list with an average of 94.54 points out of a possible 100. Judge Eugene L. McGarry, whose conduct in connection with bail bond irregularities in the court is being investigated by the bar association, was scored the lowest, with an average of 21.16 points.

1,412 Lawyers Reply.

Questionnaires were sent to members of the association last December. Attorney Mitchell Dawson, a member of the committee which conducted the poll, said replies were received from 1,412 lawyers who practice in the Municipal court.

The questions asked of each lawyer and the points allowed for each follow:

Does he observe court hours?	5
Is he diligent in the dispatch of business?	5
Is he patient and courteous?	5
Is he fair minded?	5
Does he possess legal ability?	20
Have you confidence in his integrity?	40
Do you regard him as an able judge?	20

Harold P. O'Connell	94.54
Frank M. Padden	93.51
Gibson E. Gorman	83.22
Stephen Adamowski	80.85
George B. Weiss	80.05
Matthew D. Hartigan	76.73
LeRoy Hackett	75.91
J. M. Braude	71.41
Joseph J. Drucker	67.89
Joseph B. Hermes	36.92
Francis Borrelli	32.94
Eugene L. McGarry	21.16

How Points Were Scored.

Attorney Dawson explained that each lawyer was asked to vote either yes or no on each of the seven questions. A judge, therefore, scored either the total points allowed for each question or none for that question.

The poll will be followed by a bar primary when all candidates for Municipal judgeships have filed their petitions, Dawson said.

AURORANS URGE G. O. P. SESSION IN CHICAGO JULY 4

The Republicans were urged yesterday by the Young Republican club of Aurora to hold their national convention in Chicago on July 4, as a "new Independence day." This suggestion was forwarded to the Republican national committee.

Then the young Republicans began making plans for their Lincoln day banquet next Wednesday night at which Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York will be the principal speaker. Fish's name was filed yesterday in the Illinois presidential primary. It was expected that this address would be his first in a campaign to secure the Republican nomination.

Plans also were announced to station a cordon of policemen and deputy sheriffs as a guard at the Fish meeting. A month ago a note, purporting to be a communist threat, was hurled thru a window at a Chamber of Commerce dinner. It warned that "more forceful" measures would be taken when Congressman Fish spoke.

HORNER ISSUES STATEMENT ON HIS WITHDRAWAL

Forced to Heed Advice of Doctors, He Says.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Henry Horner tonight issued a statement explaining his reasons for not running for a third term as governor. He has been governor for more than seven years, and altho he will continue in office for about ten and one-half months, the tone of his statement was that of a farewell to the people of the state.

In the statement, addressed to the state Democratic committee, he said:

"After many weeks of calm deliberation, I have come to the greatest personal decision of my life. I will not seek reëlection as governor of Illinois.

"It is an unalterable conviction born of a day by day communion with my own mind and conscience. Uppermost in all my thoughts is my duty to the people of Illinois—my first loyalty and consideration.

Concerned Over Future.

"Beyond that is my deep and abiding concern over the responsibilities that the Democracy of Illinois must face now and in the future. The year 1940 will offer the most vital change in the history of our country that will either fortify or disrupt our national unity. What we do in the months that lie ahead will determine the whole course of humanity's future.

"Nor can I longer be inattentive to the sound pleadings and true counsel of my dearest friends and associates who have guided me in this present action. Eminent and respected medical authorities have made me resolve to avoid the ardors and demands of a vigorous campaign.

"My medical advisers have convinced me by every measure of valid reasoning and experience that I have the strength and ability to concentrate on rounding out my present service in Illinois without jeopardizing my health. They will not answer for my future good health if I heed the campaign call and carry out what has been my long cherished hope—to review my record once again with the voters of Illinois.

"In this voluntary withdrawal from the campaign for reëlection, I have not surrendered my program for Illinois into unfriendly hands, nor do I forsake any obligations to my friends and my party.

Expects Fight to Continue.

"I have every confidence that leaders of our state democracy will continue my fight for the physical and social betterment that the people of Illinois have been winning and achieving on every front. The warm-hearted and honest-minded cooperation of all the right-thinking leaders of the Democratic party has rekindled our allegiances and reinforced the solidarity in our ranks from top to bottom that can win in November. I am not fearful of the outcome if we stay united.

"My active good will and lasting devotion will always be available to my friends and the party that has so richly endowed my life with the highest honors and given unwavering approval to my cause.

"Whatever I have accomplished for the welfare of the people of Illinois and my party I owe to their staunch faith in me. Without them the rewards of public life would be empty.

Gratitude to Backers.

"To each one who has assisted me in advancing my labors for humanity in Illinois there is a remembrance and appreciation deep down in my heart that will never change. We are aware that the best service our party can give the public is good government. My constant desire has been the fulfillment of that public trust. I hold the warmest affection and the most enduring sentiment of gratitude for those who have worked with me to achieve that objective.

"We are prepared for a destiny in 1940 that will test our vigilance and courage. We must meet the challenge of a desperate and destructive opposition with every resource at our command if we hope to safeguard the nation's peace and our internal well-being.

"We are going into this 1940 fight stronger than ever in purpose and performance to guarantee that the horizons for humanity in Illinois will not be darkened by any cloud of reaction when we approach November.

Hopes for Public Confidence.

"Our battle against insecurity and to provide greater opportunities for more and more people has earned and deserved the confidence of the great majority of Illinois voters. They desire the program and principles of that security to come before any selfish ambition or any narrow political expediency.

"In our partnership with the people, our faith is our unity.

CRIMINAL COURTS AND JAIL LIGHTS OFF; CABLE FAILS

The Criminal courts building was thrown into confusion early yesterday afternoon when a power cable from the municipal power plant at 2900 South Sacramento avenue failed. Lights in the building and in the county jail went out, elevators stopped, and other electric equipment was without power.

Six passengers in one elevator were caught between floors and were helped out by attendants. Jurors, judges, attorneys, and witnesses were out to lunch when the power failed and did not get back to the courtrooms. Most courts were dismissed for the day. Some jurors and spectators refused to climb the stairs, and sat on them, blocking the way.

At the county jail Warden Frank Sain assigned extra guards to duty, and an emergency lighting system was set up.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TRANSFERRING 200,000 TO CIVIL SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The house, dividing along party lines, passed today and sent to the senate a bill authorizing civil service status for between 200,000 and 300,000 workers employed by "emergency" and "temporary" governmental agencies. The vote was 214 to 110.

Affected would be mostly persons holding jobs with new agencies created under the Roosevelt administration.

Passage came after Democrats and Republicans engaged in a five hour debate on whether the measure was a "political subterfuge" to "perpetuate" in office Democrats who had been awarded jobs without taking a qualifying examination.

The measure would require the employés to pass a noncompetitive examination. Republicans sought unsuccessfully to require a competitive examination.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GIVES HER IDEAS AT HOUSE INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an appearance before a congressional investigating committee, today recommended a survey of the District of Columbia welfare institutions to correct conditions which she said were bad. She appeared before the district health subcommittee at the invitation of Representative Thomas D'Alesandro [D., Md.], chairman.

Beneath Kleig lights as movie cameras turned, Mrs. Roosevelt related that on recent surprise visits to the district home for the aged, the receiving home for children, and the industrial home school for boys, she found them inadequately staffed, antiquated, and overcrowded.

There is a distressing lack of hospital facilities at the old folks home, she said, adding that "one came away with a very, very sickening feeling."

3D TERM GROUP RULES IN STATE, GREEN ASSERTS

Benton, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—"The choice of Chicago by the Democratic national committee as the site of their convention is proof that the New Dealers look upon this state as a satrapy where they can work their will in the choice of leaders to keep them in power," Dwight H. Green told voters of Franklin county here tonight.

"If there were anything more needed to prove that the state administration is completely under the thumb of the third term squanderbund in Washington, this is it," he continued. "We have gone back more than a hundred years and we are again a territory, apparently, just as we were prior to 1818. The centralization of government in Washington, as far as the state of Illinois is concerned, is complete.

"And now they are going to make this state the preliminary battleground for the continuance of the New Deal and its frauds in power."

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

REGULATING THE REGULATORS.

By decision of the rules committee of the house, the Walter bill to regulate the regulators is to be given prompt consideration in congress. The author of the bill is a Pennsylvania Democrat. The purpose of the measure is to subject the various administrative boards and commissions to supervision by the courts in the interest of justice and fairness.

Today the commissions, combining in themselves the functions of prosecutor, judge, jury, and executioner, are running hog-wild. Recently the Supreme court ruled in a labor board case that the right of the citizen to appeal for relief from acts of the board—believed to be unjust and lawless—is limited. The court said that congress had not granted the right of appeal in all cases.

In 1936 Mr. Roosevelt said he was going to show the people of this country who was boss. He was going to master—the word is his—those who questioned the wisdom or justice of his policies. Mr. Roosevelt must have meant that the numerous commissions set up to regulate all sorts of business relationships were going to do his will and only his will. Such a program could not succeed if the courts remained as a safeguard against arbitrary government. Accordingly it was only a few months later that Mr. Roosevelt entered upon his campaign to emasculate the Supreme court.

Under the Walter bill the commissions' rules would have to be published and would be subject to review at the request of any interested party. That would prevent the regulators from changing their rules in the middle of a hearing and would discourage procedures which were inherently unfair. At the same time any doubt regarding the intention of congress that all commission findings be reviewable in the courts would be removed. The right of an American citizen to protection in the courts against arbitrary and vindictive government would be reëstablished.

The bill is aimed at a great and growing evil in American government. If the present trend is not checked we shall soon find ourselves as much the creatures of administrative tyranny as are the Germans or the Russians under their totalitarian régimes. The Walter bill should be passed. It will have the support of all members of congress, regardless of party, who believe that government as well as the citizen must obey the law.

POWER TO BURN.

The city of Eugene, Ore., has announced its refusal to purchase electricity from the government's Bonneville dam. The town has its own municipal power plant and has decided that it will be cheaper to expand its present facilities than to buy power from the government.

The refusal has every appearance of being final, but whether it is or not it serves to emphasize the absurdity of the government's colossal expenditures for power development in the northwest, an expenditure which far exceeds the cost of the Panama canal.

Bonneville, near Portland, is the smaller of the two government projects in the region and it is within reasonable distance of a fairly large aggregation of consumers. In this respect the prospects for it might seem to be fairly good, but a closer examination of the facts raises doubts. Power rates in Oregon and Washington, thanks to natural advantages, are already among the lowest in the country and per capita consumption in this area was, at last report, the highest in the country. The ability of the region to absorb very large additional blocks of power at any price is therefore a matter for conjecture. As a matter of fact, the skepticism of the critics of the project has been pretty thoroly justified by events. The action of the city of Eugene, which finds that it can make its power cheaper than it can buy it from the government, is of considerable significance in this connection.

With only a fraction of its eventual capacity available there is still so much power on hand at Bonneville that it is being transmitted several hundred miles up river to Grand Coulee for use in the construction of the dam there. The other day the news was published that the administrator at Bonneville was trying to induce a steel company to establish a plant near his dam, but it is doubtful if any steel mill would use anything like as much power as is being sent to Grand Coulee and, even if industries could be found to absorb the present supply, the quantity produced at Bonneville is shortly to be greatly augmented.

And that, of course, is only a part and by all odds the smaller part of the whole story. The big show is Grand Coulee, which is costing the taxpayers 400 million dollars. Grand Coulee alone is to have an installed capacity of 2,700,000 horse power and its production of electricity is to dwarf Bonneville's. At present only two of Coulee's projected 18 turbines are being installed, tho nobody knows where the power of even these two can be sold. Unless a market is found for many times that quantity of electricity the whole scheme collapses.

Today the government is having difficulty finding a market in the northwest for the output of Bonneville, which so far is only partly developed. Long before this problem is solved, if ever it is solved, the government will have to find users of a far larger block of current from Grand Coulee. As Prof. Riggs pointed out some time ago, the eight states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and Nevada generated, in 1935, no more than 6¾ billion kilowatt hours, or considerably less than the firm power which will be produced each year by the 18 generators at Grand Coulee. In an area, most of which consists of desert and mountains, who will be found to consume this enormous additional quantity?

LITTLE EVA, SCARLETT O'HARA, AND THE JOADS.

The two big hits of the films this year are the long delayed "Gone with the Wind" and the story of the Okie Joads as told in "Grapes of Wrath." People who think that everything is wrong in America today like the sufferings of the migratory people from the dust bowl even better than they like the sufferings of the civil war southerners. All the left wingers think that "Grapes of Wrath" is the greatest of all moving pictures. People who are not very conscious of either or any of their wings like it just as a picture.

Margaret Mitchell's book made as great a furor but not as great a fury in our day as Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" did in its. Mrs. Stowe's swept the world. Mrs. Mitchell's swept a united America. If one started the war, the other may be said to have finally ended it. One book enraged the south; the other delighted the north—a triumph for Dr. Time.

When Scarlett O'Hara shoots the pillaging Yankee soldier, Sherman's march is avenged. Northerners and southerners sit at the picture now and know that the Blue and Grey episode has been taken in our national stride.

It might be remarked that there is an oddity about all this. Mrs. Stowe infuriated the southerners by presenting an idyllic southern family dwelling in sweetness and love. Here were human relations saccharine with transcendental virtues. The best of human nature oozed all over the plantation until the ecstasy of being good was too much for Little Eva, the beautiful daughter. She was taken away on glorious fluttering wings. This was the damnation of the south of our forefathers.

In the final redemption, as undertaken in "Gone with the Wind," the glory is restored by some of the hell raisin'est characters who ever tied back the ears of the social code and went for a ride. Little Eva started the war by going to heaven. Scarlett O'Hara ended it by going in the opposite direction. And Scarlett's most successful boy friend is textured out of all the moral qualities discovered in the rise and fall of Scarface Al Capone.

"Gone with the Wind" is doing about a million gross a week in the 27 cities in which it is being exhibited. The picture which is going after that record, "Grapes of Wrath," is another "Uncle Tom's Cabin." So we run around the circle, other plantations and other Legrees without any Topsies and with no Little Eva. Mrs. Stowe was a sentimentalist. She had to have some nice people. Mr. Steinbeck does not even want any nice language. Moreover, we have gone back to Abraham Lincoln, paying 20 bucks for Carl Sandburg's "The War Years" and seeking the dramatic catharsis in the brooding tragedy of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Our emotions are stumbling over their contradictions.

WILSON ISN'T BASHFUL.

Edwin L. Wilson, the former paladin of the Will county slot machine racket, apparently credits voters with extremely short memories. Only last June he was defeated for reëlection as judge in the 12th circuit, but he is now back in the lists seeking the Democratic nomination for state's attorney of Will county.

His injunctions restrained local officials from enforcing the law against slot machine racketeers. He escaped impeachment action by only two votes in the legislature. During debate on the proposal the legislature was told that he had been a pallbearer for Lawrence [Butch] Crowley, the Chicago gangster who moved to Joliet and prospered in the racket until rivals liquidated him with a shotgun.

The voters, on this record, which included such other items as an illegal use of his judicial power in an attempt to save a swindler from prison, found Wilson unfit for judicial office. It is unlikely that they will have changed their minds since last June, but Wilson's boldness is easily explainable.

Following the judicial election, the Will county grand jury indicted 17 persons, including a brother of the judge's bailiff, for election frauds. The frauds were allegedly committed for the benefit of Wilson. As state's attorney he would be in a position to save his henchmen from jail. He would also be able to stifle the investigation which the present state's attorney, James E. Burke, is conducting into the extortion practiced on state civil service employés by the Illinoisans, Gov. Horner's 2 per cent shakedown club. Mr. Wilson could find a reason for taking a chance.

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

Within the last couple of weeks there has been a lot of general delight expressed by the newspapers of the country because December export figures set a new 10 year high for this country. But much of the delight is based on lack of careful examination of what has happened. As usual, the American people are likely to find they've been kidding themselves about it all.

Actually, the value of United States exports in 1939 was only a trifle more than it was in 1938. And 1938 was 180 million dollars less than in 1937, while in 1938 it was 675 million dollars less than in 1930.

The "new high," as reported by the department of commerce, merely meant that our December exports were highest for any month since March of 1930. That was the 10 year high—and a sorry one it was, too, since it was purely a war boom.

Peoria, as one of the industrial communities of the nation, must be particularly careful of too much rejoicing over the December showing. For, while local industries unquestionably will feel, probably have felt, the war boom, no general or lasting prosperity can be based on it and no hope that we are suddenly going to get back some of our pre-1929 export trade is justified by a little more thoughtful consideration of the figures.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

LET'S GET THIS STRAIGHT.

A standard legend of Chicago journalism and theatrical life deals with the "horse-whipping" of Wilbur F. Storey, editor and publisher of the old Chicago Times, by Lydia Thompson, star of the "British Blondes," a song-and-dance troupe. It is reprinted periodically, and down the ages rolls the story that way back in the Sinful Seventies the buxom Lydia flayed the venomous Storey's hide until he looked like Uncle Tom after Simon Legree had finished a hard day's work.

The fact is that Storey, who was a fighting fool when attacked, nearly killed Miss Thompson and one of her accomplices. Here is the true story, as recorded after Storey's death by his employé, Franc B. Wilkie, a first rate writing man:

On Wabash avenue, a few blocks north of 12th street, Storey, strolling home with his wife, was halted by an indignant quartet—Lydia Thompson and Pauline Markham of the "British Blondes," a little newspaper reporter named Archie Gordon, wearing a monocle, and a big guy, Lydia's manager, then or later her husband.

Lydia called Storey a "dirty old scoundrel" and swiped at his face with a riding whip. Storey took the slash on his left arm and fastened his right hand on her throat. Archie dropped his monocle and jumped on Storey's back, clawing at his face. The big guy plucked Storey's hand away from Lydia's throat and grappled with him. Miss Markham began to pound Storey with her umbrella.

After a few seconds the two grapplers fell to the sidewalk, but Storey was top-dog and at the throttling business again. Then bystanders came up and quieted the brawl. The judge to whom they told it the next morning was impartial; he fined all five participants $100 each, but suspended the sentence.

"Storey would have strangled one of the women and broken the neck or back of one of the men, or both, if he had not been interfered with," writes Wilkie.

The cause of this brawl was the Times' frequent insinuations of unchastity among the "British Blondes." There had been a running fire of leering wisecracks, but the fracas was precipitated by an editorial paragraph which exclaimed:

"Bawds in the opera house! Where's the police?"

SINGER IN THE CLOUDS.

[Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822.]

There was a poet of so brave a wing
No earthy bound could hedge his soaring flight,
But where aërial eddies upward fling
Their spirals past the clouds to zenith height,
There, toward the sun itself he bent his way,
Weaving wild lucent tones of rhythmic song—
The listening ear despairs the brain's delay,
In so fine frenzy is it borne along.
An ever searching spirit, sheer, intense,
Gathering with lyric rapture thought on thought,
Combining, stretching to a sharper sense
The patterns in which poetry is wrought!
That there was such a soul, O Time, be praised,
Reckless of all but that a path be blazed!

Out of the Chestnut Barrel.

I hasten to object. That gondola story [Feb. 6] actually occurred in the Chicago city council. The speaker was none other than "Bath House" John Coughlin, who was discussing the gondolas left over from the World's Columbian Exposition: "Mr. Chairman, we don't need all them gondolas. I move that we just keep a male and a female gondola and let nature take her course."

Henry W. Lee.

[That gondola story started in Venice in the 1500s when Shylock said to Antonio: "Why you wanta borrow all deesa money? To breeda gondolas?"]

Street Merry-Go-Round.

For a real cross-eyed sensation I give you Springfield, Ill., with East North Grand avenue, South West Grand avenue, West South Grand avenue, North West Grand avenue, West North Grand avenue, and East South Grand avenue. [There was also an East Grand avenue, North and South, but somebody put a stop to that years ago by calling it, properly enough, 19th street.]

VALENTINE FOR MARY.

What is your pleasure, my sweet Valentine?
Dinner with caviar, turkey, and wine?
Theater tickets, about the third row?
Ship to Bermuda or plane to the west?
What is your gracious, most queenly behest?
Raiment to set off your figure divine?
What is your pleasure, most loved Valentine?
Nay, do not answer—it's plain as can be—
You want no such trifles, you'd rather have me!
Sweet of you, Angel, and now, just for that,
We'll go to the movies! Go put on your hat!

The Class in Architecture.

Your column may be likened to an architectural structure, built of words.

There must be balance, design, form and substance. Each day the column must be redesigned and built, and new material found.

This analogy may be contested by the quibbler who will say that unlike the architectural formula you commence your column at the top. He does not know, of course, that your method is borrowed from the Greeks who built their columns at Cnossus of cypress wood tapered downward; the tree trunk used as a column being inverted to retain the sap.

I pondered on this as I lay abed after a rigorous day, and thinking of your burden I rested my own. I remembered your appeal for a good last line, the perfect finish. And I thought of a last line that would end all last lines. It was heroic. It dealt with Finland. . . .

Then I floated off, bearing that perfect line to the dreamy wastes of slumberland—and lost it, for when I awoke I could not recapture it. It had vanished in the limbo of lost memory.

Shandy Gaff.

P. S. But anyway it was Finn-ish.

The jesters who have been punning on Finland and Finnish ["fin" meaning hand or five dollar bill; "finish," etc.] might astonish us by singing "Way Down Upon the Suomi Ribber."

YOU AND YOUR GLANDS.

THE point is well taken that we are what our glands make us—tall or short, slender or adipose, energetic or indolent, charming or dull. But what we know about our endocrine factories is but a fraction of what we must learn some day. Our understanding of the thyroid, however, is probably more extensive than that of any other unit of the system, and every physician encounters routinely individuals who possess glands that are underactive. In other words, because of their decreased output, the circulation is deprived of hormones which are necessary for the preservation of health—the functioning of the entire body.

Most of us have seen cretins—youngsters who are squat in figure with coarse hair and expressionless features. But too little secretion is not confined alone to these unfortunate children. Scarcely more than a generation has elapsed since Murray found that many such adults—victims of myxedema—could be aided thru the administration of dried thyroid substance. One of the first patients so treated is now living—aged 87.

Substandard behavior on the part of the thyroid may come at any age. Perhaps the structure does not receive sufficient circulation as a result of which it may shrivel or atrophy. In other instances the trouble may lie in the interrelation between all the endocrines. The thyroid may suffer if the pituitary fails to conduct itself as it should.

The case is reported by Means of a woman who presented fairly typical symptoms of myxedema. For a while thyroid medication helped materially, but improvement failed to continue. It was then discovered that the anterior region of the pituitary was badly diseased. The output of this latter organ was impaired and thus in turn the adrenals, the ovaries, and certain other depots were disturbed.

But examples of this sort are relatively rare as contrasted with those who can be restored under so simple a form of treatment that it smacks of necromancy. The smallest dose of the extract is the one that should be employed and seldom will more than a grain and a half per day be needed. As every physician realizes, it is essential to check carefully the metabolism and the heart rate from time to time—as poisoning may ensue. If the patient is under skilled scrutiny, however, no untoward manifestations may be looked for. It goes without saying that no one should ever use the product on his own responsibility.

We are confident that whenever myxedema occurs in one who has been well hitherto—restoration to health is possible in 99 cases out of 100. Should the deficiency become obvious before growth has been attained, however, far more critical management will be demanded. Children who are thought to be dull in school, who exhibit a curious yellow tint of the cheeks, with some huskiness of the voice, should have the performance of their glands investigated.

In addition to the physical appearance, the laboratory furnishes additional aids to diagnosis. One, of course, is the metabolic rate, and another is the amount of cholesterol which exists in the blood. When cretinism is recognized shortly after birth the medicine should be started promptly—certainly as early as the second month.

Naturally, no one wants to be below par and yet many are no doubt struggling along with a supply of hormones quite inadequate for regular activity. The tendency is to gain weight, to become indolent, to shun exercise, and to develop a slow type of mental reaction.

Some few years ago a school superintendent, 48 years of age—who had achieved an enviable reputation in the field of education—noticed a marked letdown in his thinking processes. Finally, his friends and many members of his staff observed his failings. A vacation which was suggested did not bring about recovery and it was only after a breathing test revealed a reading of minus 50 that the cause was identified. He has since been using small doses of thyroid and is now as keen as ever.

PAIN AT PARTING.

C. M. writes: You say that the length of the hair has nothing to do with strength. But how do you explain the fact that when women part the hair other than the usual way they develop a severe headache and pain in the scalp until the part is correctly placed? I have known this to be the case with women, but never with men.

REPLY

Both men and women suffer alike at the parting of the ways. This is due to the fact that the hair has been trained to lie a certain way. The pull on the muscles within each follicle may be responsible for symptoms.

SWEARING OFF.

Mrs. M. Z. writes: If a heavy drinker stops liquor for about five months, will the desire for alcohol go away after a while?

REPLY.

Many are able to climb into the driver's seat of the water wagon and maintain this lofty position against all comers. While the urge to indulge may not disappear in so short a period, it will in time if no liquor is taken. One of the important attributes of cure is the "will to do"—with plenty of activity for both mind and body.

EGGNOG.

Mrs. M. writes: Is a raw egg taken in milk daily as beneficial for a 2 year old child as a cooked egg?

REPLY.

A LOCAL CONCERN.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Those of us who still believe that the federal constitution intends that the federal and state governments operate each in its respective sphere are wondering what this country is coming to when the federal district attorney calls Chicago's police commissioner on the carpet concerning handbook gambling in Chicago, which from time immemorial has been exclusively a matter of local concern.

The fantastic pretext of using the lottery law as justification does not fool most citizens, who are getting used to seeing this administration misuse many federal laws to indirectly accomplish its ulterior purposes, such as disposing of its adversaries. Federal laws, as never before, are now being used to bring opponents into line or to advance ambitious prosecutors to the federal bench.

There is much more at stake in this incident of the calling of our police commissioner by the district attorney than the evil of horse betting, which will be eradicated when our citizens really want it to be. The very bone and sinew of the American system of government is endangered by these tactics. We are certain that THE TRIBUNE cannot be scared off by threats of retaliation.

FOR HUMMING BIRDS.

Fox Lake, Wis., Feb. 4.—What do you think about having a national anthem practice week? No doubt you have noticed that not one out of ten persons can repeat the words of the "Star Spangled Banner." Most of us are just a flock of humming birds after we get beyond the dawn's early light or the firelight's last gleaming.

We do not need another national anthem. Why not memorize the words of the one we now have?

ISABELLA HOTCHKISS.

SLAVERY IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—In your report of the death of Senator Charles S. Deneen, you say that his great-grandfather, Risdon Moore, a revolutionary war veteran, came to Illinois territory from Georgia in 1812 because of opposition to slavery. Didn't Illinois have slave owners at that time and for many years thereafter?

CAROL WILSON.

TIME WILL TELL.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—In connection with the series of articles dealing with the five Illinois congressmen who voted against extension of the Dies committee, permit me to advise that here in the 2d congressional district the action of Congressman McKeough is well understood and from observation I believe his action is quite generally approved. J. R.

BIRDS IN WINTER.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—In your column of Feb. 6 a gentleman says: "If the birds are too lazy to fly south in winter they deserve to starve or freeze." If he would read Matt. vi., 26, he would find that God takes care of the birds, tho not by throwing crumbs down to them. He expects Christians to do the work for Him.

HOW TO LAND A JOB.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—I have just finished reading Rancho Grande's comments regarding employment in South America. If he would write to various states in the United States, to the heads of the chambers of commerce and large business concerns, the replies would be very similar to the ones he has received from his letters inquiring about employment in South America.

To get a position anywhere it is generally necessary to take a chance and see for yourself what opportunities there are. Before coming to Chicago I wrote several large business concerns asking about employment and giving my qualifications. They had no place for me. I came here and within one week I found a position that pleased me. I intend to try South America next summer. Buenos dias to you.

FLORITA.

IN THE BLOOD.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—One of your correspondents complains that Dick Tracy's baby is just too utterly goofy for words. I write to express surprise that your correspondent is surprised. According to the Mendelien law of heredity, the baby is bound to look like that, because the parents are that way. Also, allowing for possible departures from the normal routine, all of the neighbors also look that way, so what chance has the baby of being otherwise?

MAC F.

BLACK, MURPHY, AND HOOK.

Neoga, Ill., Feb. 6.—I consider Congressman Hook as qualifying, by New Deal standards, for a place on the Supreme court. A third term might bring that blessing to our country. F. L. E.

LANDLORD'S COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Could somebody tell me why reliefers, who are getting money to pay their rent, are not compelled to do so? I have a relief client for a tenant who flatly refuses to pay the rent. When I reported the case to the relief office, they said, "We are not here to collect the rent for you."

I would be arrested and prosecuted as an embezzler if I would spend the state's or some one else's money on myself, but some of these reliefers are actually doing it, and are getting away with it. Is there no protection against a rent cheater? You can sue them for eviction but that costs time and extra money, besides the money you are losing on rent.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 1.—Not in all my collection do I have a more valuable piece of literature than Dr. John Evans' pamphlet on "Higher Education," published by THE TRIBUNE.

Why does he not write a similar one covering universities and colleges thruout the United States, or at least the eastern part of that country? It would be invaluable to parents, counselors, and high school principals.

FOR A GAAR WILLIAMS BOOK.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 29.—Is it too early to suggest that an album of Gaar Williams' best cartoons be bound for distribution as Christmas gifts next year? I am sure as much interest will be shown in a Gaar Williams album as is shown in the Line Book, Wake of the News, and June Provines.

How Our States Got Their Names

30. NEW YORK.

When the English took over the Dutch territory in 1664, New Amsterdam was named New York in tribute to the duke of York, brother of the then king of England. Another source says the city and state of New York were named after the county of York in England. New York was one of the original states.

New York state seal. Shield is supported by Liberty [left] and Justice, and is surmounted by eagle on terrestrial globe. Scene on shield is that of sun rising over mountains, and ship and sloop about to meet on river. Scroll below bears state motto.

New York is called the Empire and Excelsior state. The first name was given, apparently, because of the state's wealth and influence. The second comes from the fact that the state motto is "Excelsior" [higher]. The state flower is the rose. New York was first settled by the Dutch in 1624 at Albany.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—There has been a will in which I have been left some money and [1] the administrative year was up Jan. 6, 1940, but as yet I have received no money. All bills were supposed to have been paid and no real estate involved, so I don't know where the delay is.

2. Can you tell me where to inquire about same?

3. I do not wish to write the lawyer or executrix.

4. Do you consider the —— company reliable and also what rate interest they charge?

M. C.

1. While it is theoretically possible to close most estates immediately after the year for filing claims has expired, the average period is several months longer, and we would suggest that you be patient for a little while.

2. Your first step would be to tell the administrator or executor that you are anxious to have the estate closed as soon as possible. If they delay unreasonably, you can ask the clerk of the Probate court to bring pressure to bear on them to close.

3. The reason for your reluctance is not clear to us.

4. We have no separate information as to this concern, but in general the concerns making loans on undivided interests in probate estates can be expected to charge all that the traffic will bear.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROPERTY SALE.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—In selling a house is it up to the buyer or seller to pay for the following charges: [1] To recording deed; [2] to preparing notes and trust deed; [3] to recording trust deed; [4] to continuation of abstract; [5] to examination of abstract?

R. M.

1. The buyer.
2. In general, if one of the parties has prepared the papers, he would not be entitled to charge the cost against the other.
3. The seller.
4. The seller would pay the cost of showing title in himself. The buyer would pay the cost of showing the new conveyance.
5. The buyer.

Ordinarily there should be an express contract and if it contains wording on any of these points, such wording would control.

Chicago, Feb. 1 [Friend of the People].—There is an old building falling apart and in a dangerous condition at No. 2247 of our block. I have complained to the building and health departments with no results. Any help or advice to correct this condition will be appreciated.

C. B.

The owner of the above mentioned premises has been notified to make all repairs necessary to put building in good and safe condition. If the work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law.

2 TELL OF PAYING BRIBES TO KILL BOOTLEG CASES

Still Operators Accuse 2 Ex-Prosecutors.

Two self-admitted bootleggers told a federal District court jury yesterday of the business methods used by an alleged case fixing ring which operated in the District court. They said members of the ring accepted bribes on the instalment plan, gave a money back guarantee and agreed to split all fines over $50 in the event the "fix" didn't take.

The testimony was given near the end of the fourth day of the trial of the accused fixers in Judge Patrick T. Stone's court.

Two of the defendants, Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, are former assistant United States attorneys. The others are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, described as a bootlegger.

Describe Bootleg Racket.

Ins and outs of the bootlegging racket were described to the jury by Elmer Swanson, who was followed on the stand by his brother-in-law, Christ Della Rocco, a former prize fighter. Later the hearing was enlivened by a clash between Prosecutor Martin Ward and Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart.

Over Ward's objections Stewart tried to show on cross-examination that federal agents had forced Rocco to testify by threatening to accuse him of murdering one of his bootlegging colleagues.

Before they were excused, both Swanson and Rocco were forced by the defense to admit they are under indictment in Cleveland, O., for bootlegging and that they expect leniency from the government in return for testifying at this trial.

Tell of Bribe Rendezvous.

Swanson testified that he had operated two stills and that Rocco was his partner in the first venture. This still, located at 116 West 119th street, was destroyed by an explosion in 1937. Fearing arrest, he said, they contacted the bondsman, Horton, who arranged to meet them in a hardware store at 11823 South Michigan avenue.

The witness testified that he and Rocco met Horton and Kretske there. [Records show Kretske had resigned from the federal district attorney's staff by that time, but that Glasser still was an assistant prosecutor.] Horton said the case could be fixed for $500, Swanson told the jury.

"Don't worry about a thing. Every thing will be taken care of," the witness quoted Kretske as saying. "Red will get part of the money and every thing will be all right."

"Did you know who 'Red' was?" asked Prosecutor Ward.

"Sure—Glasser," said the witness.

A few weeks later the money was paid to Horton in a south side tavern, Swanson said. Records show that no one was ever arrested in this case.

Then Swanson told how he became a partner with other bootleggers in a new still at 6949 Stony Island avenue. This place was raided by federal agents within two months, he related, and altho he was not arrested he feared that the government was on his trail.

Again Horton was contacted and he arranged another meeting with Kretske, Swanson said. The price this time was fixed at $1,200, he said, $500 to be paid at once and the balance when the case was disposed of. Horton explained, the witness testified, that "the heat was on Kretske" in the federal building at that time.

Promise Results or Refund.

"But if everything isn't taken care of, you get your money back," Horton was quoted as saying.

Swanson was asked to explain what was meant by the statement that "the heat was on Kretske" and to define the phraseology, "take care of everything." "The heat," he said, meant that Kretske was being watched. "Taking care of everything," he said, meant seeing that no one went to jail.

Records in the second still case show that the charge against Swanson, who gave himself up after allegedly paying the first $500 instalment to Horton, was dismissed after one hearing.

Attorney Stewart attacked this testimony on the ground that it was fear of a renewal of the old case that brought Swanson into court to give evidence for the government.

Explains Alcohol Business.

Rocco corroborated Swanson's story of the payment of the first alleged bribe. He was questioned about the illicit liquor business.

"How much did you make as a bootlegger?" asked Attorney Stewart.

"O, the market was up and down," said the witness. "Sometimes we paid $5, sometimes $7 for a can of alcohol for recooking."

"Well, about how much?" Stewart insisted.

"Thirty cans," began the witness, wrinkling his forehead and hitching himself up in his chair, "cost $6 apiece; that's—well, you figure it out. Anyway, we'd often get only 22 good cans per day out of the 30."

"Good cans," he said, meant alcohol of higher proof which sold for about $10 per can.

Attorney Stewart projected into the hearing the name of Victor Jobbek, whom he described as a former stillender at the Stony Island place. Jobbek supposedly died of a heart attack over a year ago.

"Didn't the agents threaten to charge you with murdering him if you refused to come here?" Stewart shouted.

The trial will be resumed Tuesday.

An Engineer Accuses Democrats.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Carl V. Erickson, well known engineer, who resigned on Wednesday as manager of the Urbana and Champaign sanitary district, charged today that repeated attempts had been made to force him to contribute to political campaign funds.

He said he was requested to donate to the Champaign county Democratic organization 4 per cent of his salary. This is twice as much as the levy exacted from state employés by the Democratic state administration.

His Previous Explanation.

At the time Erickson tendered his resignation, he said only that there had been a disagreement about the intrusion of employment conditions not included in his salary contract. It was not known until today that he referred to pressure applied in an unsuccessful quest for political contributions.

Erickson said he explained to those who made the demands on him that he understood politics was not involved in his job. His interest was in the technical aspects of his work, he said, not in politics.

He was graduated from the United States Military academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1930, and served in the army for two and a half years as a first lieutenant. Before accepting the appointment here in 1937 he was employed by the sanitary district of Chicago for a time and lived in Oak Park.

In a public statement he issued today Erickson said he was solicited several times by Harold F. Mooney, an Urbana coal dealer and member of the sanitary district's three man board of trustees.

The First Approach.

"The matter of my making a contribution of money was first brought to my attention prior to the fall election of 1938 by Mr. Mooney," Erickson said. "At that time I was invited to luncheon at a restaurant in Champaign by Mr. Mooney.

"He stated that it would be desirable for me to make a contribution to the Champaign county Democratic organization in the amount of 4 per cent of my annual salary. This I refused to do on the ground that I was assured at the time of my appointment that my position would not be involved in any political way whatsoever."

Erickson said Mooney dropped the matter for the time, but approached him on the subject again last July.

"I told him my attitude in the matter had not changed," Erickson said, "regardless of whether such a decision would be instrumental in determining if I was to be offered a contract renewal at the July, 1939, meeting.

"Following the July meeting I was indirectly informed that my salary could be raised to $4,200 a year if I would agree to contribute $200. I answered that I was not interested in a raise on that basis."

When Mooney was informed of Erickson's accusation, he said he had nothing to say.

THREE WARRANTS ACCUSE FIREBUG AT WAUKEGAN

Three warrants charging arson were filed yesterday against John Pustavrh, 21 years old, who confessed Thursday that he had set fire to two churches and other buildings in Waukegan during the last three months. The warrants were obtained by State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county from Police Magistrate Clarence Brown.

Pustavrh, formerly an inmate of the state insane asylum in Elgin, was arrested after 15 fires had been reported in the building where he lives at 932 Prescott street, Waukegan. Deputy Fire Marshal Frank Doherty said the damage from all fires attributed to the youth totaled $50,000.

Pustavrh confessed burning the First Congregational church of Waukegan last Nov. 19, causing a $22,000 loss, and the Agudas Achim synagogue in that city last Sunday, causing $1,500 damage.

Refuse to Indict Reputed Gambler in Stab Slaying

Stoyan was slain at Dearborn and Division streets.

OFFERS EVIDENCE OF VOTE IN NAME OF A DEAD MAN

Evidence that a vote was cast in the name of a dead man was presented to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday at the trial of election officials of the 16th precinct of the 1st ward on contempt charges. The case involves the judicial election last June.

Prosecutor John F. Cashen Jr. submitted the signed application for the ballot of Allan A. Miller, 55 East 26th street. Then he presented a death certificate from Hines hospital showing that Miller, a war veteran, died last March 13 of tuberculosis.

There were 241 straight Democratic ballots and 7 straight Republican ballots cast in the precinct, according to the officials' returns. Eleven witnesses thus far have testified they voted straight Republican. Nine others have said they did not vote at all, altho signed application cards appear for them.

DODGES HIS PAST 20 YEARS BEFORE PRISON GETS HIM

Enters Cell Today to Pay for Crime.

A criminal past, buried 20 years, rose up yesterday against Joseph Sacrino, a prosperous Louisville, Ky., café and night club owner. Today Scarino will enter the penitentiary at Joliet to serve a one year to life sentence for armed robbery.

Joseph Sacrino.

Scarino, then 19 years old, was sentenced in 1921 with three other men to 10 years to life in the penitentiary for the robbery of a saloon. Sacrino, who insisted he was innocent, appealed the case. While the appeal was pending he fled the state and his bond was forfeited.

Sacrino went to Detroit, Mich., where he worked in the automobile plants for several years. Then he went to Cleveland, O., and finally to Louisville, where he opened a café and prospered.

Tries to Protect Employé.

A few weeks ago, Sacrino found it necessary to curtail his staff. Among his employés was a bartender. Sacrino told him he would assign him to night work, rather than discharge him.

This didn't please the bartender, however. He made threats against Sacrino. The Louisville police, who regarded Sacrino as a substantial business man with a good record, arrested the bartender to protect Sacrino.

Sacrino provided bail for his employé. He told the police the man was all right at heart. But the bartender kept on talking. He told friends he was brought from New York to act as bodyguard for Sacrino, who, he said, had a criminal record.

Investigate to Stop Talk.

The Louisville police, to stop this talk, said they would investigate the records of every employé in Sacrino's establishments, including Sacrino himself. The inquiry revealed that Sacrino was wanted in Cook county.

Deputy Sheriff Patrick Keenan returned Sacrino to the Cook county jail yesterday. Today he will go to Joliet where the three sentenced with him—Jack Morgan, Joseph Siegel, and Pete Fierto—served their time for the robbery.

The maximum term for armed robbery is now one year to life. It is possible that Sacrino may gain a parole after serving 11 months.

"I'm innocent of the crime and I've lived a clean life," Sacrino said. "But I'm sorry now that I left the state."

APPEALS COURT ORDERS HEARING IN M'GARRY CASE

The first district Appellate court ordered a complete hearing yesterday on State's Attorney Courtney's appeal from a Criminal court ruling dismissing an indictment which charged Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court with conspiracy to defraud the county by executing fraudulent bail bonds.

Judges William H. McSurely, John M. O'Connor, and David F. Matchett refused to act on a motion to dismiss Courtney's appeal. The motion was made by McGarry's attorney, Walker Butler.

Butler contended that Judge Joseph A. Graber's sustaining of a plea in bar to free McGarry could not be appealed. Butler is to file his brief in the case by Feb. 16 and the state's attorney will have 10 days after that to file his reply.

POLICEWOMAN IS GUEST AT PARTY TO MARK 25 YEARS OF SERVICE

Employés of the state's attorney's office gave a party yesterday for Mrs. Helmina Larsen, policewoman who was celebrating her 25th anniversary in the department. Mrs. Larsen, a widow and the mother of three children, lives at 10523 Church street. She was assigned to the Hyde Park station for five years, and has been in the social service department of the state's attorney's office for 20 years.

Mrs. Helmina Larsen.

"I've enjoyed every minute of my work," Mrs. Larsen said. "I hope that I have done some good. If I were to give advice to young girls, it would be this: Remember your religious teachings, and avoid drinking. Excessive drink often causes girls to make their first missteps."

A gift of a pen and pencil set from fellow employés was presented to Mrs. Larsen by State's Attorney Courtney.

URGE RUNAWAY TO RETURN; AUNT KILLED IN CRASH

Raymond C. Kasper Jr.

Yesterday, on his 19th birthday, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Kasper, 4939 North Wolcott street, issued an appeal that he return home.

His grandfather, Ole Olakson, 3710 Cortland street, is reported near death in St. Elizabeth's hospital, and an aunt, Mrs. Hattie Boesen, 1840 North Keeler avenue, was killed yesterday morning in an automobile accident. She was traveling with friends near Bloomington, en route to San Antonio, Tex., when the accident occurred.

Young Kasper, a former student at Amundsen High school, left home without money or extra clothing. He told none of his friends nor his family where he was going. Searches by the Summerdale police and the missing persons bureau have proved fruitless.

DETROIT POLICY KING SEIZED IN MAYWOOD RAID

The investigation of Detroit graft and gambling, in which several police officials have been linked to the policy racket, reached into Chicago last night. Everett I. Watson, 48 years old, colored, was arrested on a secret warrant charging conspiracy to obstruct justice. It was issued by Judge Homer Ferguson of Detroit, who is conducting the investigation as a one-man grand jury.

Watson was described as a wealthy policy king and the manager of Roscoe Toles, Negro heavyweight who is in the same boxing stable as Champion Joe Louis. Seized with Watson was his wife, Irene, who was wearing a mink coat valued at several thousand dollars. They were found at the home of James C. Martin, colored, 155 South 15th avenue, Maywood. Martin is owner of the Airplane Inn, 1900 Lake street, and has been named frequently in connection with Chicago policy game operations.

The arrests were made by Lieut. Thomas Kelly and Sergt. Nicholas Disteldorf of the state's attorney's police, in company with Special Prosecutor Chester O'Hara of Detroit. Watson refused to waive extradition and was locked up at the Brighton Park station.

2 PLEAD GUILTY TO BOMBING OF ELECTRIC LINES

Union Business Agent Denies Charges.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 9 [Special].—Two men pleaded guilty here today to state and federal charges growing out of sabotage of property of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company. The campaign of destruction allegedly was waged in an effort to force the company to withdraw from a National Labor Relations board case and to make its employés change unions.

The men who pleaded guilty are Parrish E. Freeman, 30 years old, of Joliet, Ill., an ex-convict, and Frank S. Lung, 25, South Bend.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by a third man, John A. Marks, 36, of Michigan City, business agent of a local union of the International Brotherhood of Electric Workers and the alleged "brains" of the sabotage campaign. Marks was held on bonds totaling $205,000.

Bond Set at $100,000.

The three men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Thad M. Talcott Jr., on charges of violating the antiracketeering laws and were bound over to the federal grand jury. Bond for Marks, who pleaded not guilty, was set at $100,000 in that case while Freeman and Lung, who pleaded guilty, were ordered to post bond of $25,000 each.

Prior to their arraignment before the commissioner, the same three were taken before Circuit Judge Dan Pyle to answer state charges. Freeman pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying dynamite for unlawful use and Lung pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful use of dynamite. Marks pleaded not guilty to a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony. Bond of each was set at $30,000.

Another Man Arrested.

ARREST IN FRAUD CASE TRAPS MAN WANTED 2 YEARS

James Adams, arrested by a detective bureau squad Wednesday after a Rockford woman accused him of a land swindle, was betrayed yesterday by his fingerprints. They showed him to be James E. Stinson, for whom authorities have been looking since Feb. 15, 1938.

On that date the Appellate court upheld Stinson's conviction and sentence of 1 to 5 years in prison for an attempted stock fraud. Stinson, who had been free on bond, disappeared and his bond was forfeited.

He was being held in the county jail last night pending his removal to Joliet penitentiary.

Tampa Enjoys a Gay Time at Gasparilla Fete

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVERAL Chicagoans attended the colorful and gay Gasparilla ball held Tuesday night in Tampa, Fla. The ball climaxed festivities similar to New Orleans' famed Mardi Gras. The ball in the Florida city was the 32d annual coronation ball given by Ye Mystic Crewe of Gasparilla, honoring King Gasparilla XXXII. and her majesty the queen and their royal court. It was held in the Municipal auditorium and was attended by Tampa's social figures and by many of the fashionable winter residents of the surrounding resorts.

Mrs. Arnold Kirkeby, Miss Jane White, Miss Virginia Powers, and Mrs. John Francis Wintermeyer were among the Chicagoans at the ball. Mrs. Kirkeby, who was Miss Carlotta Cuesta of Tampa before her marriage, was the Gasparilla queen in 1927. The most popular debutante of each winter is chosen for that position. Mrs. Wintermeyer also is a former Tampa girl, having been Josephine Garcia before her marriage. As can be judged by these names, Tampa's social families are mainly of Spanish descent.

Mrs. Kirkeby and Miss White are spending the winter at the Belleview Biltmore in Belleair; Miss Powers is enjoying a vacation there between semesters at Rollins college in Winter Park, and Mrs. Wintermeyer is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Garcia, in Tampa. Mrs. Carroll Johnson of Geneva joined Ms. Wintermeyer this week for a brief stay in Tampa.

Celebration Recalls Arrival of Pirate.

The Gasparilla fête celebrates the arrival of the bold and daring pirate, Don Jose Gasparilla, in Tampa bay. He was so entranced, according to the story, with the beauty of this landlocked harbor that he selected as his headquarters a small island in the bay near the location of the present city of Tampa.

In 1904 a group of Tampa residents, appreciating the adventure and glamor that surround all pirate tales, organized Ye Mystic Crewe of Gasparilla. Each year since, except for four, the pirates have sailed in an old Spanish galleon thru Tampa bay and captured the city. They parade thru the streets and revel all night. The next night they celebrate their victory with a ball and crown their king and queen.

Mrs. Kirkeby's brother, A. L. Cuesta Jr., and Mrs. Wintermeyer's father were among King Gasparilla's honor guard.

Good Morning!

The action starts just before the world war, when the yeast of revolution was beginning to work. It ends in Paris after the conflict is over and a former Russian nobility must labor if it would live.

The story deals with the love of a prince, who is also an officer in the Cossacks, and a singer whose father and brother are revolutionaries.

When Lydia and Peter meet—neither wots the affiliations of the other . . . Peter hearing that Lydia has a reputation for kindness to poor students, masquerades as one and, as such, wins the lady's heart.

Events musical and melodramatic lead to the great war and a Christmas eve episode in the trenches when the prince, in ringing baritone, responds in song to a German chorus of "Holy Night" sung by the enemy in honor of the Russian Christmas which occurs two weeks after their own.

And then you are in Paris. The battle is over. In a Parisian "Balalaika" named after the beloved St. Petersburg café where Peter had first gazed upon his love, and run by former nobles and their servants, the two, separated for long by fell circumstance, come together again. . . . H. E.

Ilona Massey is really good news. She's beautiful, ecstatic, after the manner of Dolores Del Rio, and can both act and sing! A truly lovely voice . . . Mr. Eddy looking mighty handsome in his uniforms, also sings pleasingly. . . . Whether he acts is a matter for discussion. . . . Very excellent support is accorded by the very intelligent supporting cast and there are some splendid singers in chorus ensembles.

A Smart Jacket Is the Cure for a Dated Dress

BY REA SEEGER.

Having jacket trouble? Have you extra skirts, dated dresses that need rejuvenation at small cost? Your problem is solved. One of the largest assortments of good looking separate jackets we've ever seen is now on display to meet the career girl's needs at prices she can afford.

Bold bright checks, blazing beautiful plaids, high colors, blurred monotone effects, smart diagonals, tiny precise checks, flecked mixtures, soft, fleecy pastels, and clear bon bon tints are the patterns available.

Most of them are the swanky fitted-in models, with smartly cut long sleeves and all have either the high round neckline that is deliberately collarless or the notched lapel collar. All have necklines high enough so that they can lead a double existence, as a top to appear with a neat skirt for office wear or as a suit jacket with a frilled blouse underneath or teamed with a waistcoat in colored or white piqué.

You couldn't ask for a better time to replenish your wardrobe. There are jackets for spectator sports outfits; jackets for an extra printed silk dress; jackets for white dresses, and new riots of color in the smart jackets for extra use. One pattern in soft pink stripes in narrow lines of dark color is unusually wearable. Other outstanding colors for office wear are the citron greens and banker's gray shades.

Bridge hands so cut and dried that only one line of play is worthy of consideration are both rare and dull. Fortunately for the zest of the game, most hands present an ever-varying, fascinating problem as to the proper method of handling. The player who can select the plan which has the greatest mathematical chance for success is pretty sure to come out on the right side of the score. Today's hand offers a nice choice of alternate lines of play.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

South had a difficult decision to make over his partner's three club bid. He considered bidding three no trump but decided in favor of a five club bid, feeling that his two and one-half honor tricks should be enough, with North's opening bid and raise, to fulfill an 11 trick contract, and that North might even be encouraged to bid a slam.

West's opening lead of the spade queen was won by South's king and the declarer now took stock. He knew that the best way to handle the trump suit to hold the loss to one trick was to take two finesses thru West, but the odds in favor of this play were very slim, and to adopt it would force him later to guess the location of the diamond queen [the loss of at least one trump trick and the ace of hearts was unavoidable]. Rather than attempt the 50-50 guess of the diamond queen, the declarer settled on a different line of play entirely.

He first laid down the king of hearts. East won and returned a spade. Now the ace of trumps was cashed, followed by two rounds of high hearts and then a trump lead. When the two adverse honors fell together, declarer's troubles were over. East, on lead with the king, had the sorry choice of leading a major suit card which would allow declarer to discard a diamond while he ruffed in dummy, or of leading directly into the diamond suit, making a guess for the queen unnecessary.

French Deputy Tells Chicago France Is Waging a Smart War

Having been living in sin since the Munich pact, France has come to the conclusion that its citizens must work hard, lower the standard of living, and play a waiting game in order to win the war. This was the declaration yesterday of André Philip, member of the French chamber of deputies, at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations at the Palmer House.

"We must make sacrifices," he continued, adding that the war's problems chiefly are administrative rather than military in nature. "We wage war skilfully and quietly," he said. He added that Hitler is a bogeyman in every Frenchman's household, but that there is no hate at the front line trenches, nor in France. On the contrary, the French feel sorry for the poor Germans who have been "indoctrinated" with false sentiments, he said.

M. Philip, who is a professor at the University of Lyons, had no difficulty with the pronunciation of "indoctrinated." His interpretation of simpler words, however, was at times puzzling.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Column on Laughton

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9.—"There is no doubt in my mind that the finest actor in Hollywood has never been honored by an academy award," said Charles Laughton. . . . "I think it is because we all take him so much for granted. If I were to recall the three greatest performances I've ever seen on the screen, all of them would be performances by Charlie Chaplin. He's yet to win official recognition. I guess they just figure that he's a comedian and let it go at that. Yet to me, he is one of the geniuses of the profession.

Charles Laughton.

"I remember in one of his pictures, he was hungry and desolate. Suddenly he spied a lady carrying an infant and the infant was chewing on a piece of bread covered with raspberry jam. Chaplin's pantomimic effort to win the affection of the baby so that he could steal the bread and jam was unforgettable."

Laughton's interest in the great comedians of the profession possibly finds explanation in his own secret yen to be a comedian. . . . He despises horror rôles and characters such as Captain Bligh: "If I'm successful in projecting such characterizations," he says, "it is because I express the loathing with which they fill me." . . . He didn't like the rôle of the hunchback, doesn't believe it was Victor Hugo at all, at all. . . . "You know," he interpolated, "it has been said that Lon Chaney, Sr., was not a fine actor. To satisfy myself on the point, I had the original 'Hunchback of Notre Dame' run for me.

"Chaney not only was a great actor; he was a magnificent dancer. The famous ballet stars, like Nijinsky, could express every emotion and every shade of meaning in the movements of their bodies. Chaney had that gift. When he realized that he had lost the girl, his body expressed it—it was as tho a bolt of lightning had shattered his physical self. Extraordinary, really."

Talk to Laughton for any length of time and you are impressed forcibly with his intense love of the theater and its people. . . . It is difficult to get him to talk about himself in his eagerness to tell you about players who have thrilled him.

You ask a question about his own work, or his own plans, and he turns it aside to ask if you recall Spencer Tracy's first big scene in "Captains Courageous." . . . Persist, and he diverts it once more to rave about Bette Davis's performance in "Jezebel," or Gary Cooper's artistry in "Mr. Deeds" or Paul Muni in "I Am a Fugitive."

Clark Gable, he says, is one of the finest actors on the screen. . . . The best dramatic performance by an actress, he thought, was contributed by the late Jean Harlow in "Red-headed Woman."

Laughton like all foreign stars who are now in Hollywood, is loath to deliver himself of opinions that may be misquoted, or misinterpreted.

He talked freely of British production methods. . . . "In such a picture as 'The Beachcomber,' the success of it, I think was due to the fusion of all efforts toward making it a success. Night after night, when we'd finish shooting, the entire company would go to a pub and sit around and thresh out problems of characterization. As a result, the spirit of those engaged in making the picture was that of one of your college football teams. It was exhilarating.

"I think that pictures, and plays, should be made that way. Often, it is difficult to achieve that team spirit—the stars may be fighting, or jealous, or temperamental. But when you can get all concerned in a picture to enter into its production wholeheartedly, the results are quite astonishing."

Laughton, however, does not agree that foreign pictures are better than American flickers. . . . "You only see the best foreign pictures over here," he points out.

Off screen, Laughton appears much shorter than you expect him to appear. . . . He is serious, smiles rarely, talks abruptly, often answers questions by asking a question. . . . At the moment, he is engaged with Erich Pommer, at RKO in working out plans for a picture which they propose to make a trifle different from formula.

Pommer certainly is the producer to achieve it. In Europe, he produced "Variety," "The Blue Angel," "Congress Dances," and others that were original and revolutionary. . . . In the back of his mind, however, Laughton wants to play comedy things: he wants to make people laugh.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

From the notebook:

We don't know why we tell you, unless it's to make you sorry your grandpappy didn't go into the beauty business. The sale of perfumes and cosmetics, according to a trade publication, reached some $409,000,000 at retail in 1939. This is around a 12 per cent increase over 1938 and about five million over 1929.

Perfume, cologne, and toilet water did a tidy $38,000,000. Creams, as always, walked off with the honors in cosmetic products. About $46,000,000 worth was applied to the American epidermis. Feminine noses were dusted with more than 32 million dollars worth of powder and finger nails were glorified and groomed at a cost of about $20,220,000 last year. And it cost $15,000,000 to keep feminine lips fashionably rouged!

The use of eau de cologne is a fairly recent custom with Americans. It always was used generally in Europe, but Americans never took to it until just a few years ago. Now perfumed colognes are so popular as to be an important item in the industry. And women of this country, in all classes of income, are using perfume more generously than they ever did in the past. What was once regarded as a luxury is by way of becoming a beauty staple.

The makeup situation is changing, too. Makeup items are now fashion accessories. Changing lipstick color with the wardrobe color—which in "high" fashion is done at least four times a year—naturally stimulates interest in makeup AND sales.

Every one is pretty happy about the whole thing.

Dear Miss Provines:

We fail to see the joke about "meiosis." According to Funk and Wagnall's Standard dictionary it is the same as "miosis." The latter is defined as:

"The period in the course of disease when the symptoms begin to diminish; an abatement."

Loyalty Best Foundation for Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"For it is loyalty, rather than the pursuit of personal happiness or the gratification of personal desire—loyalty, inspired and strengthened and directed by religion, that furnishes the best basis for marriage and the home, and incidentally holds the best hope of happiness as well as of permanence."

So speaks L. Foster Wood of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, in an unusual little book, "Beatitudes for the Family" [Hearthside Press].

Too many persons nowadays, says Dr. Wood, are making happiness the first and, perhaps, even the sole consideration. That aim defeats its own purpose, he reminds us. Happiness is like health; those who seek it too anxiously are generally the last to find it.

The expression of rampant individualism found so often nowadays, in Dr. Wood's judgment, wrecks homes and happiness together. His plea is for permanence of a union and the realization of its permanency. With such an attitude, young people will be more careful not to enter marriage unadvisedly or lightly.

"They will be more careful, being in it, to be patient, loyal, self-controlled and ready to make all necessary adjustments."

Adjustments must be made, Dr. Wood grants. He says there is truth in Chesterton's delightful paradox that "incompatibility is the only basis for a happy marriage." A union without difference of taste and temperament, says Dr. Wood, may be purchasing its serenity at the heavy cost of dullness.

The Christian remedy for domestic instability is not dullness on the one hand or divorce on the other, Dr. Wood points out. It is the full development of personality in love and understanding. It is the cultivation of the graces of tenderness, humor, self-control, insight, sympathy, patience. It is the losing of the little, selfish, separatist self. Dr. Wood's beatitudes are aids to meritation on the true aims of family life and a guide in solving family problems. On courtesy at home, the beatitude reads:

Happy is the family
Whose members learn to be courteous
And on their good behavior when alone,
As much as when honored guests are present.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. At Honeybyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. The two girls change places and identities—and in two weeks' of freedom, Cynthia marries Michael Alloway without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby. Cynthia breaks prison. Explaining her disappearance as a lapse of memory, Cynthia goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister Marion at Cloudleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens seeks to interview Cynthia and arouses Marion's suspicions. Cynthia attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael, but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage on a date when she was supposed to be in prison clears her. She goes to Malta. While Bessie is applying for a job from Marion, Detective Stevens calls. He makes a date with Bessie. Realizing Stevens is close to the truth, Bessie sends a telegram of warning to Cynthia. Marion forces Bessie to confess the truth about Cynthia. Detective Inspector Rason questions Cynthia in Malta as to whether Bessie attended her wedding. Cynthia backs up Bessie's alibi. But Michael finds Bessie's cable and realizes Cynthia has lied. She bars him to trust her.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

A BOLD MOVE.

"I had been considering going away," Marion said, and even her voice, her mother noticed, was "edgy." "I'll go up to town for a week or so. Not just yet, of course, but afterwards."

"Afterwards," wondered Mrs. Alloway? Was Marion waiting for something to happen, then? But she knew it would be useless to ask. So Mrs. Alloway read her paper and presently rang for Bessie to help her out into the sheltered corner of the garden. Bessie, she felt, was far too cheerful and sensible to let herself be worried by nameless "afterwards."

Herein she was wrong. Bessie had even greater cause for apprehension than Marion; but ever since their talk on the moorland she had had to put out of her mind completely the fact that she and Miss Alloway of the Manor shared a secret. That had demanded good acting on her side, and good acting is best founded on thinking the part as well as speaking it. On Marion's side, however, self-control was far less evident. Sometimes she treated Bessie curtly, as a servant; sometimes humbly, as a benefactress. Indeed, before she had been in the house forty-eight hours Bessie had been driven to pinning a note on Marion's pillow.

"Please try not to brood so much. I'm sure Clarke won't come here again, and if that Stevens turns up we can handle him between us. Burn this."

But Marion could not stop brooding. She watched the Manor gates for the first sign of a stranger and scanned the papers closely for news of Clarke's arrest or escape.

It had been a shock to find that he had not walked into the trap at Taunton.

Marion heard voices in the garden. A man's voice. Again her nerves jumped. But Bessie, returning to the house, informed her that it was only Sir William Merrowbridge, come to tell Mrs. Alloway all about his journey to France with Cynthia. And most especially, of course, about the amazing mistake made at the outset by Scotland Yard, when Cynthia had actually been mistaken for Clara Brown, the escaped convict.

"Do you happen to know," Marion asked, "what arrangements Mrs. Michael made about her flat while she was away?"

whether—"

"She was intending to let it furnished, madam. I don't know whether——"

A tap on the door.

"Well, Jessie?"

"It's the detective again, miss! And he's brought another one with him!"

"Ask them both in here." And, as Jessie turned away, Marion picked up Mrs. Alloway's knitting and thrust it into Bessie's hands. "Sit in the corner, but don't leave me alone with them, even if they ask you to."

Bessie was just installed when the two men appeared. Marion nodded distantly. The one unknown to her introduced himself.

nodded distantly. The one unknown to her introduced himself.

"Rason. Detective Inspector Rason. Your know my assistant, Detective Sergeant Stevens. . . . We should rather like a word or two with you, Miss Alloway."

"By all means."

Rason glanced at the industrious Bessie.

"In private, please."

"O, I don't see that that's necessary," said Marion coolly. "I have no secrets, and if I had Bessie, as an old friend of the family, would be in my confidence."

Rason's eyes flickered from one girl to the other.

"A friend of your family, Miss Alloway?"

"Of my sister-in-law's," amended Marion, "and therefore of mine. But if you wish to question Bessie, do so. There is no mystery about her."

Rason opened his notebook.

"Isn't there? That's good. As there's no mystery about you, Miss Stockley, you won't mind telling me what references you gave for this job?"

"Mrs. Michael Alloway spoke for me."

"But you were asked the nature of your previous employment?"

"I was. And I gave it. And if Miss Alloway is satisfied, I can't see what it has to do with any one else."

"I'm perfectly satisfied," put in Marion. "I understand Bessie's reluctance to volunteer the information unless asked. Many people might shrink from a prison wardress."

"Like they do from policemen," added Bessie, with a demureness that made Stevens long to shake her.

Rason consulted his notebook again.

"You were at Honebyker prison before you went to Aylesbury, weren't you? And you were in charge of the convict, Clara Brown, weren't you? Didn't you get a bit of a shock when you first saw her?"

"Yes, I did. But I didn't make the silly mistakes you people made in thinking she was Miss Cynthia—Mrs. Michael Alloway."

"You took a holiday on—let me see—the twenty-second of August? Where did you spend it?"

"Different places," said Bessie.

"With friends?"

"No, alone mostly. I traveled about a bit. Why shouldn't I?"

"No reason at all," agreed Rason. "But just supposing you had to prove in a court of law that you really did take that holiday, is there any one who could swear to having seen you outside Honebyker prison after the twenty-second?"

Bessie's wool dropped to the floor.

"I went to a wedding on the twenty-third," she said.

"And I saw her there," added Marion briskly. "And so did the bride—my sister-in-law—for she smiled at her."

Rason abandoned the attempt to catch Bessie out. He had the air of a man who recognizes overwhelming odds against him. He even closed his notebook.

Then, with a sudden violent change of manner, he jerked a quite unexpected question at Marion.

"Why did you inform against a man called Stainham last week? . . . No, please don't trouble to deny it."

Marion threw up her head.

"I wasn't going to. And I didn't inform against any one called Stainham. I told you where to find Rory Clarke."

"How did you know Stainham was Clarke?"

A second's hesitation.

"He told me so."

Rason shook his head.

"I don't think so, Miss Alloway. The conversation between this man and yourself was—er—overheard by us and recorded." His notebook came into action again and in an expressionless voice he read from it the actual phrases used. "You will admit that at no point did he call himself Clarke. Yet you knew he was Clarke? How?"

Again Marion paused. Easy enough to say that she had deduced it from the Yard's interest in Stevens or from the coincidence of times and places, or anything that would hold water. But she thought she saw her way to a bolder move, a means whereby she could shift all the danger to Michael, to the family name, onto her own shoulders and keep it there.

"I knew Stainham was Clarke," she said slowly, "because I had seen Clarke years ago. He was at school with my brother."

NEW EDIBLES IN THE STORES:

1. Macadamia nuts from Hawaii. These are creating a sensation wherever they've been introduced in large cities over the country. They're good for nibbling, good with cocktails, and may be used in any of the ways in which other nuts are used. They aren't inexpensive [$1.10 for a jar] but they give you the thrill of trying something different and very unusual. Prominent American gourmets shout about them. Three Chicago stores carry them at present.

2. Extra-fancy canned chicken. These products are for the gourmet trade also. Examples of the line [which includes 12 chickeny creations]: Chicken sauté Grand hotel with champagne and truffles, breast of chicken Printaniere in Madeira sauce with vegetables. Chicken and leek soup, chicken and watercress soup, and curried chicken with pineapples and bananas also are included in the group. Only one loop store in the city carries these products. I've tried these exotic dishes and they're very good, indeed.

3. Baby food. Now we have canned dessert in the form of custard for baby. This is a help to mothers who want to be sure their young ones get the right foods but are short on time in which the prepare those foods. The diet list of the 10 month old boy at our house calls for custard, and he likes this canned one very much. It's made by a well known maker of baby foods.

WHAT'S NEW IN KITCHEN HELPS:

An aluminum vacuum coffee maker. Nonbreakable, easy to keep clean, inexpensive, with an efficient filter, it's made for daily use and hard wear.

2. Handy glass measuring cup. It has red markings to indicate fractions of a cup. Now going into hardware and department stores, it will soon be generally available.

3. Pretty paper plates. Rainbow colors and scalloped edges make them attractive for parties and indoor or outdoor picnics. They are dinner sized and unusually strong. Part of a line of gayly colored paper goods, including tablecloths, cups, salts and peppers.

A Pork Chop a Day Keeps Beriberi Away

This bad news for pigs—but good news for persons difficient in vitamin B—was given the Illinois Dietetic association at the annual dinner at the Drake hotel last night by Dr. C. A. Elvehjem, professor of agricultural chemistry and expert on vitamins at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Elvehjem said that research just concluded had disclosed that pork heads a long list of common foods as the richest source of the important vitamin, thiamin, formerly known as vitamin B1.

Other foods ranking high included all meats, especially glandular; peas, whole wheat bread, and whole grain cereals.

Dr. Elvehjem reported that new studies reveal that such meats—as liver, kidney, and heart are important sources of two other important vitamins, known as riboflavin and nicotinic acid. Other meats, while not ranking as high as those mentioned, were found to be rich in these vitamin factors, also. Milk, spinach, peas, and eggs were additional good sources of riboflavin.

These findings are significant, he said, because of the importance of these vitamins in promoting growtn and protecting health.

Thiamin, he said, is the vitamin which stimulates appetite, promotes growth, prevents and cures beriberi, a nervous and muscular disease caused by vitamin deficiency, and is necessary for utilization of carbohydrates by the body. One pork chop, he said, provides sufficient thiamin to meet the requirement for a day.

Dr. Elvehjem explained that riboflavin promotes growth and protection against certain nervous disorders and liver disturbances, and that nicotinic acid prevents and cures pellagra, a disease prevalent in the south. A small piece of lean meat daily for pellagra victims, he said, might mean its complete eradication. There have been as many as a million cases per year.

Imagination and salesmanship were urged upon the dieticians by Dr. Robert W. Keaton, head of the department of medicine of the University of Illinois Medical school. He said the dieticians must "sell" the diet to the patient. Dr. Keaton remarked that a diet is not good unless the patient eats the food.

Dress with Front Buttoning

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

The straight, slim lines of a dress that buttons all the way down the front are figure magic. The slender and tall wear such a frock to perfection, and those with slight overweight derive definite benefit from the styling. This particular model is simple enough for home wear and attractive enough for informal social occasions. There is a soft rolled collar on the V neckline, matched by the cuffs on the short sleeves and the triangular flaps on the pockets. We suggest that you make this frock in a gayly colored or printed cotton or linen, to wear now down south and later the first of summer.

As the smaller sketch illustrates, this same pattern may be called into service for making a house coat or hostess gown in crêpe or satin.

Style No. 3391 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of contrasting for dress.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

LOOP SERVICES.

CATHOLIC MASSES.

[At noon.]

Holy Name cathedral, 730 North State street.

St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets.

Assumption church, 325 West Illinois street.

EPISCOPAL EUCHARIST.

Cathedral Shelter, Washington boulevard and Peoria street.

The John R. Thompson company has completed a survey which shows that one-fourth of Chicago's population of 3,500,000 persons will observe self-denial of some form during Lent.

Some will observe the period not only for religious reasons but also for purposes of diet, to test powers of self-discipline, or to save money for the church, the survey learned. Candy heads the list of things marked off the Lenten list. Liquor is second, with tobacco, meat, desserts, and motion pictures following in that order.

Altho candy, liquor, and tobacco lead the list, the survey shows that manufacturers of these products should profit by the 40 day abstinence, because more than 60 per cent of those questioned said that after Lent they would consume additional amounts of the items on their denial list.

The Thompson survey was based on a representative cross-section of the 1,200,000 Catholics and 32,000 Episcopalians of the metropolitan area. Its purpose was to enable restaurant managers to determine customers' desires during the 40 day period.

W-G-N to Present Three Dramatic Stars in Play Tomorrow

Three stage and screen headliners—Alan Dinehart, Glenda Farrell, and Lyle Talbot—will be the guest artists on the Fifth Row Center program over W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 5:30 p. m. tomorrow.

All three are featured in a new comedy, "Thanks for My Wife," playing at the Selwyn theater. Dinehart is co-author of the play which had its première in Hollywood and is being presented here prior to a New York City opening.

On Fifth Row Center the players will appear in a satirical play about municipal politics, "I Do Not Choose to Run," by Blair Walliser of W-G-N. Walliser will direct the production. The musical setting will be provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra. Fifth Row Center each Sunday presents one or more top rank performers of the stage and screen.

Child's Hours at Home Should Have Meaning

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Adult education is a comparatively new trend in our civilization. Never before has there been such emphasis laid on the value of leisure pursuits. There is a great deal of talk about the need of such pursuits in people's lives being due to shorter working days, which give more free time to more people.

Leisure pursuits—I don't care for the word "hobbies"—have a very important place in the lives of children, too. For many families any suggestions in today's article will be like carrying coals to Newcastle, because their home life is already interesting.

But there are other homes where the children's leisure hangs heavy on their hands, where passive amusements like radio and movies are the chief ones, and where home hasn't the pull it should have. Hours at home are not full of meaning and interest.

While, as we's said earlier in the week, all children and young people have times when they're aimless or indifferent, this should not be their chronic state. The life of young people should be lived with zest, and the world should be for them so full of "a number of things" that they can't find time to do them all. But more happily occupied than ever does children's leisure become, if they happen to have a hobby, a special interest or a talent of some kind.

I know a woman who never knew she had a great talent for sculpture until she had a nervous breakdown, when the doctors prescribed manual therapy. And there was the man who never knew he had a writer's capacity until he was confined to a hospital bed for six months. So children's abilities or special interests came to light in various ways.

Sometimes it is a child's home life which uncovers a talent. Sometimes it is something to which he is "exposed" in the school curriculum. And sometimes it is an outside experience or contact that awakens a special sort of interest or talent.

It is a splendid thing for a boy or girl when this is so. Empty hours are like idle hands. I don't actually mean that Satan finds mischief to fill idle hours, as he is said to find it for idle hands, but empty, aimless hours are less apt to be filled with wholesome and absorbing pursuits than are the hours of a child who has an underlying interest or a particular talent or a hoby. Many problems of behavior never come up at all for the boy or girl who never can find quite enough time to do all the interesting things he or she wants to do.

There will be no cocktail parties preceding the party at the Onwentsia, which is organized each year by a group of young married persons. Cocktails will be served at the club, followed by dinner and dancing. About eighty are expected.

David Wilhelm on Yale Team

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm will attend the polo game to watch their son, David Wilhelm, a member of the Yale team. The team arrives from the east today and will stay with the Wilhelms. The Yale club will entertain the team at luncheon today. Tonight the visitors will be dinner guests of Col. and Mrs. Charles G. Haffner Jr., in the Officers club at the Armory.

Several parties are being given for the Augusto Rossos, who are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wilkinson, in Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rew are giving a dinner tonight for the Italian ambassador to Russia and his wife.

The William B. Buchanans are giving a breakfast for the visitors tomorrow morning. The younger members of the Wilkinson family, the Lucian B. Wilkinsons, Enloe Wilkinson and the Charles W. Dodds are giving a progressive dinner tomorrow night. Mme. Rosso and her husband will leave for Washington next Wednesday.

Woodward L. Boynton Weds Martha Rutter

Woodward L. Boynton and Miss Martha Rutter, whose engagement was announced last Sunday, were married yesterday in New York. The ceremony took place in the afternoon at the Church of the Ascension. The Rev. Donald Aldrich read the service in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride, a daughter of William Rutter of Pine Forge, Pa., had her sister, Miss Elizabeth Rutter, for her only attendant. Frederick P. Boynton Jr. was his brother's best man. They are sons of the senior Mr. and Mrs. Boynton of Highland Park.

The bride is a member of the Philadelphia Junior league and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. She and Mr. Boynton will make their home in New York.

A number of Chicagoans are in Detroit for the marriage this afternoon of John M. Norcott, son of the Henry F. Norcotts of Evanston, and Miss Barbara Ballantyne, daughter of the Howard P. Ballantynes of Grosse Pointe Farms.

20 HURT AS BUS STRIKES A TREE IN LINCOLN PARK

Twenty persons were injured yesterday when a Chicago Motor Coach company bus crashed into a tree in Lincoln park, following a collision with an automobile. The accident occurred in Stockton drive, opposite Belden avenue, during the morning rush hour.

The bus, a single decker, was crowded with 40 loopbound workers. The driver, Joseph Lorenz, was proceeding south in Stockton drive when, according to police, a car driven by George Watts, colored, of 514 Browning avenue, skidded toward him.

Swerves Bus to Avoid Car.

Lorenz swerved sharply on the icy pavement in an attempt to avoid the car. The vehicles collided, however, and the bus then continued on and struck the tree. The doors of the bus were jammed by twisted metal and the passengers were unable to be taken out until Park Policeman Edward Higgins battered open a rear door.

Eighteen of the passengers and the two drivers, Lorenz and Watts, were taken to Columbus Memorial, St. Joseph, and Augustana hospitals. Most of them required only first aid. Two, Miss Marie Stone, 3152 Hudson avenue, and J. J. Carliss, 700 Barry avenue, were kept in Augustana hospital.

Seventeen persons were injured when two suburban street cars collided at Roosevelt road and Kenilworth avenue, at the Oak Park-Berwyn boundary. An eastbound Chicago and West Towns railway car jumped the tracks and smashed head-on into a westbound car.

Two Treated at Hospital.

Only two of the 17 injured needed hospital aid. They are John Carter, 9 North 8th avenue, Maywood, and Mrs. Minnie Pfister, 1032 Circle avenue, Forest Park. They were taken to Oak Park hospital. Joseph Kopecky, 2518 Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, motorman of the eastbound street car, told police ice on the tracks caused the accident.

Two Gary steel workers were killed late yesterday when their automobile skidded in front of a local Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at the McKinley street crossing in Indiana Harbor. The men were Ralph Logal of rural route No. 2, driver of the car, and Michael Mastovich, 817 Maryland street, both 29 years old. Police said the flasher warning lights were operating.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 117 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 87 were killed in Chicago, where 2,387 were injured in the same period.

FINDS BROTHER ALIVE AFTER HE IS CALLED DEAD

William Geary, 920 Newport avenue, sadly made his way to the undertaking rooms at 935 North Wells street yesterday. He had just been told by a brother, George, and his sister, Mrs. Anne Conley, both of 1743 Sedgwick street, that another brother, Michael, had been killed in an automobile accident. Anne and George had gone to the undertaking rooms and identified the body.

In Chicago avenue, near Wells street, William saw a familiar figure. He looked up. "Michael!" he cried. "Michael! They told me you were dead."

"I'm certainly not dead," Michael answered. "Let's straighten this out."

At the undertaking rooms George and Anne were completing funeral arrangements. Michael looked at the body. "He does look like me," he said. The family then went to the Chicago avenue police station to correct the records. The stranger, struck by a car at Wells street and Chicago avenue, has not been identified.

Second Victim Dies After Indiana Airplane Crash

Ravell Deckema, 23 years old, a bridge company employé, died in the Methodist hospital in Gary, Ind., yesterday of injuries suffered Thursday when an airplane crashed on a farm near Hobart, Ind., during a snowstorm. Deckema lived at Hobart. The other occupant of the plane, Samuel Delvatore, 22, of Calumet City, was killed.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks took a firm grip on fourth place in the National Hockey league standings by blanking their foremost rivals for the berth—the Detroit Red Wings—3 to 0 before 6,859 tonight.

Rookie Bill Carse counted two last period goals while Goalie Paul Goodman came up with a dozen spectacular saves to insure victory for the Chicagoans. Prior to tonight Detroit had been unbeaten in eight straight games.

Chad Scores First.

After a drab opening period the Blackhawks took the lead midway of the second when Johnny Chad dashed in from the right wing, took a fine pass from Bob Carse, Bill's brother, and beat Goalie Cecil [Tiny] Thompson. Les Cunningham also got an assist.

Bill Carse got his first goal after 59 seconds of the third period, the veteran Mush March shooting him a perfect pass directly in front of the goal mouth. March had stolen the puck from the Wings' Ken Kilrea.

The final Chicago goal came after a fist fight had enlivened the affair and Referee Mickey Ion had handed out major penalties to four of the participants. The battle broke out between March and Jack Stewart, Detroit defense man. Later Eddie Wares of Detroit and George Allen of the Hawks became involved, and all of them went to the penalty box.

Unbeaten in Wings' Series.

Allen and March set up the third Chicago goal, Bill Carse firing after March had feinted Thompson out of position. The time in the third period was 14:55.

The victory kept intact Chicago's record of not having lost to Detroit this season. The Hawks have won three and played to two ties to date in their series with Detroit. In the late stages Detroit appeared to tire badly. The Wings played in New York Sunday and in Montreal Thursday.

The Hawks, who preceded tonight's triumph with a 3 to 2 victory over the New York Americans Thursday, will seek their third conquest in four nights Sunday when they meet the New York Rangers in the Chicago Stadium.

I Wonder.

If I should gather all the blossoms we
Have scattered on the road of yesterday,
When youth knew only prodigality,
Of each pale petal in its languishing
And say: "We plucked this bloom the day we went
And this was gathered on the hill one eve
As we walked arm and arm beneath the moon,
And this red bud was given with your leave
To a heartbroken boy one day in June—
Or would you fail to know them for your own

Fenske Beats Cunningham for 3d Time

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Glenn Cunningham ran second to Chuck Fenske once more tonight, trailing the Wisconsin runner by four feet at the finish of the Penn A. C. mile, feature of the third annual Penn A. C. indoor meet. The time was 4:13.5, a meet record.

It was the third time this year that Cunningham has lost to Fenske and Cunningham's fifth defeat of the season over the mile distance.

Fights Off Glenn's Bid.

A record crowd of 8,500 in Convention hall saw Fenske and Cunningham keep almost abreast for three quarters of the distance, then forge into the lead and run neck and neck for one lap and half of the final lap. Fenske stepped into the lead on the back turn, held it around to the home stretch and then fought off Cunningham's final bid.

Blaine Rideout of North Texas Teachers was third. Luigi Beccali, Italy's one time Olympic champion and now representing the New York A. C., who set the early pace, dropped out after three quarters.

Deckard Beats Lash.

A minor upset occurred in the two mile invitation run, when Tommy Deckard of Indiana, beat the favorite, Don Lash, Indiana state policeman. The time, 9:15.2, broke the former meet record. Gregory Rice, former Notre Dame runner now representing the South Bend A. A., set the early pace but faded back to third.

The Pennac mile shared interest with a world record by Norwood [Barney] Ewell, Penn State Negro sophomore, of five seconds flat for the 50 yard dash.

Demons Win, 21 to 15, as 8,000 Cheer.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

De Paul university's Blue Demons last night defeated Loyola university's Ramblers, 21 to 15, in the fourth annual basketball game for the Catholic Youth Organization's needy youth fund in the Chicago Stadium. A crowd of 8,000 saw the Demons take a leg on the Bishop Sheil trophy with their first victory of the series after a tight battle which seemed old fashioned in these high scoring times.

De Paul's triumph was its 16th in 18 starts this season and while the defeat was Loyola's thirteenth in succession, it must be said the Ramblers played their best game of the season, giving a fine defensive performance against the superior height of the Demons.

Wozny Gets Away.

One of the Demons did get away from them, however. He was Sophomore Bob Wozny, former Schurz High star who had supplanted the injured Lou Possner, De Paul's high scoring star. Wozny made six field goals and three free throws for 15 points. Only two other De Paul men figured in the scoring—Capt. Stan Szukala and Ed Sachs.

Control of the ball with a search for a break became the tempo of the game at the outset and continued almost to the finish. Loyola, with Capt. George Wenskus directing the passing, held the advantage in this for the better part of the game, until Wozny started hitting on pivot shots. Most of the other De Paul marksmen were decidedly off in their shooting.

The Demons missed four out of seven free throw attempts, while the Ramblers hit on five out of seven. Vinny Graham led the losers in scoring with two baskets and a free throw.

Points are Scarce.

The defensive complexion of the contest was reflected in the first ten minutes of play, which ended with De Paul leading 5 to 4. The Demons had more than their share of shots, but the work of the smaller Wenskus and Graham kept them from cashing in on rebounds. Capt. Szukala scored first on a push shot and Wozny made it 4 to 0 on a tip-in try, then added a free throw on Schell's foul.

Capt. Wenskus hit from outside the free throw circle for Loyola's first points and Schell made it 5 to 4 with a push shot. Graham tied it on Tollstam's foul, but Sachs and Wozny scored to give the Demons a 9 to 5 margin. Cahill's free throw completed the scoring for the half.

In the second half, Graham's set shot brought Loyola within a point at 11-10 and a few minutes later he hit again to make it 14-12. From there on it was all Wozny, with the exception of Szukala's second basket, a free throw by Wenskus and a pivot shot by Mickey Rottner.

The South American Way Puzzles Mr. Louis

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mako, Sabin Are Suspended by U.S.L.T.A.

New York, Feb. 9 [Special].—In the severest punitive action it has taken since William Tilden was set down in 1928, the United States Lawn Tennis association cracked down on two prominent players today in the enforcement of its amateur code.

Gene Mako of Los Angeles, former national doubles champion, member of several Davis cup teams and runner-up to Don Budge in the 1938 national meet, and Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., fifth ranking player of the country and holder of the national indoor title, were barred for an indefinite period from competing in tournaments held under the auspices of the U. S. L. T. A.

They're Out for the Year.

The period of ineligibility will extend thru the season of 1940 at a minimum, and not before September of this year will an application for reinstatement be passed upon.

The action taken by the executive committee preliminary to tomorrow's general meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. is final. It developed out of charges filed by the amateur rule commitee last November. Both players were found to have received traveling and living expenses for more than eight weeks in 1939 and to have received excessive traveling expenses thru duplication, in violation of the amateur regulations.

Neither Player Appears.

Neither Mako nor Sabin appeared before the committee to put in a personal defense, tho they were invited to do so. Both, however, had replied to the charges at length by correspondence.

In 1928 Tilden was dropped from the Davis cup team for violating the player-writer provision of the amateur rule with his articles on the championships at Wimbledon. Tilden was captain of the team and was not permitted to play against Italy in the interzone round. He was restored to the team for the challenge round with France, thru the intercession of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, but upon his return home he was brought up on charges and barred from playing in the national championship meet.

Big Ten Teams Resume Title Chase Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Examinations and a subsequent scattering of nonconference games are now history, and the Big Ten basketball teams resume competition with a full quota of contests this evening. Both metropolitan quintets are at home, Northwestern entertaining Michigan, which is tied for second place, and Chicago serving as host to Ohio State, defending title holder.

Michigan's hope of winning the championship, which was in full bloom until Illinois surprised the Wolverines in the last conference game, 48 to 43, rests on an anticipated victory tonight. Then Michigan meets Indiana. If the week-end offers crucial games to the Wolverines, this is doubly true of Indiana. Tonight the Hoosiers face the undefeated [in Big Ten play] Boilermakers of Purdue. Indiana has been beaten by Minnesota, 46 to 44, but won three other games.

Scores Don't Mean a Thing.

By comparison of conference scores Purdue seems superior, but last Saturday night Indiana thoroly trounced De Paul. In the preseason period De Paul whipped Purdue, as did Southern California. Indiana should have an advantage in playing on its home court, but the crowd—all tickets have been sold for more than ten days—will be divided in partisanship except for the Hoosier students. The entire state follows the Indiana-Purdue series, and this year, as usual, the championship may hinge on the results. Last winter Indiana was defeated by Purdue and then by Michigan in the final games, thus permitting Ohio State to win the title.

Northwestern now would be tied with Michigan and Indiana for second place except for the 32 to 31 beating at Ohio State Jan 15, but since then decisive lickings by Notre Dame and Marquette again have pointed the weakness of the attack which was known to exist before the squad opened play. The Wildcats lack offensive strength at forward. Latest move during the Butler game, which Northwestern won, 32 to 30, Thursday night, sent Dick Klein to guard, Les Harman to forward, and brought Don Clawson from the bench to open at center.

Wolverines Can Score.

The shooting of Capt. Bill Hapac of Illinois was too much for Michigan in the Wolverines' most recent conference game. Yet Michigan is second in team scoring for the first third of the race, and Capt. Jim Rae, 6 foot 4 inch forward, has scored 45 points in four games. Mike Sofiak, junior forward, has scored 37 points; Bob Fitzgerald, 6 foot 5 inch center; Charles Pink and Herb Brogan,

FAILS TO KNOCK DOWN CHILEAN; VERDICT JEERED

Champion Puzzled by Foe's Style.

Fight Decisions

At Hollywood, Cal.—Junior Munsell stopped Arne Anderson [2].

On a two to one decision the Brown Bomber, who didn't get much chance to drop his depth charges thru 15 rounds of fighting at a burning pace, won the decision that retained his title for him. It was his hardest fight since he took the title from Jim Braddock in Chicago in 1937.

Louis hammered the rock-ribbed, iron-jawed Godoy thru 10 of the 15 rounds to the complete satisfaction of most of the ringside experts and a lot of onlookers who can appraise a punch and measure the progress of a fight.

Godoy Never Down.

But when the decision was announced the Garden echoed such a din as has not greeted a heavyweight champion since that day in 1921 when Jack Dempsey, standing to acknowledge his introduction for a battle against Georges Carpentier, was drowned in an ear-splitting din of decisive abuse from boxing's first million dollar gathering.

Louis failed to knock down the man whose boast it is that he has never been knocked off his feet. What is more, the heavyweight champion who was making his ninth defense of the crown looked anything but impressive.

On the other hand, Godoy caught the fancy of the crowd. He rushed and tore at Louis with a furious, reckless abandon that was effective.

There were 15,657 in the gathering and they paid $88,523 in gross gate receipts, more or less expecting to see Louis in another exhibition of his tremendous hitting power.

They were disappointed in Louis and charmed, if not thrilled, by the gallant stand of Godoy. When the decision in Louis' favor was announced [a verdict that seemed eminently fair] there came a storm of jeers and boos and catcalls from all sections of the arena.

The surprise of this outburst was as nothing, however, compared to the shock of the verdict itself. Two of the officials voted for Louis on a margin of 10 rounds to four, with one even. They were the referee, Arthur Donovan, and one of the judges, George Lecron. The other judge, Tommy Shertell, voted for Godoy by a margin of 10 rounds to two, with three even.

Godoy's Style Puzzles Louis.

On the score sheets of several ringside observers Louis won by 10 rounds to five. Godoy, thundering in, piling Louis up on the ropes, lambasting the champion and completely baffling the desperate efforts of Louis to land a crushing blow, won the third, fourth, fifth rounds and carried the eighth and ninth as well, similarly. But Louis won every one of the other 10 rounds, even if his effort wasn't brilliant. The champion landed often and hard.

Tony Galento last June revealed the difficulty Louis has with fighters who fight out of a crouch. And tonight Godoy played on this weakness with unmistakable emphasis.

Louis Criticizes Self.

Godoy, in his dressing room, had a badly swollen left eye, a right almost equally out of shape, a cut under his left eye and bruised and bleeding lips. He said he thought he was entitled to at least a draw.

Louis was unmarked, but sadly disappointed. He declared it was "the most worsest fight I had since I fought Bob Pastor," without attempting to explain it.

Louis entered the ring a prohibitive favorite to win. Odds of 4 to 1 were offered he would knock out Godoy. Even money was bet Louis would finish his foe in four rounds.

Everything happened to Louis; everything to make him look decidedly embarrassed, if not ridiculous. Encouraged by the crowd's disapproval, Promoter Mike Jacobs said he probably would give Godoy a return bout with Louis in September. Louis must defend his title against Johnny Paychek of Des Moines in a bout proposed for April 3 here.

MARSHALL AND PARKER JUNIOR FIVES TRIUMPH

Hirsch Seniors Win Over Parker, 42-21.

Three teams won yesterday to remain undefeated in Chicago Public High School league basketball competition.

In the junior division, Marshall routed Medill, 58 to 16, at Marshall for its seventh straight west section victory. Parker rallied in the third quarter to triumph over Hirsch, 26 to 23, for its sixth consecutive triumph in the south section.

The Waller and Lane juniors won to stay tied for first place with Roosevelt in the north section. Waller won from Lake View, 33 to 29, and Lane beat Schurz, 34 to 32. Each has won six and lost one. Lineups:

Seabiscuit Is 3d in Comeback at Santa Anita

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—Seabiscuit came back to the turf wars after a year's layoff today and ran a creditable third to Heelfiy and Sun Egret in a seven furlong race at Santa Anita Park.

Seventeen thousand fans turned out under clear skies to see the 7 year old ex-stake champion run his comeback race in a campaign to reach the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap on March 2.

Wins in Stretch.

George W. Stratton's Heelfiy, 1937 rival of Seabiscuit, took charge of the sprint entering the stretch, overhauling the pace setting Sun Egret and coming on in to win by a length. Sun Egret finished two lengths ahead of Seabiscuit. The time was 1:23.

Heelfiy paid $13.80, $4.40, and $2.80; Sun Egret, $3.80 and $2.80; Seabiscuit, $2.80.

Kept Close to Pace.

Georgie Woolf took Heelfiy away to a good start and kept him close to Sun Egret, while Jockey Red Pollard, who rode Seabiscuit to many of his great triumphs, found himself in tight quarters on the rail pounding down the backstretch.

Seabiscuit, wearing four bandages, couldn't keep up with the burning pace, just as observers predicted. However, he kept traveling and might have won had the distance been longer.

The track was fast. Three times in the past three weeks Seabiscuit had been scratched because of mud and rain.

Smith Is Satisfied.

Heelfiy, which looms a big threat in the $100,000 race, was three-fifths of a second off the track record.

Jockey Pollard was disappointed that he hadn't been able to bring Seabiscuit in a winner, but Trainer Tom Smith seemed well satisfied.

In contrast to the boo that greeted Seabiscuit's withdrawal from the field last week, the crowd gave a mighty cheer when he paraded to the post this afternoon. A total of $80,040 was wagered on the outcome, with Seabiscuit the favorite.

NAGURSKI HAS AN EASY TIME OF IT WITH SAVOLDI

Bronko Nagurski, former Minnesota and Chicago Bears full back, threw Joe Savoldi, one time Notre Dame football player, in 10 minutes 48 seconds of wrestling in the Coliseum last night. After they pulled and tugged for 10 minutes, Savoldi succumbed without a struggle much to the displeasure of the spectators.

Savoldi was said to have been unable to do his best because of a shoulder injury suffered in a match earlier in the week. Savoldi weighed 210 pounds and Nagurski 235.

A crowd of 2,730 attended and gross receipts were $1,844.90.

Everett Marshall was solicitous of Danno O'Mahoney for 14:20 before he finally ended the semifinal by throwing the Irish heavyweight with a body slam. Jim McMillen, Antioch farmer, and Louis Thesz of St. Louis grunted and groaned to no decision in 30 minutes. Eddie Virag, Hungarian heavyweight, threw Cecil McGill in 13:06. In the opener, Charley Grubmyer and Jack Moore went 20 minutes to a draw.

C. Y. O. TO ENTER A STRONG SQUAD IN GOLDEN GLOVES

8 Champions to Compete in Coliseum Feb. 20-21-22

The Battlefront

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Catholic Youth organization will send another one of its traditionally powerful squads into this season's struggle for Golden Gloves championships. Open division competition will begin with the all-Chicago tournament in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. The last of the sectional novice eliminations will be held in Loyola gymnasium next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

The C. Y. O. squad which is pointing for the Coliseum bouts includes many veterans of Golden Gloves competition. Fortified with additional experience, these boys are drilling daily under Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick, determined to launch the strongest campaign of their careers.

Every Champion to Compete.

In the group are all the champions who emerged from the Catholic Youth organization's tournament last November. These are Al Noto, flyweight; Willie Moon, bantamweight; Jack Ballangee, featherweight; Al Jackson, lightweight; Willie Goldsmith, welterweight; Isiah Wells, middleweight; David Brown, light heavyweight, and Cornelius Young, heavyweight.

All of those names are familiar to followers of amateur boxing. All have drawn enthusiastic followings. But there are still others among the C. Y. O. representatives who may be expected to acquit themselves well in the Coliseum bouts. These include Savior Canadeo, Joe Dupont, Frank and Tony Bausone, Harry Sparrow, Harold Dade, Jimmy Martin, John Breland, Ray Brown, and Cruz Torres.

No Soft Touches Here.

Followers of this squad are confident that quite a few of these boys will be in there punching when the Chicago titles are at stake. The local competition will be tougher than ever this year because all of the open division fighters will be thrown into one group to battle for the right to advance to the Tournament of Champions, which will be held in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28. In previous seasons, Chicago's open division boxers qualified for the Stadium bouts in four sectional events, 32 of them going into the Tournament of Champions. In addition, the eight C. Y. O. title holders were permitted to advance automatically.

This season, however, the Coliseum tournament will reduce the local representatives to eight. The magnitude of the task which these survivors will face may be gauged by what happened last year. With nearly 40 representatives in the Tournament of Champions, Chicago was able to take only one title, Johnny Pleasant of the Savoy A. C. performed that feat.

They'll Be Real Champions.

Some observers believe that the eight fighters who survive the Coliseum bouts will have a better chance of carrying on to titles than all 40 of last year's representatives. Only fighters of remarkable ability will be able to get thru this event. Then, too, the rigors of the competition should put them on edge for meetings with out of town opponents. In some cases last year, good Chicago fighters lost to boys from other cities because they hadn't had strong enough preliminary competition to attain their best form.

The field for the Coliseum tournament was completed when the last of the entrants took their physical examinations last night in Trafton's gymnasium.

SWAN QUITS AT TEMPLE TO TAKE A NEW POSITION

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Fred H. Swan, head football coach at Temple university since Glen S. Warner left in 1939, resigned today to take a new position, which he said would not be disclosed for about two weeks. The resignation will be effective March 15. Swan's contract at Temple had two years to run.

Swan, who played football at Stanford university, served as a line coach at Colgate and the University of Wisconsin after his graduation. He came to Temple as an assistant coach under Warner in 1932.

It was rumored here that Swan was to go to Stanford as an assistant to Clark Shaughnessy, who succeeded Tiny Thornhill as head coach there.

14 YACHTS SEEK LIPTON TROPHY; CHICAGOAN RACES

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—Fourteen of the country's fastest sailing craft will unfurl canvas here tomorrow in the 11th annual Sir Thomas Lipton yacht race. Defending the title it won last year will be the trim 54 foot yawl Stormy Weather, owned by William Labrot of Annapolis, Md. For the last three years it also has captured the 184 mile Miami to Nassau race, which will be renewed next week. Entries include Scarab, a 65 foot yawl owned by W. H. White of Chicago.

Loyola Academy Boxers Meet Marmion Tonight

Nine boxing matches between representatives of Loyola academy and Marmion academy of Aurora will be held tonight in Loyola university gymnasium, 6525 Sheridan road. The show, which is sponsored by the Loyola Academy Father's club, will begin at 8 o'clock.

Novice Angler Wins Tribune Casting Award

Adolph Tomisek, Berwyn, never could be persuaded to go fishing—until last year when he won a casting rod as a prize. But then he bought a reel, line, and lures to use with the rod which he didn't know how to use. Last night, less than 10 months after acquiring his fishing equipment, he left Navy pier with the first place trophy awarded in The Tribune's annual casting contest for fishermen.

Tomisek made a 73 [Skish scoring] in the fishermen's competition which started Tuesday in conjunction with the Chicago National Boat and Sports show. It was high score for the four nights. Second trophy went to Hardy Humes, who scored 71 Wednesday night, and third to Ronald Giese Jr., who made a 69 the same night. None of last night's competitors placed in the trophy competition, W. J. Doherty being high with 51, Frank Kalina second with 48, and C. M. Myers third with 37.

Hold Finals Tonight.

At 7:30 tonight the finals will be held, with the three high scorers for each evening of the fishermen's and club events eligible. Nine club casters and 12 fishermen have qualified for this competition. The winner will receive a beautiful plaque.

Scores have been consistently high during the Skish contests which were played in the Tribune tournament this year for the first time. The National Association of Angling and Casting clubs recognizes as Class A casting any scores over 66. Twelve of the 103 casters who competed during the week equaled that score. A 71 won the Skish event in the national casting meet held in San Francisco last August, and that score has been equaled or bettered by eight casters in the Tribune tournament this week.

Today Is Yachtsmen's Day.

Yachtmen's day will be celebrated at the boat and sports show tonight with two events. The first, to be held at 8 o'clock, will be the selection of the Lady of the Lakes, with the winner receiving as her reward an all-expense trip to a Florida yachting event. At 9 o'clock tonight memorial plaques will be presented by show officials posthumously to U. J. [Sport] Herrmann and Commodore W. G. D. Orr, two of the Great Lakes' most famous yachtsmen.

LEO FREISINGER TO SEEK SLAM IN 3D MAJOR MEET

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP).—A grand "grand slam" of the nation's three major skating titles appeared in prospect tonight for Leo Freisinger of Chicago on the eve of the diamond trophy races, revived after a 10 year lapse.

Victorious in the National and North American meets, the 24 year old speedster will try to become the first skater ever to annex the three events.

Opposing Freisinger will be Delbert Lamb, Milwaukee, who gave the Chicagoan a close call in the North American at Schenectady last weekend; Charles Leighton, Minneapolis; Ed Schroeder, Al Kucera, and Bob Heckenbach, all of Chicago; George Shimek, Cedar Rapids, Ia., Chicago Tribune Silver Skates champion, and Ted Ellenwood, Fort Johnson, N. Y., high point winner of the Northern New York Skating association.

The 440 yard dash will open the Diamond trophy event tomorrow, followed by the 220 and one mile Sunday, and the 880 and three mile Monday.

SKATERS FROM EUROPE ARRIVE TO OPEN SHOW

Skaters of the European Ice revue, making their first American tour, arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon for their seven performance engagement opening in the Stadium Tuesday night. The company came here from Detroit, after appearing in Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Omaha, and Houston.

With the exception of Audrey Peppe of New York City, a featured soloist and former Olympic star, and Pitts and English, western pair champions, the revue company is composed entirely of Europeans. Principals include Pamela Prior, Edwina Blades, Hanny Egli, Rona and Cliff Thaell, Armand Perren, Fritz Dietl, Leonard Stewart, Jeff Stevens, Monty Stott, Sidney Spalding, and Buster Grace. All of them are well known to European audiences.

PICK SUKEFORTH AS MANAGER OF MONTREAL CLUB

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9 (AP). — Clyde Sukeforth, former Cincinnati and Brooklyn catcher, today was appointed manager of the Montreal Royals of the International Baseball league. Sukeforth, who managed Elmira in the Eastern league last year, received the appointment after President Hector Racine had considered several candidates, including Rogers Hornsby and Bill Killefer. The new manager will be in Montreal Tuesday to sign his contract.

Dizzy Comes to Town, but Not to Terms

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Dizzy Dean, a quaint fellow who acts as his own broadcasting system on a 365 day per year basis, is back in the holdout class. He doesn't want that $10,000 salary offered by his employer, P. K. Wrigley, who owns the Cubs, and who for two years exercised rare patience with his $185,000 problem chattel.

Diz, who came to town yesterday for the purpose of giving the Dean publicity touch to the Doan Baseball school, in which he is to serve as a professor in the college of pitching, saw his boss, talked for almost two hours, and came to no conclusion other than that the Great Dean considered $10,000 as small money.

Dizzy Fools 'Em, as Usual.

But Wrigley considers it a liberal wage for what he terms a "prospective pitcher" and insists he isn't going to throw out any additional bait to appease the financial hunger of the lame armed hurler who in his two seasons as a Cub won a grand total of 13 decisions.

Until Dean showed up to deliver his sales talk in front of the Wrigley desk he was thought to be a satisfied athlete who merely hadn't gone thru the formality of signing. When he received the $10,000 bid, a cut from $20,000, he swooned, but upon recovering managed to pen a letter to headquarters. Later he talked with Wrigley on the long distance phone and everything was fixed up—apparently. Dizzy was to get more money if he proved himself, but that arrangement appears to have been forgotten.

The Answer Is, "O, Yeah?"

By rating Dean as a mere prospect Wrigley gives positive indication of a change of heart. The Cub owner didn't mind paying $185,000 to the St. Louis Cardinals for Diz. He didn't mind the $20,000 salary paid in 1938 when Dean proved a flop. Neither did Wrigley consider the $20,000 salary of 1939 as wasted money. Diz drew 'em in at the gate, at least that is Wrigley's contention. Wrigley now demands that he get back to actual work.

The modest Dean, naturally, claims he is as good as he was before he burned out his arm with the Cardinals. In his customary jovial manner he assured Wrigley and all others that he was perfect physically. He's going to pitch every fourth day and win. He'll even relieve occasionally if given the chance. He's worked hard [he says] all winter to keep himself in trim. But after hearing Diz paint this picture Wrigley didn't say anything about boosting the $10,000 up to about $15,000, which is what the pitcher thinks would be fair.

Dizzy will be around until Monday, when he will pilot some of the Doan pupils to the school at Jackson, Miss. So he probably will issue a few more bulletins detailing the condition of his health or threats to stay on his farm. The Cubs' battery squad starts for Catalina Island Feb. 19 and Dean probably will be the first man on the train.

None of Wrigley's other holdouts—Augie Galan, Stan Hack, Hank Leiber, and Clay Bryant—have been heard from.

ELIZABETH HICKS WINS TOURNEY AT PALM BEACH

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—In a match marred by mediocre play on both sides, Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., won a 4 and 3 victory today in the Palm Beach women's tournament.

She overcame the penalty of shots into the rough, in sand traps and other unlikely spots to defeat Grace Amory of Palm Beach on the 15th.

YALE POLOISTS CLASH TONIGHT WITH 124TH F. A.

Polo will reach its high point of the season thus far when the Yale university trio battles the 124th Field Artillery tonight in the 124th armory. Because of the intersectional importance of the game indications are that a capacity crowd will turn out.

Arriving this morning, the Yale players will work out this morning and this afternoon. Yale this year is defending the national intercollegiate title and its record thus far has been impressive. A week ago the Elis beat Princeton, 15 to 9.

Yale's success has been due to great team play and the individual brilliance of Capt. Alan L. Corey Jr., a veteran of three years. Bill Chisholm is the chief scoring threat of the team and Sophomore Dave Wilhelm is capable in guarding the Yale goal. Wilhelm is the first Chicago player to make the Yale varsity. Paul Pattinson, a sophomore, is the alternate.

The evening's program will get under way at 8:30 o'clock when Bobby Nichoalds' Evanston Polo club team meets Jim Hannah's Oak Brook trio.

EX-ENVOY DODD IS DEAD AT 70 OF PNEUMONIA

Ambassador to Germany, He Disliked Nazis.

Round Hill, Va., Feb. 9 (AP).—Dr. William E. Dodd, 70 years old, former United States ambassador to Germany, died this afternoon at his estate here after an attack of pneumonia.

Dr. Dodd, who had suffered from a nervous disorder for several years, contracted pneumonia several days ago and was placed under an oxygen tent yesterday.

Members of the family said private funeral services would be held here on Sunday.

Historian of Note.

Born at Clayton, N. C., on Oct. 21, 1869, Dr. Dodd achieved a wide reputation as a historian before entering the diplomatic field. His ancestors had settled in North Carolina in 1745.

He was graduated from Virginia Polytechnic institute in 1895 and was an instructor in history there for the next two years. He then went to the University of Leipzig, where he won a doctor of philosophy degree in 1900.

From 1901 until 1909 Prof. Dodd taught at Randolph Macon college, leaving to take the chair of American history at the University of Chicago, where he remained until 1933.

President Roosevelt made Prof. Dodd ambassador to Germany soon after his first inauguration. Dodd was well received by President Hindenburg, but later lost his popularity with the Germans and offended President Roosevelt. His observations in the reich made him strongly anti-Nazi and he protested in 1937 that his chargé d'affaires, Prentiss Gilbert, should not be allowed to attend the Nazi party congress in Nurnberg.

Overruled by Hull.

Secretary of State Hull overruled the protest, and Prof. Dodd offered his resignation. It was accepted and took effect in January, 1938. He had previously made public his opposition to the Roosevelt court packing scheme. He had also written to several senators that "an American billionaire" was planning a dictatorial coup in the United States.

Later he became a bitter critic of the administration he represented abroad.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—WHAT FATE 'AFTER HATE DATE?

Mrs. Kresge, of Chain Store Family, Dies at Age of 100

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Catherine Kresge, 100 years old, mother of S. S. Kresge, 5 and 10 cent store operator, died today at the home of a daughter at Saylorsburg, Pa. Mrs. Kresge was born in Kresgeville, Monroe county, Pennsylvania. The community was named after Conrad Kresge, who came to this country from Europe in 1740 and of whom Mrs. Kresge was a direct descendant. Mrs. Kresge's mother died in 1919 at the age of 101.

CHURCH FINANCES UNSOUND, LANDON WARNS LAYMEN

Talks at First Session of Chicago Group.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Alfred M. Landon, Republican nominee for President in 1936, launched the organization of the laymen's council of the Chicago Church federation yesterday by warning against what he called the appalling financial situation of American churches. He spoke in the Morrison hotel before 600 laymen of a score of denominations.

Landon asserted that ecclesiastical leaders of churches often are unwilling to face changing financial situations and to retrench, as business does. This retrenchment is necessary, he explained, to advance when economic conditions are more favorable.

Tells Home Town Problems.

He referred to his home town church in Kansas with its 2,500 members and its debt which takes $3,000 annually in interest charges. To pay this interest, Landon explained, means that assistance for the pastor in spiritual ministrations, educational program, and needed expansion of church activities is impossible. He added that similar situations prevail over the country, but that church conference and other authorities have failed to face such situations except where foreclosures are threatened.

In discussing the plight of many downtown churches in large cities Landon said that these must be supported to a large extent thru special financing efforts among laity. He explained that many of these have had to close their doors just at a time when need for them was greatest.

Urges Merger Plans.

On the other hand, Landon pointed to overlapping of functions and competition in overchurched small towns, and said laymen working closely with the clergy should prepare merger programs.

"Denominations in their national meetings, such as we of the Methodist church had last spring in Kansas City, should give a great deal of thought to problems like these," Landon said. "But down at Kansas City there was no attempt at an adequate study of these matters."

"In this critical situation I am going to get down to brass tacks and talk about the appalling financial situation of our churches," said Landon. "Ministers are aware of it, but they are unable to do anything about it without the laymen's help.

Laymen's Problem, Says Landon.

"Churches are in the same situation as many businesses. They overexpanded. We, as laymen, must assist the churches, so that they, like business concerns, may shape their financial policies to meet the new situation. Thus far there has not been by churchmen. We must face problems of retrenchment so as to be in shape for advance that will finally come."

Oscar C. Hagan, chairman of the new laymen's council, presided. Roy G. Ross, head of the International Council of Religious Education, which is meeting this week at the Hotel Stevens, outlined an interchurch crusade, led by the council, to attempt to take Christian teaching to every boy and girl in America.

O'LEARY VISITOR ON DAY OF GREAT FIRE DIES AT 80

Mrs. Ellen Griffin, widow of Sergt. James J. Griffin of the police department, died yesterday at the age of 80 in her home at 6111 Rhodes avenue. Mrs. Griffin was born in Chicago at 537 Taylor street, and was a friend of Mrs. O'Leary, whose cow is blamed for starting the great fire of 1871.

At the time of the fire Mrs. Griffin lived near the O'Leary residence on DeKoven street. She regularly visited Mrs. O'Leary to purchase milk, and often told how she visited the home 30 minutes before the fire started. She always insisted that the cow was to blame, altho some historians take a different view.

Mrs. Griffin is survived by three sons, George L., an attorney for the Chicago Surface Lines; Gerald F., a member of the fire department, and James J., deputy clerk of the Municipal court. The funeral will be held Monday at 10 a. m. from the residence to St. Anselm's church, 61st street and Michigan avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

POLICY MISSING 25 YEARS PAYS $500 TO WIDOW

Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Helma Korpi and her husband, Edward, hid an insurance policy away and forgot it. A few weeks ago the document was found. Altho the company that issued it has long been defunct Mrs. Korpi has collected $500 for the death of her husband in 1919.

The issuing company was the Finnish Mutual Life. The Korpis had paid only two years' premiums when the concern collapsed in 1915. They failed to note that the policy contained a five year extension clause. The Finnish Mutual obligations were taken over by the Preferred Life Insurance company of Grand Rapids, Mich., which in turn went into the possession of the Merchants Life of Des Moines, Ia.

That company went out of business in 1928 and its obligations were assumed by the Lincoln National Life company of Fort Wayne, Ind. Mrs. Korpi, who is a maid in a Lake Forest home, found the policy in a bread box. The $500 was paid her yesterday.

SOARING FLYERS OF 4 STATES TO MEET TONIGHT

Soaring and gliding euthusiasts from four states will meet in the Hotel Sherman tonight for the annual winter conference of the Chicagoland Glider council. Tomorrow a score of crack sailplane pilots will give a demonstration of motorless flying at Elmhurst airport.

Speakers tonight are to be Ralph Barnaby from the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia, and Shelly Charles, first pilot for Eastern Airlines on the Chicago-Atlanta division and an expert soaring flyer.

Nine sleek soaring ships have arrived in Chicago for tomorrow's demonstration flights. Several are German high performance planes. One of the soarers will be the Minemoa ship of Ted Bellak, who soared across Lake Michigan last summer. Bellak is to fly this and another type of soaring ship in the exhibition.

DIES FROM LEG RUPTURE.

OBITUARIES

The Rt. Rev. John Dettmer.

2,500 WILL GET JOBS TAKING 1940 CHICAGO CENSUS

Start Work April 2; Supervisors Named.

Plans for hiring 2,500 enumerators to take the 1940 census in the Chicago area were announced yesterday by George W. Schreech, area supervisor for the United States census bureau. The area includes Cook and Lake counties in Illinois and Lake county in Indiana.

The census taking will start April 2. Enumerators, working on a piecework basis, will get 4 cents for each name on their list. All will work for about two weeks on the job, except 140 enumerators already at work on the business and manufacturing census in the area.

No Limit on Work Hours.

Under the piece-work system, each enumerator will be required to work a minimum of eight hours a day, but they may work as many hours as they please. Private employers who use the piece-work system are required to hold to the maximum and minimum hours provisions of the federal wages and hours act.

In Washington, census bureau officials said census enumerators are not covered by the wage-hour law because they are government employés and all government employés specifically are exempted from provisions of the law.

Schreech announced the appointment of Ralph L. Goodman, advertising executive and chairman of the business research committee of the Association of Commerce, as chairman of a citizen's committee which will advise on census activities in this area. The appointment was made by Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce.

District Supervisors Appointed.

In addition, 16 district supervisors were appointed. These supervisors must attend a census school from Feb. 26 to March 7 and pass an examination before qualifying for their jobs. They have been authorized, however, to open district field offices and to receive applications for census enumerators.

The district supervisors will receive a base pay of $2,000 for their work, which will extend over a 3½ month period. Schreech said. In addition they will receive a fraction of a cent for each name obtained.

In the previous census, in 1930, the enumerators received an average of $30 a week on the piece work basis. A few made as much as $65 a week. In the rural areas, where the work will proceed more slowly, the enumerators will work for a month; in the city they will be employed for about two weeks.

How to Apply for Job.

Persons wishing to apply for enumerator jobs must be citizens between 21 and 65 years of age, and have a high school education or its equivalent, Screech said. They should address their applications to the office of the district in which they live.

James A. McLendon, 3456-58 South State street; W. T. Birmingham, 5512 Harper avenue; Samuel M. Sher, 334 West 63d street; Arthur A. Hinz, 4925 South Western avenue; Bernard A. Weaver, 1833 Blue Island avenue; Gabriel Goldberg, 3157 Roosevelt road; Walter Schuhknecht, 3600 Fullerton avenue; Guy De Filippis, 809 Madison street; Thomas J. CUBA SELLS ITS SUGAR HERE, BUT SPENDS LITTLE Machine Orders Go to Other Nations.

[This is the fourth in a series of stories discussing the effects of the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties on agriculture and industry in the south and central west.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Sixty or 75 years ago, when the mule was as much a part of the sugar industry as was the darky with his cane knife, there were hundreds of plantation sugar mills scattered thru Louisiana and Florida.

C. A. Farwell states case against Cuban treaty.

These mills were primitive. There was a central hopper into which the sugar-laden stalks were fed. Grinding machinery was turned by the mule, harnessed to a long boom, which walked around and around the mill. These grinders and the open kettles in which the cane juice was boiled were inefficient, wasteful, and slow.

The Mule Loses His Job.

When development finally began it was swift. The mule lost his grinding job. Since 1900 the number of mills in Louisiana alone has dropped from 307 of all sizes to 70 large ones that grind thousands of tons of cane a day with modern machinery, of which this country has become the foremost producer. It is this machinery that has become one of the issues in the industry's fight against the Hull reciprocal trade treaties with Cuba and several South American countries.

The American Sugar Cane league, centering its attack upon Cuba, charges that in 1937-'38 the island's 160 mills purchased only one-eighth as much American machinery as did the Louisiana industry alone. And Cuba's mills operate six months a year, while Louisiana's 70 run only three months.

"The United States has granted Cuba preferential treatment on her sugar amounting to more than 35 million dollars a year," said Charles A. Farwell of New Orleans, chairman of the league's educational committee. "In spite of this we find, on examination of the official reports of the department of commerce, that in 1937 the 160 Cuban mills bought only $521,000 worth of sugar mill machinery from the United States. In 1938 they took $198,000 worth.

Louisiana Purchases Heavier.

"For comparative purposes we gathered similar statistics concerning the 70 mills in Louisiana. We found that altho Louisiana produces only one-sixth as much sugar as Cuba, she purchased $4,016,595 worth of equipment in 1937 and $2,929,943 worth in 1938—a total of $6,946,538 for the two years and eight times the amount Cuba bought in the same period."

Farwell said his organization had canvassed every American manufacturer of sugar mill machinery, asking how much each had sold to Cuba and South America. With the exception of the Cuban purchases mentioned above, none had sold any. It was then that Farwell obtained a clew to where the business was going.

A catalog of the Krupp Grusonwerk Manufacturing company of Magdeburg, Germany, came into his hands. In it were illustrations showing sugar machinery valued at millions of dollars bearing such notations as: "Supplied to Peru," "In a large factory in South America," "To Argentina," "For Venezuela," and "In large factory in Central America."

Many Replacements Made.

There was no mention of Cuba, but the Sugar Cane league has established that the Cuban mills constantly are making replacements—and that only a small part of these are bought from American manufacturers.

Cuba's failure to reciprocate thru machinery purchases is only one of the several instances cited by the league in its charges that the island dictatorship is abusing the preferred position it occupies, to the detriment of the domestic industry.

"Cuba is ever ready to gouge the American consumer," Farwell asserted. "She succeeded once, in 1920, and was ready to try it again in 1939 and would have had the domes-

American Pork Gives Canada Tariff Worry

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Canadian government, it became known tonight, is considering what steps, if any, should be taken with regard to increased imports of American pork products. Such imports into Canada have expanded since heavy dominion exports to the United Kingdom have boosted prices in the dominion over those of the United States.

Largely because of the prices being paid for Canadian bacon and hams by Great Britain, live hog prices are running approximately 3 cents a pound higher in Canada than in the United States.

It is not feasible to bring live hogs from the United States into Canada because of dominion health regulations, marketing experts said. But approximately 25,000,000 pounds of American pork products were imported in 1939. The imports in December reached almost 5,000,000 pounds and will be higher in January, it was stated.

Drawback Offsets Duty.

Under the Canada-United States trade agreement the Canadian duty on pork products is 1¼ cents a pound, but under an existing order in council packers bringing in American pork products and exporting Canadian bacon are entitled to a drawback [a form of refund] of 99 per cent, which means that much American pork could come in almost duty free.

However, the present spread in live hog prices is sufficient to make importation of pork profitable even over the duty, transportation costs and the premium on United States funds without the drawback, one market official said.

Could Revise Drawbacks.

It is said the only action Canada could take would be to revise the drawbacks, because the tariff rates are fixed by treaty. The bacon board will prepare a report on the situation.

Canada has undertaken to ship 5,600,000 pounds of bacon and ham weekly to supply the British market. Canadian farmers have been urged to increase production.

To carry out the program, agriculture officials say, present Canadian prices must continue and unless American prices go higher there will be the constant threat of supplying Canadian market with imported products.

Until last year the flow of pork products was from Canada to the United States, totaling 21,400,000 pounds in 1938. Such exports last year were negligible.

The district's gain for the four weeks ended Feb. 3 was 8.3 per cent.

Carnegie Gary Plant to Build 142 Coke Ovens

Plans for construction of 142 new Koppers-Becker coke ovens at the Gary plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation were disclosed yesterday. Altho no official announcement of the new program was made, it was reported that the Koppers company, Pittsburgh manufacturer of coke and gas plant equipment, has received the contract and that construction is to begin shortly.

The construction program provides for two batteries of 71 ovens each, to place old equipment. The cost of the ovens was estimated at more than $5,000,000.

The ovens will be used to supply gas and coke for use in the manufacture of steel. By-products of the process include benzol, tar, and light oils. The project is expected to give employment to a large number of Chicago district workers.

Six Oil Tankers to Be Built.

Another large new industrial project was disclosed in an announcement by the maritime commission of plans for the construction of six new oil tankers, part of a 24 tanker program to be undertaken by private operators with the commission paying the cost of certain defense features.

The new group of six will be built by the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., of New York. The vessels will be about 500 feet over all with a beam of 68 feet, a designed speed of 16½ knots and single screw propulsion. All are being designed for quick conversion into navy auxiliaries.

Nine ships of the first 12 in the program have been launched, and three are nearing completion. These tankers, described by the commission as the largest and fastest in the world, were built by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey at a cost of $3,129,667 each. The commission paid $880,250 toward the cost of each vessel.

Japan Places Pulp Order.

Henry T. Carruth, general manager of the Brown company, Portland, Me., announced that the pulp manufacturing company had received a "substantial" order for pulp from Japan.

The order, Carruth said, will permit the resumption of shipments to Japan after a lapse of 14 months. The transaction was reported to be for several thousand pounds, shipment of which will begin in the second quarter of this year.

TEXAS COMPANY FINISHES 4 NEW ILLINOIS WELLS

Centralia, Ill., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Texas company today announced completion of four new oil wells in the Lake Centralia-Salem field, three of them among the largest drilled in Illinois.

Largest of the four was the No. 14 R. Shanafelt, which flowed 4,798 barrels in 13 hours, or at the rate of 8,880 barrels a day. All four were producing from the Devonian lime. The others were the No. 21 McCullom, which flowed 1,077 barrels in three hours, or at the rate of 8,616 barrels a day; the No. 18 Freisner, which flowed 2,859 barrels in nine hours, or at the rate of 7,632 barrels a day, and the No. 21 W. Friedrich, which flowed 820 barrels in three hours, or at the rate of 6,552 barrels a day.

Production of the first three has been exceeded only by Paul Rossi's No. 9 Brooks, which flowed at the rate of more than 10,000 barrels a day.

Ford Wins Fight to Avoid Colorado Chain Store Tax

Denver, Colo., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Ford Motor company won today in Denver District court a fight to avoid payment of approximately $200,000 in chain store taxes to the state of Colorado. Judge Henry A. Hicks ruled the connection between a motor car manufacturer and his dealers is not a chain store relationship and that therefore the manufacturer is not liable to the chain store license fee.

Halsted Exchange National Shifts $50,000 to Surplus

Directors of the Halsted Exchange National bank of Chicago yesterday voted to transfer $50,000 from undivided profits to the surplus account, R. E. Law, president of the bank, announced. This makes the surplus account $250,000. In 1937 it was $100,000. At the end of 1939, undivided profits totaled $53,208. Deposits totaled $8,006,059, setting a record.

FIND UTILITIES WOULD HAVE MADE 4 MILLION LAST YEAR IF MERGED

The merger proposal of Central and South West Utilities company and American Public Service company shows that the merged company, if it had been in existence, would have made consolidated net profit of $4,247,437, or $3.08 a common share, in the year ended Nov. 30, 1939, study of the plan disclosed yesterday.

The account was based on profits of the two present companies. It reflected annual interest charges after giving effect to the refinancing of Southwestern Light and Power company, the adjustment of bond discount and amortization expense programs to those in effect on Nov. 30, 1939, and the adjustment of income taxes to 1940 rates.

The companies, both Middle West corporation subsidiaries, presented their merger plan to the Securities and Exchange commission Thursday. The new company would issue 5½ per cent $100 par preferred stock and $15 par common stock. Holders of American Public Service preferred would receive 2½ common shares and three-fourths of a preferred share for each share held. Holders of Central and South West $7 preferred would receive 4 common shares for each share held.

WHEAT CROSSES DOLLAR LEVEL, THEN LOSES GAIN

Dollar wheat made its appearance for a brief period on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. The May contract advanced 1 cent early to $1.00⅞, highest since Jan. 22, on aggressive buying by shorts before liberal selling developed. Closing prices were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower for wheat.

Oats again showed independent strength, with May advancing ⅜ cent early to 40⅝ cents, a new high level for the season. Profit taking caused a reaction from the top, with the finish ¼ to⅜ cent lower. Corn finished ⅝ to ⅔ cents lower and rye was unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

The wheat market was full of cross currents. Zero temperatures in parts of Nebraska and northern Kansas led to fears of crop damage, but this was largely offset by a forecast for warmer weather. Reports were current that politicians in the three western provinces had opened negotiations with the Dominion government seeking to have the latter establish a guaranteed minimum price on the 1940 harvest.

Russia Boosts Its Purchases from America

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Russian purchases, largely of metals, from the United States are running more than $1,000,000 a month higher than last year, informed trade sources disclosed toda,.

Russia, these authorities said, is employing the Pacific as the highway for this trade, shipping almost everything from the west coast to Vladivostok, the eastern terminal of the Trans-Siberian railway.

Copper and lead are among the foremost items on the Russian import list. Both Russian and American ships are engaged in the trade.

Trade Set at 1938 Level.

An official of Amtorg Trading Corp., the soviet purchasing agency, said the present rate of shipping of all varieties of American exports to Russia is "about the same as in 1938 when Russia bought more than $69,000,000 worth of American goods." Last year Russia bought only about $56,000,000 worth of products.

The Russian agent explained that much of the copper was for use in the soviet's electric power development "in the far east where previously there was hardly any electric power."

He said: "Shipments are made by water to the far east because of the lower cost compared with rail shipments across the whole of the soviet republic."

Other shipping sources observed that shipments across the Pacific were far less subject to the dangers of war than those across the Atlantic.

Ancient Port Reawakened.

One of the by-products of the increased rate of Russian purchases is the sudden emergence to prominence of the ancient, sleepy and beautiful Mexican port of Manzanillo into international importance.

Manzanillo, well sheltered from the rigors of war and politics, is being used these days as a haven of transshipping. Freighters destined for Vladivostok are met at the Mexican wharves by American ships bearing cargoes. There the cargoes are shifted and the Russian boats start out for home while the American vessels go back for more metals.

Down along the Manzanillo docks, it is rumored that some of the cargoes are destined for Germany and for the Red army in Finland, but nobody has offered any official announcement along such lines. Just about as many ships are loading in New Jersey and sailing for Russia by way of the Panama canal.

Shun Defeatist View, Gifford Tells Chicago

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago's business leaders should stand fast in support of the methods that made both the city and nation great, speakers declared last night at the 36th anniversary dinner of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Stevens hotel. About 1,000 persons attended the dinner, which had for its purpose the honoring of the city's leading business executives.

Walter S. Gifford.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, New York, and Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company, Chicago, both stressed the need for the nation to rely on private initiative and private enterprise to solve its problems. Both condemned the tendency to cry to the government for aid when things go wrong.

Gifford Assails Defeatism.

"Our main problems in the United States are too much unemployment and too many unbalanced budgets," said Gifford. "They are the outgrowth of the depression which has had as one of its most distinguishing features an extraordinary amount of defeatism. I have heard this defeatism expressed in all lines of activity and even in places where there was little hurt from the depression.

"I don't understand it. This attitude is the opposite of that held by those who during the 1920s said the boom would never end. I believe both groups are wrong. I do not think there is the slightest excuse for any attitude of defeatism in our nation. It is up to our business and other leaders to have every ounce of faith in our future. I suppose that a large part of my own faith comes from the inspiration I received here in Chicago where I started my business career. That is one thing that Chicago has—faith in itself. I look forward to the day when just as the boom stopped so will all our troubles stop."

Recalls First Job in Chicago.

Gifford recalled his first job in Chicago 36 years ago when the city's telephone company had 3,400 employés compared with 15,000 now, and when the value of its property was $11,000,000 compared with $218,000,000 now. He went to the Western Electric company at 19 after his graduation from Harvard.

Randall said that the time has come for business to oppose centralization of power. The trouble has been, he said, that a large part of the nation has been gripped by fear during the last 10 years. During this period, he said, many have sought to get a collective security, not realizing that by so doing they were surrendering their liberty.

"I believe free enterprise and the competitive system is the same thing as democracy," he declared.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Bethlehem Steel corporation filed a registration statement with the securities commission today covering a total of $105,000,000 of new issues in one of the largest refunding projects brought before the SEC in several months.

The division of the aggregate between series G and H will be disclosed in an amendment to the original statement, the company said.

Principal underwriters were listed as Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Smith, Barney & Co., both of New York, and Mellon Securities corporation of Pittsburgh.

FIND INSURANCE FIRMS DRIVEN TO FEDERAL BONDS

Effect of New Deal Policies Traced.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The effect of administration policy on the operations of the nation's leading life insurance companies is vividly shown in a special study of these companies released today by the securities and exchange commission.

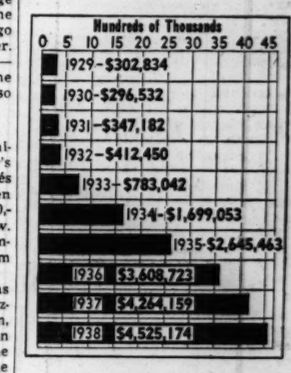
The comprehensive statistics contained in more than 300 pages of tables reveal that insurance companies were driven more and more into investment in United States government bonds because of the government's easy money policy. The report also shows a sharp increase in the amount of bonds bought privately from issuers between 1932 and 1938, because of the red tape and costs involved in public offering since the SEC was established as overlord of the securities markets.

Covers 26 Companies.

The report covers 26 legal reserve life insurance companies in the the United States and presents detailed comparative data on investmen s and operating results over the 10 year period between 1929 and 1938.

Altho prepared as part of the SEC's study of life insurance for the temporary national economic [monopoly] committee, it presents no conclusions or recommendations. Futhermore, the SEC carefully noted that the report has not yet been approved by the monopoly investigating committee.

These qualifications indicated a more cautious attitude in the SEC's insurance investigation, especially since SEC investigators overstepped



Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Efforts of the stock market to duplicate yesterday's upswing met with profit selling resistance today and early gains of fractions to more than 2 points for leaders were cut substantially or even replaced with losses at the close.

It was a session of frequent rallies and dips. It was noticeable, however, that activity was all on the side of the rise. In reactionary intervals volume dwindled appreciably.

New highs for the year or longer were posted for Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred, Cluett Peabody, Atlas Powder, Loft, and Studebaker.

Up 1 to more than 2 were Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, du Pont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, and Philip Morris.

Holding minor advances were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Western Union, Union Pacific, Johns-Manville, Kennecott, and Texas corporation.

Easier were United States Steel, General Motors, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Anaconda, Eastman Kodak, United States Rubber, and Canada Dry.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—The bond market had the benefit of numerous special situations today wherein buyers bid actively for selected issues and pulled the entire list up with them.

Trading reached an exciting pitch in Brooklyn-Manhattan 4½s regular and certificates as new mathematical formulas were tried in figuring what holders would eventually get from the city of New York if and when the system is finally taken over. Both certificates and bonds reached new highs for the year or longer.

Radio-Keith 6s likewise rose rapidly, but the volume was light. The issue went to a new high at 62⅝, up 4⅜. Porto Rican American Tobacco stamped and unstamped 6s continued to march ahead for gains of 1½ to 1⅝ points.

United States government obligations did little. A few treasury loans were up 4/32 of a point or so against an equal number of similar declines.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago Stock Exchange securities continued their upward climb yesterday on transactions of 44,000 shares. Sixty-four of the 120 issues advanced, 23 declined, and 33 remained unchanged.

New highs again included Central and South West prior lien preferred, which advanced one point to 120. Dixie Vortex went to 35⅛ on a gain of ¼, and Kentucky Utilities 6 per cent preferred reached a new peak of 103 on an advance of ⅜.

Volume leaders were Central and South West common, closing at ¼, down ⅛; Chicago corporation, 1½, unchanged; Commonwealth Edison, 32¾, unchanged, and General Motors, 54⅜, down ¼.

Bank Stocks.

Two major issues advanced in bank stock trading yesterday. City National gained a point to a closing bid of 113 and Harris Trust rose one to 298. Continental Illinois declined half a point to 89. Other issues were steady.

CUBA SELLS ITS SUGAR HERE, BUT SPENDS LITTLE

Orders for Machinery Go to Other Nations.

Farwell said he referred to the spring of 1920 when there was a sugar scarcity in the United States, due to the world war. Cuba drove up the price from 6½ cents a pound to 23 cents by refusing to ship to this country until its price objective had been attained. Before an adjustment was effected, the retail price had gone to 30 cents a pound in some localities.

When war was declared in Europe last Sept. 3, Cuba again stopped selling to this country. The price rose from $2.90 to $3.90 a hundred pounds. On Sept. 11 President Roosevelt removed the marketing restrictions imposed upon the domestic industry, thus making available 800,000 tons of sugar reserves. The wild rise was checked and within 30 days the price was back within normal limits, Farwell asserted.

But the result of the President's proclamation is that the domestic sugar industry is in a predicament similar to the one it faced when the 1937 sugar act took effect. Inasmuch as the President's order contemplated no acreage restriction for the 1940 crop and came in the middle of the cane planting season, the farmers restored their acreage to the normal limits.

Cuban Duties Lowered.

Then, late in December, the industry received two "Christmas presents" from the administration. It was announced that under a new reciprocal trade treaty, the duty on Cuban sugar again had been lowered to 90 cents a hundred from $1.50 a hundred, to which it rose when the President removed the quota restrictions in September. [This reduction, which affected thousands of tons of sugar Cuba had stored in bond in this country, deprived the treasury of $4,800,000 in duty, the Sugar Cane league estimates.]

In addition, Cuba was permitted to ship in 400,000 tons which were not charged against her 1940 quota. Shortly afterward the domestic industry got its second Christmas present. A presidential proclamation put the quota system, with its attendant restrictions, back into effect, as of Jan. 1. It is estimated that unless action is taken by congress Louisiana will plow up 50,000 acres of growing sugar cane this spring.

The Cummings committee of the house, which is studying sugar industry affairs, received on Jan. 9 the Ellender-Mouton bill which seeks to increase the domestic quota for 1940 sufficiently to avert destruction of this food crop.

Bill Asks for Expansion.

The measure also asks that the continental [United States] industry be allowed to expand at the rate of 5 per cent a year for five years. Agricultural experts of Louisiana State university say this could be done without upsetting the agricultural economy of the state.

Rounding out its case against Cuba, the league charges that for three years the island has been cheating on its low tariff [.024 cents a pound of total sugars] on black strap molasses.

Fully half of the imports have been in the form of high test molasses, which is partially inverted syrup obtained from surplus cane and from which no sugar has been extracted, the league asserts. Due to the low tariff rate [for true blackstrap] this high test product has come into wide use by candy manufacturers and others who customarily convert sugar into sirup.

Studies not yet complete indicate high test blackstrap is hurting the corn refining processors of the central west more than the cane and beet sugar industries. [Corn syrup is widely used in the manufacture of candies, especially candy bars, and other confections.]

Mule Just Can't Do It.

But back to the mule. American cane planters who face the prospect of plowing up 50,000 acres this spring are loathe to start for more reasons than one. Those who use mules say, from experience, it is a battle with the beast from start to finish. He has been trained—with the whip—to walk between the rows and not injure the young cane. To plow it up he must walk on the rows.

"He doesn't understand," said F. Evans Farwell of the New Orleans sugar concern of Millikin & Farwell. "He stops and looks back at the farmer. He steps out of the row until he is whipped back into it. One cane farmer said to me, 'My old mule Joe is a better farmer than Henry Wallace ever will be!'".

Tomorrow—How the United States could increase its sugar production and how the producer and labor have been injured by the control program and trade treaties.

CHOCOLATE AND SYRUP.

Altho the common stock of the Hershey Chocolate corporation is listed on the New York Stock exchange, I understand the stock is closely held. Who is the largest stockholder? A report on the company would be appreciated.—A. T.

Answer: The majority of the common shares of the Hershey Chocolate corporation is held by the Hershey Trust company for the benefit of the Hershey Industrial School for Orphan Boys. The orphanage was established in 1905 by Milton S. Hershey, chairman of the board of the company. In 1918 he transferred his entire interest in the candy business to a trust for the school.

Of the 685,749 shares of no par common stock and the 253,844 shares of convertible preference stock outstanding at the end of 1938 [the latest figures available], 512,200 common shares and 8,624 preference shares were held in trust for the industrial school. The company has no funded debt.

Hershey is the leading domestic manufacturer of chocolate and cocoa products. It makes chocolate bars, breakfast cocoa, chocolate syrup, and other confections sold under its trade name in packages or in bulk. Most of the sales are of packaged candy.

The business was founded by Hershey in 1893 and the present company was incorporated in 1927 to succeed the original firm. The company's large manufacturing plant is situated in Hershey, Pa., in the midst of a dairy farm region which supplies the plant's milk requirements. Part of its sugar needs is obtained from the Cuban plantation owned by Hershey.

Earnings of the company have been fairly stable since 1931 except in 1937 when net income slumped sharply. Consolidated net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per common share in recent years follow:

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Colder weather, moderate receipts, and reports that Canadian packers have closed several large contracts with packers in the United States for the immediate delivery to Canada of dressed carcasses stimulated buying of light and light butcher hogs at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. Prices were strong to higher.

Advances of 10 to 15 cents were scored in stock weighing downward from 230 pounds, with some of the recently neglected lights and pigs as much as 25 cents higher for the day. Other hogs were slower to move. Both the top and average moved up 10 cents to $5.65 and $5.15, respectively.
